THE OPENING SKIRMISH.

WISCONSIN COMRADES:

A little more than a year ago, suddenly and unexpectedly, the "Wisconsin Soldiers Reunion Association" was born into existence.

Unheralded, lacking ancestry, without dowery, no father, no mother, or even respectable claim to bona fide orphanage, it appeared before us.

If there be among you those who think the charge of this foundling, should have been placed with an older, abler, and more worthy soldier, the sentiment meets my most hearty concurrence.

Except for the kind and continuous aid, extended from all sides, by soldier hands and veteran hearts, the child could scarcely have survived its infancy.

But it had friends—friends by the tens of thousands, scattered here and there all over the world, where Wisconsin comrades might be.

Yet—how to find them?

The newspapers—the patriotic, enterprising publishers, threw wide open their columns—free as the air we breathe; and no absent soldier was so far away, or so secluded, but they found him and told him of this new born waif, claiming recognition.

Did the soldiers deny the relationship? No! from the entire circuit of this big world came the ringing response:

"I am proud to say I was a Wisconsin Soldier."

In this volume all are gathered. Without the aid of newspaper ink, years of toil and thousands of money could not have produced this roster.

But after they had come, these letters and cards, by the bushels and baskets full! thiuk of it! the cost of time, labor, money. To assort, arrange, copy, compare, and recopy, and the expense of publication, would have placed the volume beyond the reach of many.

To prevent this—loyal, enterprising, liberal, BUSINESS MEN, the leading firms and corporations, opened their purses.

Don't forget them. When you are in need of anything, from a Threshing Machine to an Insurance Policy, look within and patronize those who patronized you.

SOLDIERS:

In the near future, one by one, we shall be called to join those of our former associates, who on the field of battle, in hospital or in prison, gave up their lives "that the nation might live."

Ere another roll-call, the ranks of surviving Wisconsin veterans, now numbering less than one-quarter their original strength, will surely and rapidly be still further depleted. May we not hope—soldier comrades—these reunions are not confined to those in this life alone: but that as we gather to-day in social greetings, those long since gone—the departed ones—the brave, the true, the kind and generous boys, we knew so well—also come: are with us, around and about us——

"Even they,
The dead, though dead so dear,
Fond Memory to her duty true,
Brings back each manly form to view.
We see them as in times long past,
From each to each, kind looks are cast,
We hear their words, their smiles behold—
They are with us, as they were of old."

COMRADES AND FRIENDS:

For countless favors received at your hands, accept sentiments of keenest appreciation and gratitude from me; and in this life, and the life to come may Heaven's choicest blessings rest upon you, and yours, time without end.

FARGO'S PATENT SOLID STEEL V-SHAPED TOOTH.

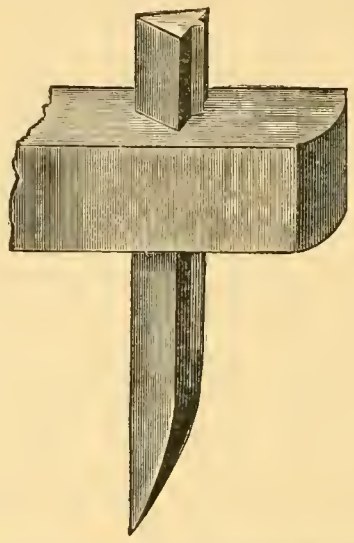
THE V-SHAPED TOOTH

Presents a sharp edge to the soil, which materially lessens the draft over any other form of tooth.

Every principle of mechanical science declares the V-shape to give greater strength to same weight of metal than any other form.

Having a V shaped rib on the back, makes it self-fastening, and it is the simplest and most perfect method known to mechanics.

The tooth being sharpened from the rear, (a principle not found in any other,) presents a flat, smooth surface, when drawn backward, which makes a most perfect smoothing and weeding harrow.



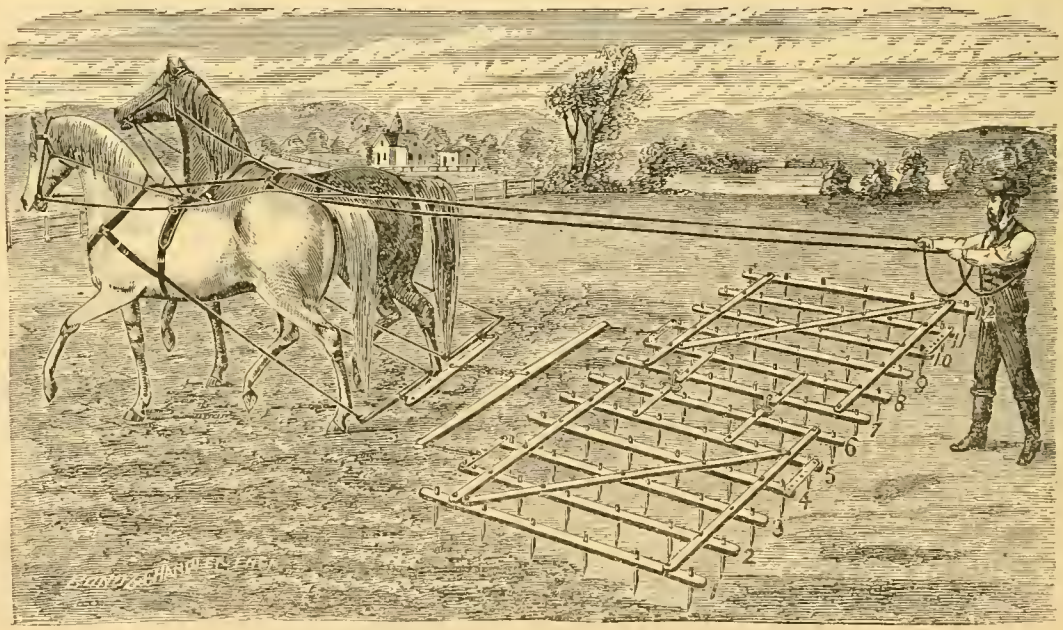
PRACTICAL FARMERS SAY

Fargo's Solid Steel V-Shaped Tooth Harrow.

Will do MORE work and EASIER—
Will do BETTER work and FASTER—
Will make a HANDSOMER job, and a NEATER,
Will produce a quicker yield and a GREATER,
Will do more KINDS of work, and READIER—
Will take less REPAIRS, and last LONGER—
THAN ANY OTHER HARROW KNOWN TO MODERN CIVILIZATION.

MAKES THE BEST HARROW IN THE WORLD.

THE CHEAPEST HARROW IN MARKET.



THE LIGHTEST AND MOST DURABLE.

By having two sets of drawing irons it becomes at once a harrow—a cultivator—a pulverizer—a leveler and a smoothing machine. Five in one. Besides the above advantages peculiar to this harrow and nowhere else found, it has ALL THE MERITS of other approved harrows as to vibrating motion—steady shake—self-cleaning—oscillating hinges—number of teeth—bars and sections—lightness—draft—durability and size. The metal is solid steel, the wood best seasoned oak, the work honest and thorough in every respect. In a word this harrow may truthfully be said to combine with its OWN SUPERIOR QUALITIES the EXCELLENCIES OF ALL OTHERS without their objectionable features.

THE WISCONSIN SOLDIERS REUNION ASSOCIATION.

HOW IT COMMENCED---WITH A STORY.

Capt. C —, of Janesville, was one of the nicest men who ever lived. but his age alone placed him among the counsellors, rather than the warriors, of his country; and beside, although brave as the bravest, he was nervous to such an extent that in cases of sudden emergency he was apt to "go off his feet" and give orders to his company which would baffle Hardee himself to either duplicate or execute.

During Grant's rapid and tedious flank movement from Cold Harbor to Petersburg, in 1864, the men became extremely exhausted and footsore. As the inevitable result, intervals were extended and stragglers multiplied, until a company occupied space sufficient to execute brigade evolutions. Now and then, as firing in the advance became sharper or more continuous, a staff officer or orderly would come galloping down the line with "compliments of the commanding general who directs your men be well closed up. ready to go into battle at a moment's notice."

These orders interpreted and passed along, served for a while to keep the men closer together, but repeated false alarms soon made them heedless and they quickly relapsed back into former, or even worse, disorder. At one time when the firing had been unusually heavy and prolonged, and the orders to keep men well in hand, came more frequent and positive, the colonel of Capt. C's regiment drew out from the column, and, as the various companies passed, he called the attention of respective captains to the necessity of complying with the order, as the enemy were liable to engage us at any moment. Capt. C. came along at the head of his company, begrimed with dust and half staggering under his load of knapsacks and muskets which the kindness of his heart prompted him to carry for some of his sick and blistered soldiers. The colonel said rather sharply, "Captain, did you know we are both liable to court martial, for disobedience to orders, in not keeping the men closed up?" This, of course, operated as a complete upset. Dropping his load, with sword in one hand and hat in the other, he turned and shouted: "Company H, for G-o-d's s-a-k-e, c-l-o-s-e u-p," and then as he comprehended the immense distance over which the men were spread he added: "Great H-e-a-v-e-n-s! if the rebels were to suddenly fire upon you, scattered as you are, they couldn't hit a d-a-m-n-e-d one of you."

JANUARY 1ST, 1880,

Nearly fifteen years after the close of the war, the surviving soldiers and sailors of Wisconsin scattered in every clime and latitude were very much in the condition of company H, as stated by Captain C.

If, for social, business, or other reasons, a comrade desired to find another who had moved from his former residence, the chances strongly were he couldn't find a b-l-e-s-s-e d one of them. This fact, together with the strong sentiment of fello hip which every good soldier feels toward another good one, even though they never met, and the disinclination on part of the soldiers to allow the union sentiment to die out,or certainly not until they, too, were dead, prompted action as shown by the following card, which was very generally and freely published by leading and local newspapers throughout the United States and territories:

WISCONSIN SOLDIERS.

Soldiers:—At a meeting of old comrades, held at Berlin, Jan. 1, there was organized the Wisconsin Reunion Association. Every surviving soldier or sailor who enlisted from Wisconsin and was honorably discharged from the United States military or naval service is earnestly requested to write upon a postal card his name, occupation, P. O. address, letter of company or companies, number of regiment or regiments, in which he served, and send it to Griff. J. Thomas, Secretary of the Wisconsin Reunion Association, Berlin, Wis., who will arrange a complete roster, in alphabetical order by company and regiment, for record and publication. Sailors will give name of boat or boats on which they served.

Comrades! Attend to this at once, or we shall not know whether you are dead, proud, or gone to Texas. C. K. Pier, President.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Jan. 11, 1879.

The result is simply marvelous. The war itself, the material of the immense armies contending, their defeats and victories, and their final disbandment, are each historic wonders. But the subsequent histories of the survivors of that war form an equal, if not greater and more entertaining, subject of investigation and study.

To the surviving soldier there is nothing which more promptly calls and holds his attention. Into the grand army of the Union, Wisconsin sent 91,-379 of her sons. Of these, 74,891 were honorably discharged and returned to their homes. It is probable (an estimate of course) that not more than 30,000 are still living.

Where are they all? What are they doing? What standard of citizens are they making? In short, "how are the boys getting on, anyway?" To answer these questions this little card invoked the aid of American newspapers. Right grandly was that aid extended, and right soldierly have the returns responded "here." From every state and territory, from Mexico, South America, Europe and the Islands of the sea, in every style of language and expression, with endless inquiries, and every variety of information, the soldiers send back their ringing responses.

IN THIS VOLUME

You have the names alphabetically arranged by regiments and companies, with occupation, when given, and post-office addresses.

In the very nature of things there are errors. There was no way to avoid them. We have done the best we could. In many instances the writing was almost illegible. Others stated they were in "Captain Smith's Company," and there being numerous Capt. Smiths, we had to make the best guess possible under surrounding circumstances. Others have given their regiment as the First, Second, Third, or Fourth, without specifying whether infantry or cavalry, and we have to guess again.

In other ways it may be expected errors have crept in. These should be reported as fast as discovered, in order that correction be made. Names not reported should be sent in, and changes of P. O. address, or death of a soldier, sent to the secretary.

THE ADVANTAGES

Already inuring to members of the Association, guarantees its continuance so long as there remain two surviving Wisconsin soldiers or sailors. Brief as has been its life, hundreds of comrades have already received incalculable benefit therefrom.

In another place an able article invites your attention to the "Future of our Society," and offers suggestions prompted by patriotic principles—the best basis of true statesmanship.

Still another comrade gives excellent views as to "Membership Duties," which show thought and earnestness in the good cause, and if followed, the Association will leave a monument to coming generations to which posterity will ever refer with pride.

REGIMENTAL REUNION ROSTER.

EXPLANATIONS TO THE READER:

Regiments are in their numerical order commencing with the Infantry; then Cavalry, Heavy Artillery, Batteries, Sharp Shooters, Soldiers of other States, State National Guard, Reunion Programme, and Sketches interspersed.

Commissioned officers' names with rank are at head of their respective commands.

The soldier's surname comes first followed by his christian name or initials.

If known, his occupation comes next, and last his P. O. address. When state is omitted Wisconsin is understood. When soldier's name is followed by a * it shows he was killed in action at the place and date then given. When the name is succeeded by a + it shows the man died of wounds at place and date given. When neither * nor + is given, but the line ends with a date it shows he died of disease while in the army at such place and date. Any soldier's name not appearing, shows either he has died since the war or has failed to respond to the Reunion call.

In the Appendix will be included names received after the Regimental Roster went to press.

Insurance on Business Principles.

PROVIDENT SAVINGS

LIFE INSURANCE

SOCIETY OF NEW YORK.

SHEPPARD HOMANS, PRESIDENT AND ACTUARY.

SAFETY, SIMPLICITY, AND DURABILITY

OF THIS POLICY IS ADMITTED BY THE MOST EMINENT INSURANCE EXPERTS TO BE THE VERY BEST PLAN YET ADOPTED. SEE THE FOLLOWING EXTRACTS:

[From Philip L. Spooner, Insurance Commissioner of Wisconsin.]

"The plan of life insurance presented by the "Provident Savings" is one the want of which has long been felt as being within the comprehension of the ordinary mind. It might well be called the common-sense system of life insurance, for while the indemnity is as unquestioned as that of the old system, yet, unlike the latter, it is not so inextricably connected with fine spun theories as to mystify the assured. if not the Actuary himself."

[From the Report of Hon. Stephen H. Rhodes, Insurance Commissioner of Massachusetts.]

"It is becoming more apparent every day that a radical change in the plans of life insurance is demanded. Of the various schemes or plans for insurance adapted to the wants of the masses, that of Sheppard Homans, known as "Life Insurance Without Large Accumulations of Reserves," is the most prominent."

[From Report of Hon. Oliver Pillsbury, Insurance Commissioner of New Hampshire.]

"No substantial reason has been adduced why a person should not pay and renew insurance on his life annually, as he does on his property. Life insurance conducted somewhat after the manner of fire insurance would largely do away with the necessity of heavy "reserve" accumulations, already the subject of deep concern among business men."

NEW YORK, May 20, 1878.

SHEPPARD HOMANS, Actuary:—DEAR SIR: We have carefully considered the theory and proposed application of your "Plan for Life Insurance Without Reserves," and I believe that for insurance companies it will be fully as secure as the present system, and, for a large portion of the insuring public, more satisfactory. If it receives the appreciation it deserves, it will inaugurate a new era in life insurance.

Yours Truly,

D. P. FACKLER, Actuary.
ELIZUR WRIGHT, Actuary and Com'r.
BEN. GRIFFIN, Actuary Mutual Life N. Y.
HENRY F. HOMES, Actuary.
JAS. C. WATSON, Actuary Mich. Mut. Life Ins. Co.

BOSTON, March 22, 1875.

MY DEAR MR. HOMANS: I am exceedingly obliged by your letter of yesterday. To you I hardly need say that I fully approve the circular of the "Provident Savings" enclosed in your letter. I should be happy to say it to everybody. Your institution really leaves nothing to be desired as to equity, safety and convenience in life insurance.

Yours Truly, ELIZUR WRIGHT.

THE

WISCONSIN CENTRAL RAILROAD

THE SHORT LINE

BETWEEN

CHICAGO AND MILWAUKEE

Green Bay
Fort Howard,
Menasha,
Neenah,
Appleton,
Stevens Point,
Ashland,

AND THE Great Lumber Regions of the Northwest.

The Branch to APPLETON has just been completed, and THROUGH COACHES are now run between that point, [via Milwaukee and Chicago.]

To the Sportsman, Tourist and Pleasure Seeker, this route, better known as offers peculiar advantages. The numerous streams and lakes along the line are teeming with fish and the forests abound with game.

"THE LAKE SUPERIOR LINE."

The hotels offer every comfort; that at Ashland, "The Chequamegyon, owned by the company," has recently been enlarged and refitted and is kept in regal style.

FARGO'S

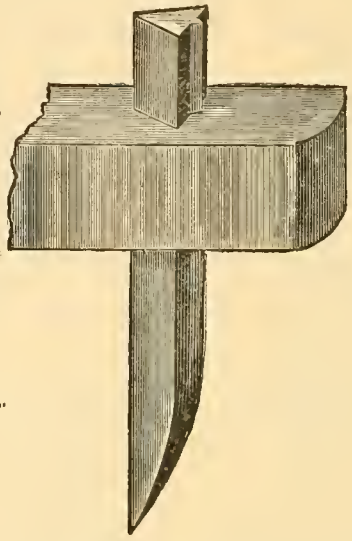
Solid Steel V-Shaped Harrow Tooth,

MAKES THE BEST

HARROW

IN THE WORLD.



And is made in the following regular

SIZES:

8	Bars	2	Section's	48	Teeth.
10	"	2	"	60	"
12	"	2	"	72	"
15	"	3	"	90	"
18	"	3	"	108	"

And for a working capacity of 17½ ft. breadth.

WHAT PRACTICAL FARMERS SAY.

[From all over the Northwestern Grain Growing States and Territories, have come to us the voluntary, unsolicited expression of practical farmers, whose life-long experience and disinterested opinions are of the highest value to those who contemplate making a choice from the thousands of patent harrows offered on every hand. Limited space prevents the publication of only a fraction of these testimonials, and indeed, only a line or so of letters we should be glad to publish in full. We have added to each signature the P. O. address, and invite correspondence direct with the parties.]

Fond du Lac Harrow Co.,

GENTS:—We beg leave to add our testimonial to the many in favor of the justly celebrated Fargo Steel-tooth Harrow. We hear from all we have sold, nothing but praise. Parties buying them say that they more than come up to their expectations, and that they can do doubly more work with them than with any other make. Yours, etc.,

FORT WAYNE STEEL PLOUGH WORKS, Fort Wayne, Ind.

Fond du Lac Harrow Co.,

GENTS:—We take pleasure in recommending your Fargo Improved V-toothed Harrow to the general public as a first class farm implement. We have given it a thorough and extensive trial, on old and new land, having harrowed in Forty five hundred acres of small grain this season with them. We have several other makes of harrows on our place, but we give yours the decided preference. Yours etc., E. F. WARNER, Manager Rock County Farm Co., St. Paul Minn.

WHAT ONE OF THE LARGEST FARMERS OF MINNESOTA SAYS.

Fond du Lac Harrow Co.,

GENTS:—Your letter of inquiry as to working of your harrow, is at hand. In reply will say that I have given your harrow a thorough trial, and was much pleased with the result. It is the best harrow and does the most thorough work of any that I have tried. Yours, D. H. VALENTINE, St. Paul, Minn.

ONE BETTER THAN THREE.

"The harrow gives more than good satisfaction. Once over the ground with it, is better than three times with other harrows." S. V. R. BROCKWAY, Clyman Wis.

CLEANEST AND EASIEST DRAFT.

"It is easier draft, cleaner, and does better work than any of my neighbors or I have ever used before. I recommend it without reserve." W. H. ANGELL, Sun Prairie, Wis.

THREE TO ONE AND SOME TO SPARE.

"I consider it the best harrow ever used, and will do more work in going over ground once, than with a common harrow three times, and do it much better." O. W. STILLMAN, Milwaukee, Wis.

IT IS ALL CLAIMED FOR IT.

"Fargo's V-shaped Solid Steel Tooth Harrow is all claimed for it. It is the best we ever used, and is of great value to farmers." R. E. LEWIS, C. P. THURSTON, N. E. NELSON, J. M. SLASSEN, A. C. WALKER, Northwood, Ia.

WINDOW BLINDS!

FOR THE MILLION

Comfort, Utility, Economy and Beauty Combined.

THE ADVANTAGES of having a dwelling house furnished with window blinds are so apparent that reasons therefor seem unnecessary and out of place.

That they are an absolute and never-failing protection against the violent storms of wind and hail so frequent and destructive to window glass, has been demonstrated time and time again.

That they keep out cold in winter, and thereby save fuel, is the universal testimony of everybody who has used or tried them.

That they protect the rooms of the house from the hot rays of summer's sun, is equally well established.

Nothing can be more pleasant, in warm weather, than to sit or work in a room protected from the sun, and yet with a breeze wafting through the house. Window Blinds afford this comfort every time.

For a sick room, or children's nursery, Blinds are almost indispensable. The light may be toned down to any grade, permitting sleep in the day-time, which otherwise would be impossible, or at best uneasy and broken.

It also often occurs that a person out of health cannot bear the strong light of mid-day sun, and how frequently do we meet those whose eyes have been ruined by carelessness in this particular.

Again there are some people to whom sharp lightning is very unpleasant, and whose rest at night is disturbed by a thunder shower. To such, closing the Window blinds gives immediate relief.

Blinds, to a limited extent, are protection against tramps and petty thieves. Ordinary windows are easily raised from the outside, but it requires skilled practice and expertness to unlock a fastened window blind.

Besides these and many other advantages, the improved appearance of a residence when furnished with Window Blinds, more than compensates the cost of improvement.

In looks alone, to say nothing of comfort and protection, blinds pay for themselves each and every year.

All inquiries cheerfully and promptly answered, and when desired a competent person will be sent to view, measure and estimate on work, without expense to the party purchasing.

THE

WASHINGTON LIFE

INSURANCE COMPANY OF NEW YORK.

W. A BREWER, Jr., President.

Assets,	- . -	$5,500,000.00,
Surplus,	- - - -	$942,000.00.

Reasons Why I Insure in the Washington Life:

1.—Because, Its investments are the very best that can be obtained;—none of them are even questionable.

2.—Because, During all the recent financial depression, it continued to increase its assets and surplus.

3.—Because, Ff its unusually large surplus.

3.—Because, Whatever advantages may be claimed under the New York State law of 1879, in favor of policy holders, they have in the Washington the additional protection of its non-forfeiting dividends. It is the only company that allows its dividends to hold its policies in force when premium is unpaid.

5.—Because, Its new form of policy expresses a very literal contract in plain, concise language, contains fewer restrictions than any other policy, and leaves no hooks on which to hang legal quibbles.

GOOD REASONS WHY THE INSURED SHOULD PREFER THE

"SPRINGFIELD."

1st. IT IS AN OLD COMPANY, having been chartered in 1849.

2d. IT IS A STRONG COMPANY, having a Cash Capital of $750,000, and total Assets of $1,858,-477.34. The reserve for all liabilities, including re-insurance, amounts to $664,143.00, leaving a net surplus over capital of $444,334.34. The surplus as regards Policy-Holders, $1,194,334.34,—one of the best tests of a company's strength,—is a large as that of many companies having larger assets. It is the largest and oldest Fire Insurance Company in Massachusetts. It does no Marine business.

3d. IT IS NOT EXPOSED TO FAILURE FROM A SWEEPING FIRE IN LARGE CITIES. It was represented at Troy in 1862, losing $50,000; at Portland in 1866, losing $100,000; at Chicago in 1871, losing $525,000; at Boston in 1872, losing $250,000. All its losses have been paid promptly, and in full. Its lines are limited in all cities to a point of perfect safety.

4th. THE SPRINGFIELD HAS AN EXCELLENT REPUTATION, as becomes a good old Massachusetts Company, for fair dealing with its patrons. It is organized under the laws of Massachusetts, which are noted for their liberality to policy-holders, and for their stringent requirements for the maintenance of the solvency of Companies. Those who have best known the company locally, are its best friends.

5th. IT IS AN AMERICAN AGENCY COMPANY. It cannot withdraw from the country, and will not from the West, as it is as well able to bear losses as any company can be, and has over 1,000 agents in the West. It has been doing business in Chicago since 1853. Among the stock-holders in Chicago. are [illegible] Field, of Field, Leiter & Co., and Edson Keith, of Keith Brothers; the former being a dir[illegible]

The best is always the cheapest in the end, and doubly so when it can be purchased for less money than an interior article.

In life insurance.

THE MUTAL LIFE INSURANCE CO. OF N. Y.

furnishes the very best indemnity, and at lower rates than any other company in the world. It is the largest company in the world; Its policies, now in force, numbering more than 90,000.

It is the strongest financial insititution in the world, its assets amounting to $90,000,000.

It is the safest company in which to insure, its surplus alone as computed by the New York Standard, of four and one half per cent. interest, amounting to more than $11,000,000.

(This is over and above all liabilities, and is of itself, much more than the total assets of many of our American Companies.)

This company has issued since its organization, more than 210,000 policies.

It has returned to its policy-holders in dividends $50,000,000.

It has returned in surrender values, $40,000,000.

It has distributed among its beneficiaries, in payment of death claims, endowments and annuities, $60,000,000.

Total returned to policy holders, $150,000,000.

And it now holds as a guarantee for the payment of future claims, cash assets of $90,000,000.

This company does a strictly Life insurance business. It has no speculative feature. It issues no Tontine Policies, at the expense of the many and for the benefit of the few. It has no stock holders. The assets and surplus all belong to the insured.

Its ratio of expenses to receipts is less than that of any other company. Its dividends to policy holders are greater than those in any other company.

The cost to the insured is therefore less than in any other Company.

If, then, you wish insurance, and what prudent man can afford to be without it, buy the very best, where it can be obtained at the lowest rates.

If you are not acquainted with an agent of this company in your vicinity, blanks and full instructions for obtaining a policy can be obtained by addressing Facts and Figures for 1880.

IN RELATION TO THE

NORTHWESTERN MUTUAL LIFE

INSURANCE COMPANY.

Date of Issue of First Policy, - - - Nov. 25, 1858.

No. of Policies in Force, Jan. 1, 1880,			33,066
Amount Insured, Jan. 1, 1880,			$61,918,888
	Jan. 1, 1870.	Jan. 1, 1875.	Jan. 1, 1880.
Assets,	$6,757,532	$15,527,532	$18,002,142
Liabilities	6,414,401	13,467,822	14,973,983
Surplus	343,131	2,059,710	3,028,159

The Liabilities are calculated according to the highest standard of reserve employed by American companies (Actuaries' four per cent) If calculated according to the legal standard of Wisconsin, New York, and most of the other states, the liabilities on Jan. 1, 1880, would be $13,907,571, and the surplus correspondingly increased to $4,094,571.

With the record of the past as a criterion for the future, this Company furnishes reliable indemnity at the lowest rates consistent with safety.

The Company commenced business in 1858, without a dollar of capital (it being purely mutual in all respects), sustained only by its inherent strength, springing from the mutual confidence of its members.

During the past twenty years it has paid to representatives of deceased policy holders, and to living members, TWENTY-THREE MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

The Northwestern stands at the head of the ten largest life companies of the country in strength and security, as shown by the ratio of Surplus to Liabilities.

It Invests its Funds upon improved real estate security, at western rates of interest, and it has now thus placed over TEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS

Its Location enables it to select the choicest securities, and to command the highest rates of interest.

The Interest Receipts of the Company since organization have more than equalled its losses by death, and 1879 was the sixth year in succession in which its interest receipts exceeded its combined disbursements for death claims and expenses.

Interest Receipts, 1879	$1,317,567 18
Death Losses and Expenses	1,232,015 75
Excess of Interest Receipts	$85,551 43
Interest Receipts since organization	$11,481,373 68
Death Losses paid since organization	8,013,592 23
Excess of Interest Receipts	$3,467,781 45

This is a showing that can be made by no other company.

Policies are Issued upon all approved plans which have stood the test of time, speculative policies of every kind being avoided. Documents giving detailed history of the Company, its standing, etc., can be obtained of any agent, or by addressing the office at Milwaukee Wisconsin.

The Northwestern is the only Company which has in recent years printed its current dividends for the information of the public. The NORTHWESTERN has done this for nine consecutive years.

The reader is requested to compare the following figures with corresponding dividends of any other company.

Dividends payable in 1879 and 1880, less state tax where such is imposed, on life policies (all cash, no dividend additions) issued at age 35 for $10,000.

Year of Issue.	Prem.	Div. 1879.	Dv'dend 1880.

1859	268 70	168 10	174 30
1858	268 70	174 30	180 60

No Other Company can equal these results, which are not exceptional—that is, such as would be produced either by an unusually prosperous year or by recklessness in making unwarrantably large dividends.

The Company has been paying large dividends for years, but its undivided surplus steadily increases.

THE APPEAL.

A LIVE

TEMPERANCE PAPER,

Largely in the Interest of

THE TEMPLE OF HONOR.

THE APPEAL gives more temperance news than any other paper published in the northwest, and is furnished at the low price of

FIFTY CENTS A YEAR

It also contains a large amount of choice literary matter, and much other matter not pertaining to the temperance question. It is the largest best and cheapest paper of the kind published in the West. Temperance people can in no way help their cause more substantially than by extending its circulation.

IT CAN BE OPERATED BY THE FOOT ALONE.

Leaving both hands free for driving. Yet it is a complete Hand-Dumping Rake, at the will of the driver. CAN BE OPERATED EASILY BY ANY BOY OR GIRL that can drive a horse. Solid wrought iron axle arms. It rakes clean in any kind of hay. The more it is used the better it is liked.

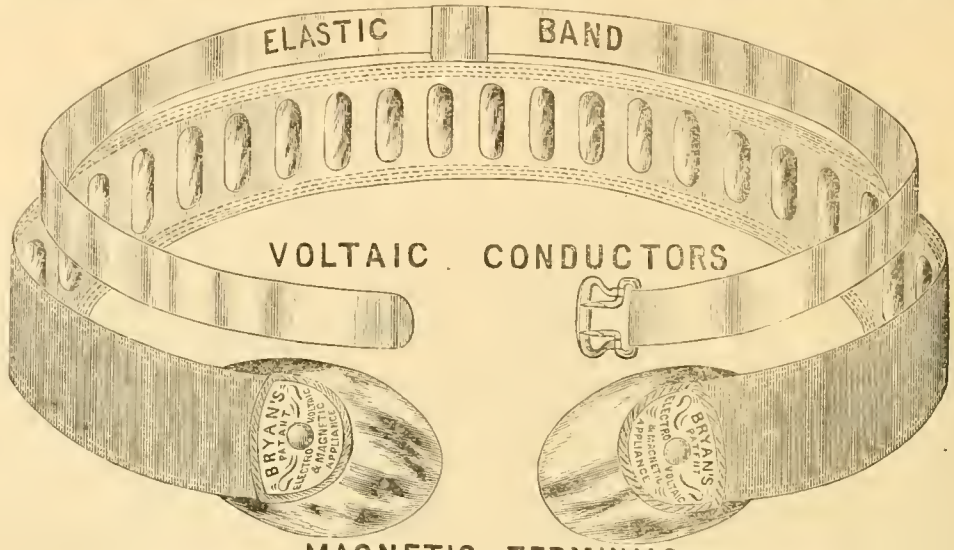
DR. BRYAN'S

ELECTRIC BELTS



MAGNETIC TERMINALS.

FOR SELF CURE.

THE ONLY GENUINE, PATENTED.

BEWARE OF FRAUDS.

DR. BRYAN'S ELECTRIC BELTS

Restore the Nervous and Debilitated and impart new life and strength to the waning organism. They are worn round the body in the form of Belts and Bands, highly charged with Electric and Magnetic influence; are of different degrees of intensity, suitable to all cases and conditions, and imbue the system with a constant vitalizing current; for Electricity is Nature's Power.

Dr. Bryan's Electric Belts are a self-applicable Physical curative, perfectly harmless, and a Sovereign Balm to the system exhausted by Nervous Debility and Mental anxiety. Without Medicine they cure some of the most formidable chronic ailments, and may be relied on as the last resort in all cases that arise from a loss of vital force. They increase the circulation, promote assimilation, remove pain and strengthen the nervous system. A continuous Electric Current is evolved by the moisture and heat of the body, without the aid of acids or washes, and they have the endorsements of the leading physicians of the city of New York and elsewhere. The Belts can be worn without experiencing shocks or any inconvenience whatever and never fail to benefit those who wear them. The American Institute of New York last year awarded a diploma for this invention, after having been thoroughly examined and tested by the eminent physicians and Electricians appointed for the purpose by the Directors of the Institution. Some of the most eminent physicians of the city have certified to the merits of this therapeutic agent.

Read the following from Dr. Guernsey, No. 18 West Twenty-third street: "I have used Bryan's Electric Voltaic Belts with very decided benefit. In all cases where continued action is required, they give very decided satisfaction. Their construction is thoroughly scientific, and physicians will find them of great aid in cases that resist every other form of treatment. EGBERT GUERNSEY, M. D."

Electricity will cure when all other means fail; and immediate benefit is derived. The Electric Belt will effect a speedy cure of all cases of Nervous Debility, Premature Decay, Physical Prostration, Organic Weakness, Kidney Complaints, Paralysis, Dyspepsia and all nervous derangements arising from a debilitated system.

READ THE TESTIMONY.

Dwight King, Esq, Albany, N. Y. says: "I feel that it has saved my life."
Geo. A. Preston, Esq., Binghamton, N. Y., says: "It has stopped the principal trouble."
Edward Wilkins, Esq., Newark, N. J., says: "It acted soothingly and removed the debility."
Wm. F Gilchrist, Esq., Union, N. Y., says: It has made a new man of me."
W. S. Smith, Esq., Toronto, says: "It has had a good effect already."
Norman Barnes, Esq., Quebec, says: "It has done me more good than medicine."
E. McCloud, Esq., Halifax, says: "I shall recommend it to my friends."
Miss M. J. Parker. Oswego, N. Y., says: "It has done me a great deal of good; I have gained eight pounds of flesh, and my dyspepsia is removed."

The belt is unequaled for restoring the procreative powers when injured by imprudent habits, sickness, or old age. For illustrated pamphlets address.

The extravagant cost of Insurance is a reason why manufacturers should combine for mutual protection against fire.

That such combination can be effected with the most satisfactory results is demonstrated by the experience of others.

That the manufacturers of the North-west may avail themselves of the benefits of The New England Manufacturers Mutual System, The Mississippi Valley Manufacturers Mutual Insurance Company is being organized upon that plan.

The declaration has been filed, a charter adopted in accordance with the Illinois Laws, and the books are now open for the reception of applications As soon as one hundred applicants have united, with the requisite amount of premiums, a license will be secured and policies issued.

NATIONAL HOME FOR DISABLED VOLUNTEER SOLDIERS.

Gen. EDWARD W. HINCKS,
Commandant and Treasurer.

Capt. W. H. LOUGH,
Secretary.

Dr. A. J. HARE,
Surgeon.

The North-Western Branch

is beautifully situated, three miles from the City of Milwaukee. It is a capacious brick building containing accommodations for 1,000 inmates. In addition to this building which contains the main halls, eating apartment, offices, dormitory and engine room, are shops, granaries, stables and other out-buildings. The Home farm contains 425 acres, of which over one-half is cultivated. The remainder is a wooded park traversed by shaded walks and drives, beautifully undulating. The main line of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway runs through the farm, and the track of the northern division passes beside it.

Who are Admitted and How.

Soldiers who were disabled in the service of the United States in the war of the rebellion, the Mexican war, or the war of 1812, and have been honorably discharged, are entitled to admission to the Soldiers' Home.

Admission is procured on a certificate, of which blank forms are furnished to every applicant, setting forth his enlistment, with date, rank, places of muster and the company, regiment or other organization to which he belonged, and the date and cause of discharge; and that he is receiving a pension. His identity is set forth in the same certificate, and a surgeon's statement of his disability and its nature.

Disabled soldiers, or their friends, county, city and town authorities, police officers, guardians of the poor and almshouses, trustees of benevolent institutions and public or private hospitals throughout the State and country, having knowledge of disabled soldiers, or such persons in their charge, are cordially invited to address the commandant by whom the necessary blanks and instructions will be sent by return mail.

Labor, Instruction and Amusement.

Such inmates as are able to do so, have the opportunity to practice various mechanical trades, or to work on the Home farm, for which they are paid a compensation of from $6 to $15 a month, averaging, all around, about 40 cents per day. Skilled laborers can earn more than these wages. The trades practiced are, boot and shoe making, carpenter and joiner work, tin-smithing, plastering and stone masonry, gas fitting, cigar making, broom making and basket making. Farming is largely carried on, and some of the finest products exhibited at the State fairs have been from the fields and gardens cultivated by the soldiers. All the labor of the institution, including care of the building, repairs which are found necessary, and farming operations, is done by the inmates.

The institution has an excellent library of 2,500 volumes, contributed by friends of the soldiers in various parts of the country. The reading room contains newspapers and magazines, all of which are in constant use and requisition by the inmates.

This institution is not a public charity, and the disabled soldiers of the country should understand it. The money that supports it has been forfeited by bad soldiers, and has been made by the law of congress, the absolute property of the disabled soldiers of the country. They do not place themselves in the list of paupers by becoming inmates of the Home

No soldier or soldier's friend visiting Milwaukee will ever regret a call at the Home, where they are always made welcome by its efficient and worthy commandant.

HUNTER'S

MAGNETIC SPRINGS

AND SUMMER RESORT.

MR. and MRS. JOHN E. GARVIN, late of Chicago, respectfully inform the public that they have leased the celebrated and are now ready to receive guests. The house has been newly furnished throughout, and no finer suites of rooms can be found in the United States. Their table will be superior in every respect. The House is located on Lake Winnebago, near the Junction of the C. & N. W. Ry, and S. & F. du L. Ry, in the city of Fond du Lac, and has all the natural advantages offered by other resorts, besides the wonderful fountain, which is acknowledged to contain more medicinal properties than any spring in America Bath Rooms have been added to the House and water from these springs will be used.

HUNTER FOUNTAIN AND HOTEL,

Medical advice can be obtained in the house. The price of board with rooms, at $10 and $12 per week, according to location.

This celebrated water will be shipped to any point, delivered at depots in Fond du Lac. For further particulars address,

JOHN E. GARVIN, FOND DU LAC, WIS.

N. B.—A fine fleet of Yachts have been put upon the Lake this season, and row boats are in abundance. Good fishing and hunting may always be found.

HUNTER'S

MAGNETIC FOUNTAIN OF HEALTH

AND SUMMER RESORT.

Recommending to the Invalid Portion of the Public the Extraordinary Curative Properties of the Magnetic Saline Waters of George Hunter's Artesian Fountain and Summer Resort.

There is no intention of advertising patent medicines, but to present to the public a thorough chemical analysis of the saline water, and a vast array of facts, and certificates, of wonderful cures by the use of it. Sufficient to convince the most skeptical that a very extraordinary discovery was accidentally made at Fond du Lac. by Mr. George Hunter, of a

GREAT NATURAL REMEDY

for many of the ills and diseases which poor frail humanity is subject to in this changeable climate. If the reader will have patience to read to the end he will be presented with evidence that must convince all rational minds that there is no intention to deceive or mislead the most credulous, and only a simple desire to BENEFIT THE AFFLICTED.

Prof. Tyndall, F. R. S., of England, the most advanced scientist of the age, in his very popular illustrated lectures in Boston and New York, last year, said, that "the polarization of the ultimate molecules of matter by magnetic force surrounded each molecule with an intelligence that caused them to select their appropriate places in the formation of mineral compounds." The Saline waters of Mr. Hunter's Artesian Fountain are an evidence of the correctness of Prof. Tyndall's assertions,

These waters flow through and over mineral rock highly charged with magnetism, which polarizes the molecules of mineral salts and causes them to permeate the water in that proportion which makes it pleasant to the taste, in an eminent degree.

Learned and eminent physicians may have an accurate knowledge of diseases that beset frail humanity, and may know well how to compound medicines proper for the cure of those diseases, but modern mercenary craft and cunning often defeat the best intentions and experienced knowledge of the ablest M. D.'s, by adulterating the drugs of which medicines are made. But in Nature's great chemical laboratory there are no mercenary motives to stimulate cunning devices in adulterating drugs; an honest intelligence selects the materials and compounds the medicines that will that flesh is heir to, if we are wise and industrious enough to hunt up and make the proper selections of medicines which an All-Wise Power has placed all around us. The Magnetic Saline waters are made in the bowels of the earth, where the drugs are pure.

All statements made in these pages in regard to the extraordinary curative properties of the Magnetic Saline waters, will be sustained by the evidence of unimpeachable witnesses—ladies and gent'emen of respectability, who have been cured or much benefited by using the water, and know from actual experience the truth of their testimony.

OF MINERAL WATERS.

Mineral or medical veins of water are formed in the bowels of the earth by the percolation of fresh water through and over the deposits of soda, magnesia, potassa, and iron, (sometimes magnetic), and their compound salts—chlorides, carbonates, and sulphates, in greater or less proportions.

Anciently, only those veins that found their way to the surface through natural channels (called springs or pools) were used medicinally for the cure of diseases. Many of such springs or pools, found in all parts of the world in all ages, for their curative qualities. Some of them have a continuous flow, while others flow periodically, or are intermittent like the hot springs in volcanic districts and the pools of Bethesda and Siloam in ancient Judea of which it is recorded that an

HAVE BEEN CELEBRATED,

ANGEL CAME DOWN

at certain seasons and troubled the waters, when vast numbers of invalids, possessed of various diseases, went down to the pools, bathed in and drank of the waters, and were healed. But since the inauguration of artesian wells, many of these medicinal veins of water have been brought to the surface by drilling or boring deep into the earth, and these artesian fountains are generally found to possess much curative properties than any natural springs or pools known to mankind.

Such of Nature's simple substances as permeate the water which flows from Mr. Hunter's fountain, are now extensively used by the best physicians in compounding medicines for the cure of diseases, and the learned M. D. who is lucky enough to secure these materials unadulterated, will always be regarded as the most successful practitioner.

ACCIDENTAL DISCOVERY OF THE MINERAL WATER.

A thousand drafts upon the fountain head, or water supply to the ordinary fountains, considerably lessened the force of the flow of many of them, until in many parts of the city they ceased to rise above the surface of the ground.

Mr. Hunter, being in need of a greater supply of water than the ordinary fountains could furnish, and a purer quality, concluded to sink an artesian well into a lower strata of the limestone rock; believing that if he could strike a vein of water at a lower base, a sufficient quantity of pure water would be obtained adapted to his wants. Mr. Hunter, with a view of testing his theories in this regard, procured the services of John Dobyns, Esq., an experienced well-driller, who sunk a fountain until the

was reached, and drilled into twenty-seven feet, (in all, one hundred and eighty-seven feet deep) when a vein of water was reached with sufficient force to throw it far above the surface of the ground. A gentleman of some experience in mineral waters visiting the fountain, and noticing its sparkling effervescence, suggested that the water might be magnetic and medicinal, and to test it held an

ORDINARY JACK-KNIFE

in the stream as it flowed from the pipe. In a few moments the knife was highly charged with magnetism, so that eight and ten penny nails could be lifted with ease, by the attraction of the magnetized knife. These peculiarities of the water soon attracted attention, and awakened curiosity, and many rheumatic and other invalids in the neighborhood, who had tried various remedies without receiving only temporary relief, immediately began to use the mineral water, both for drinking and bathing purposes, and

ALL WHO DID USE IT

were materially benefited. Some were entirely cured in a few hours, while others, chronic cases, were somewhat slower. Some considerable time, however, elapsed after the water began to be used, before Mr. Hunter could be induced to believe that he had discovered mineral waters of such curative properties. But positive evidence of the fact accumulated so rapidly, that Mr Hunter was forced to fit up convenient bath-rooms near the fountain, for the accommodation of the hundreds of invalids who daily visited his place. He likewise soon felt the necessity of inaugurating facilities for transporting the water away, to fill the accumulating orders coming from various parts of the country, in rapid succession.

After these arrangements had been made, and the public but partially advised of the extraordinary healing qualities of the mineral water,

THOUSANDS,

many of them from distant States, visited the bath-rooms, drank the water and bathed in it; and, as will be shown by the certificates of hundreds of respectable people, all who gave the water a thorough trial, were materially benefited. Hundreds of persons living ordered casks of the water to be sent to their homes, and their letters and certificates are in evidence that the water, even when transported to distant places, loses none of its healing properties, but is just as effective in curing the diseases which the water advertised to cure, as if used in the bath-rooms or at the fountain.

HUNDREDS OF MILES AWAY

ENLARGED.

The throng of visitors to the fountain was so great last year, during the bathing season, that Mr. Hunter found it necessary to enlarge the bathing establishment by fitting up several additional bath rooms, in elegant style, thereby doubling the capacity of his bathing facilities. Two of these additional bath-rooms, one in the ladies' and the other in the gentlemen's department, are fitted up and devoted to giving the which consists of places for four baths in each department. The Turkish bath lengthens human life, enlarges human happiness, and decreases human suffering. It being one of the safest and speediest eradicators of diseases from the human system now known to science; and as experience teaches is a hundred fold more efficacious when magnetic mineral waters are used.

The Turkish bath thoroughly opens the pores of the skin and lets in the oxygen of the air to purify the blood, and of the fluids, by which impurities are forced to the surface of the body. The Turkish bath when scientifically administered, with magnetic mineral water, eradicates scrofula, cures consumption, annihilates rheumatism, neuralgia, headache, and general nervous debility. The pores of the skin, when in healthy action, assist the lungs in supplying the blood with pure oxygen. Without a continuous supply of oxygen to the blood, life ceases, and with diminished proportions health is impaired, hence the importance of always keeping the pores of the skin and lungs in a normal condition. The Turkish bath is scientifically arranged and inaugurated for this purpose. It was popular with Greeks and Romans of antiquity. But during the "dark ages" it was neglected and entirely forgotten in western Europe. The Turks in a later era, when in possession of Constantinople repaired the baths and revived their use, hence the name "Turkish Bath." In still later years these baths have become popular in all the large cities of Europe and in the United States. In some cities of Europe the Turkish bath is made efficient in curing insanity, and other brain and

NERVOUS DISORDERS.

The aristocratic Englishman however, still journeys to Constantinople to be cured of gout and other ailments brought on by high living, when intelligent Turks admit that the modern western Turkish bath is a vast improvement on the antique eastern one.

A physician of in attendance upon invalids in bathing establishments, for the past ten or twelve years, will always be present to give directions and advice as to the proper mode of using the water, both for bathing and drinking purposes, and also to administer the Turkish bath whenever it is desired by parties visiting the bath-rooms.

ANALYSIS.

The following analysis made by Prof. E. J. Gillett, President of the Medical College, Keokuk, Iowa, will show that the mineral water of George Hunter's artesian fountain is permeated with ample quantities and proportions of nature's simple elements, with their carbonates, chlorides and sulphates, which makes it more efficacious in healing man's physical infirmities than any other mineral water from any known spring or fountain.

Mr. Gillett, now professor of Chemistry and Toxology in the college of Physicians and Surgeons at Keokuk, Iowa, is a gentleman of extensive practical experience, as teacher of analytical chemistry for the last fifteen years, and has a reputation throughout the west for exact scientific knowledge in his particular branch of learning, and his analysis may be relied on. Still, to the mass of mankind, actual test and experience in the curative properties of the water, are much more satisfactory than the most thorough scientific analysis; and consequently the test and experience of many people who have used the water are given in the following pages.

George Hunter, Esq:—

Dear Sir—I have to-day completed the quantitative analysis of our mineral water, and with the following results. Out of one gallon of water, I obtained 19 grains as residuum.

The analysis is an approximate, leaving off decimals in calculating the proportions.

In 100 parts, the following are the

HOW TO USE THE MAGNETIC WATER.

In rheumatic difficulties, kidney complaints, cutaneous eruptions, scalp diseases, neuralia, and nervous disorders, the water should be warmed slightly above blood heat, and applied to the surface of the body, especially over the parts affected, with a large sponge, or course crash towel. A thorough bathing should be administered, and in a warm room, and in cold weather near a warm stove. After bathing, the surface of the body should be rubbed perfectly dry, and cold currents of air should be avoided for a time. In all cases, and especially in internal derangements of the system, the Magnetic Water should be drank regularly at night on retiring, and in the morning immediately after rising, and at other times, if necessary, to the exclusion of other water With some delicate stomachs the Magnetic Water has the effect to produce slight nausea on first using it, but a continuous use for a short time in smaller quantities will soon make it agreeable to very sensitive stomachs.

Some persons have drank it hot as they do their tea, and with beneficial effects. So, also, have persons bathed in it when cold, and have been cured; but observation and experience teach that when the above rules are complied with, in using the water, it is the most effective in curing diseases.

In chronic cases, regularity in the habits of the invalid are essential, in order to give full effect to the curative properties of the water. All excesses should be avoided, if speedy relief is desired. The usual quantity of wholesome food may be indulged in, but much grease should be avoided in cases of dyspepsia, especially in warm weather.

The Magnetic Water is a pleasant, easy cathartic—a gentle laxative to most people, when first used, and in some instances too much so, if large quantities are drank. When this is the result, less should be used, until a normal condition of the bowels is effected.

The results of one year's test and experience with the Magnetic Water from George Hunter's Saline Well, located in Fond du Lac, warrants the conclusion that it is the most effective cure in the following named diseases:

RHEUMATISM CONQUERED.

The Magnetic Saline Water of George Hunter's artesian fountain is a speedy and sure cure for that disagreeable and incomprehensible complaint known as rheumatism, which afflicts people at all ages, and in nearly every community throughout the whole country. Inflammatory rheumatism is entirely cured by a few applications of the water internally and externally, and sometimes, almost miraculously, by bathing once. In chronic cases, where the joints have been distorted, a longer and a more thorough course of treatment is required to effect a complete cure. But even in chronic cases pains are relieved in a very short time.

DYSPEPSIA CURED.

The Magnetic Water cures this uncomfortable affliction, and its consequent adjuncts, a sour stomach and a headache, in a short time, as many testimonials in the following pages will convince all rational people. No one need suffer tortures of indigestion, or its consequent inconveniences, if they are within reach of the water from Hunter's artesian fountain, as its steady use will invariably restore the stomach to a healthy condition.

HUNTER'S MAGNETIC FOUNTAIN AND SUMMER RESORT.

CONSTIPATION DISPENSED WITH.

This disagreeable affliction loses its hold upon the bowels when the Magnetic Water is drank regularly, to the exclusion of other water. It is a pleasant, safe, easy cathartic, which regulates the bowels without inconvenience or trouble.

The liver is strongly sensitive to the peculiar properties of the Magnetic Water, and its effect in restoring that organ to a healthful condition, is truly wonderful. The liver is a very important organ in the internal arrangement of the human body. So much so, that when it is diseased the whole system is affected, and complicated troubles are the general consequences.

NEURALGIA ANNIHILATED.

This very disagreeable nervous complaint is relieved of its excruciating pains at once by applications of the Magnetic Water to the parts affected. Persons afflicted with neuralgic torture need suffer no longer.

The Saline Water cures diseased scalps and prevents the hair from falling out. It has the effect also to make the hair soft and silky. Any one can be convinced of this fact by a few applications of the water.

In female complaints and physical weaknesses, the Magnetic Water is an effective remedy, acting speedily and surely in restoring the fragile female system to health and vigor.

The Magnetic Water cures gravel, it dissolves and forces the gravel out of the bladder.

Kidney complaints suddenly feel the curative effect of the Magnetic Water when properly used. Bright's disease and diabetes are also cured by close attention to the use of the water according to directions. In short the diseased urinary organs are more susceptible to the healing properties of the water than any others in the system.

REFERENCES.

The names of a number of gentlemen are here given for reference, by letter or otherwise. They are well known as gentlemen of truth and veracity, with no disposition to deceive others or to be deceived. They have all been materially benefited by using the Mineral Water from George Hunter's artesian fountain, and are willing that others should be helped, also. Most of them are old residents of Fond du Lac, but quite a number are residents of distant towns and cities :

EVIDENCE FROM LIVING WITNESSES.

A few plain statements of facts—certificates, letters and testimonials from respectable persons living in various States of the Union, who have seen and experienced the very beneficial effects of the use of the Magnetic Water from George Hunter's artesian fountain. MANY LETTERS have been received, varying in style and manner of expressing thoughts and facts. Besides, many people have what may be regarded as a false delicacy about publishing to the world, over their signatures, a description of their particular complaints, and the cures effected by the Magnetic Water. Especially is this the case with females. Therefore only a few of the letters, and a synopsis of others, will be published. Sufficient, however, of these letters and certificates will be given to satisfy all persons worthy of being convinced, that an almost MIRACULOUS REMEDY for many of the diseases which afflict the human life has been discovered at Fond du Lac, and is now made known to the public through these pages.

The following note is from Rev. A.C. Barry, D. D. Mr. Barry is a gentleman of deep research and practical experience in science. He has filled various positions of public trust in this State, and is well known and appreciated as a gentleman of enlarged, liberal and patriotic views. His experience and observation, as regards the Magnetic Water, make his opinions very valuable : possible for me to add anything in the way of description, or of statement to, wath has already been said with reference to this fountain of healing. I can only bear testimony, which I most cheerfully do, to the correctness of what is set forth in these pages, in relation to the efficacy of the water of this fountain, in many forms of disease. With very many who have been helped by its use, and with many more who have found entire relief from rheumatic, nervous, and other diseases of long standing, when other remedies have failed, I am well acquainted, and know that their statements are true. That this water will work miracles is not claimed, but that it possesses a wonderful restorative and healing virtue, none can doubt. I do not hesitate, therefore to recommend a trial of it to the afflicted. A. C. BARRY.

HUNTER'S MAGNETIC FOUNTAIN AND SUMMER RESORT.

Mrs. L. H. Lyons, a lady residing on Sixth street, Fond du Lac, has been thought to be an almost incurable invalid. Her liver has been so affected that her countenance had become dark and discolored, her eyes weak, and the lids painfully inflamed. All of which, coupled with female weaknesses, rendered her life one of continual misery. She had been forced into a dropsical state, and her hands and feet had swollen exceedingly. The fame of the Magnetic Water reached her husband in San Francisco, and he wrote to her advising its use. She complied. To day she is a well woman. The swellings have entirely subsided. Her complexion is bright. Her eyes are free from trouble. Her friends who knew her previous condition are astonished. And she is willing to make affidavit that all this happy effect is attributable to the use of the Magnetic Saline Water for only a short time.

Miss Lizzie Malone, residing on Madison street, Fond du Lac, is now nearly 24 years of age. She has been afflicted for twelve years with sore eyes, resulting from the measles. She bathed them with the water, is much better, and is rapidly progressing to a cure.

FROM MR. SAMUEL VAUX.

Mr. George Hunter:—

Dear Sir—I visited your city on the 13th inst., in very bad health. I was induced to come here by hearing of the Magnetic Water, at Waupun, and I determined to spend a few days, in hopes of benefiting myself by its use. I have been at the well daily, using the water both for drinking and bathing, and find that the benefit I have derived is very satisfactory.

I have been a great sufferer. My diseases have been phthisic and heart disease, and my case was pronounced incurable at the Charleston Infirmary, Charleston, Ill. After using the water, I find great relief, so far. The phthisic has left me, and the sensation about the heart is much improved.

SAMUEL VAUX,
Andrew, Mo.

MR. ALONZO RAYMOND, of the late firm of Raymond & Smith, grocers, Fond du Lac, fell last summer and broke his leg, the fracture being a very serious and painful one. It had never healed, and Mr. Raymond has been a constant sufferer from sleeplessness and general debility. He has used the Magnetic Water, for three weeks, drinking it freely and bathing in it every morning. His general health is greatly improved thereby. He can now sleep, his appetite is better, and his bowels are now regular for the first time in a year.

This gentleman has long been identified with the business interests of Fond du Lac, and his statement as published herewith is entitled to and should command the most implicit credence. Mr. Nathan Parker is of the firm of N. Parker & Co., lumbermen, Fond du Lac. His case was one of disease of the kidneys complicated with other disorders. He had considered himself as incurable, but has become a healthy man. His mill is adjacent to Hunter's well, and as he is an intelligent and courteous gentleman it would be of great advantage to parties seeking relief to get the particulars of his case from himself. It is a very interesting one.

MRS. A. STEVELY.

She had been such a sufferer for twenty-five years that she was unable to eat anything but stale bread and crackers, and articles of similar diet. She drank the Magnetic Water but three weeks. Her health is restored. She can digest any description of food without the slightest trouble. We would request particular examination of this case by parties who are suffering similarly.

I hereby certify that I have been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years last past, and at times for months have been in great misery, unable to do any kind of business. I have used almost every variety of medicine, prescribed by almost all kinds of persons, from the best physicians to quacks and old women, and from all of these sources I have never received any permanent benefit, and only rarely any temporary relief, and at times was much discouraged, when a few days since I was induced by neighbors to use the mineral waters from George Hunter's artesian well, and found immediate relief, perfectly free from all rheumatic pains. LEROY GRAVES.

Mr. Graves is an old resident of Fond du Lac. He is a speculator in timber and other lands, and is well known throughout this part of the country.

Mr. John Bonnell, grocer, Forest st., Fond du Lac, has been for many years troubled with disease of his kidneys, and to such an extent that he had to a great degree lost control of his urine. He has been relieved by the use of the water, so that now he has seldom to arise during the night to pass his urine, and has every confidence that the cure will prove to be a permanent one.

Mr. John Musgat, harness-maker, doing business at 548 Main street, Fond du Lac, has had the rheumatism for some six years; has also had weak eyes and diseased kidneys. Has drank the water and bathed in it, and its effect has been to relieve him of rheumatic pains, strengthen his eyes, and cure his kidney complaint.

Mr. James Wilkins, of Lisbon, Waukesha county, Wisconsin, has been greatly troubled with the gravel for over twenty years. His urinary organs had become so weakened that he was compelled to leave his bed four or five times nightly for necessary purposes. Two days, use of the water has cured him! His son, Reuben Wilkins, is a resident of Fond du Lac, and works at his trade as blacksmith, on Third street.

Mr. Robert Longstaff is a citizen of Fond du Lac, living at the corner of Fifth and Ellis streets. He has used the Magnetic Water for but two weeks and it has had a most beneficial effect upon him. His case is one of gravel, of twenty years continuance. He had previously tried juniper berries, the best gin, and spirits of nitre, without effect. Although not yet entirely cured he is so much improved that he has little doubt that his permanent cure is only a question of time.

Mr. James Graham, is a tinsmith in employ in Fond du Lac. He and his family board with Mrs. Edgell, on First street. His wife came to Fond du Lac a victim of the prevailing Michigan malaria—fever and ague. She had a chill every other day; now she is cured.

The above is simply a cure of fever and ague. Other medical waters, especially those of Michigan, have had some effect on rheumatism. In Michagan fever and ague prevails; in Fond du Lac it is unknown, except when brought from abroad.

MR. S. W. VAN ARNAM,

Resides at No. 43 East Division St., Fond du Lac. He has for a great many years been severely afflicted with kidney disease. The use of the water has been a great benefit to him, and he is very much relieved. His wife has been cured of neuralgia, and an indescribably oppressive throat complaint, by the water. His daughter, Miss Lucy Van Arnam, has been entirely cured of neuralgia, with which she had been greatly troubled for a number of years, Such is the record of the water in a single family.

Mr. Jacob Avery, lives at No. 111 Amory street, Fond du Lac. Twenty-three years ago his wife after confinement, became afflicted with a "milk" leg. No doctor had been able to help her, and she had given up in despair. Her limb had become so badly swollen that it was with the utmost difficulty she could get up and down stairs. She also had trouble with her kidneys. For this latter complaint she commenced using the water. After one week she observed a reduction in the swelling of her limb. Now the swelling has entirely disappeared, and the limb is assuming its natural shape, and she can use it freely and without pain. A constant pain in her side has entirely vanished. Her kidney troubles, which had lasted for ten years, are gone. This is one of the most remarkable cures yet developed.

The certificate of Mrs. Joseph Olmsted, an intelligent and affable lady living on Fourth street, in the First ward, will satisfy reasonable persons that she has been materially helped by using the Magnetic Water;

This is to certify, That I have been troubled with rheumatism for thirteen years, at first through my whole system which finally settled in my shoulders and hands. I suffered great pain at times, and the joints of my hands were much distorted. I have drank and bathed in the Magnetic Water from Mr. Hunter's artesian fountain for two or three months, and am now entirely free from rheumatic pains.

MRS. JOSEPH OLMSTED,
Fond du Lac.

HERNIA CURED.

Mr. Stanchfield, lumberman, a quiet retiring gentleman, living on Fourth street, gives in testimony as to the efficacy of the Magnetic Water, in the following statement:

For the benefit of those who are afflicted as I have been, I will state my case in plain language. I hereby state that I had the misfortune to have a severe rupture twelve years ago. I have used various kinds of trusses, but never received any permanent benefit from their use. I often suffered severe pain and great inconvenience, so as often to be unfit for any kind of business. I have used the Magnetic Water from Mr. Hunter's fountain (not regularly, however), for two months, and am free from the pain and inconvenience heretofore caused by the breach. I have thrown aside trusses as useless and cumbersome.

I will further state that I had kidney complaint for several years, and now find myself benefited by the use of the Magnetic Water.

J. H. STANCHFIELD.

Mrs. Haines Hunter, an affable, intelligent lady living on Second street, gives in her testimony as to the good effects of Magnetic Water in cases of dyspepsia, in the following language:

This is to certify, That I have been troubled with dyspepsia for fifteen years, and have lately found great relief in using the Magnetic Water.

MRS. H. HUNTER.

I, John P. Hunter, formerly a resident of Beaver Dam, but now a resident of this city, certify that my wife was in bad health for two or three years previous to January, 1873, and during the winter of that year she was quite unable to do any kind of work, and often had to keep her bed. She was afflicted with physical female weaknesses and diseases. She also had dyspepsia and other complicated complaints, and among them cutaneous eruptions all over her body, so bad that some of her neighbors believed she had the small-pox. These complaints continued, with slight abatements, occasionally, till May, 1873. I employed four or five different physicians, who tried, but failed, to help her. In the latter part of May last I procured some of the Saline Water from George Hunter's artesian fountain, which she drank for ten or twelve days, and was entirely cured of all her complicated diseases and she is as well now as she ever was having gained forty pounds of flesh during the last summer. J. P. HUNTER.

Hon. U. D. Mihills, of the firm of Mihills & Son, late proprietors of an extensive lumbering establishment, and a large sash, door and blind factory, makes the following statement: This is to certify that I have had rheumatism in my arms and shoulders for eight or nine years past, and have tried a variety of remedies, and only found temporary relief, until last season, when I commenced bathing in and drinking the Magnetic Saline Water from George Hunter's artesian fountain. I used the water, occasionally, during the summer and fall of 1873, and am now entirely free from rheumatic troubles and can, with utmost confidence recommend the Magnetic Water to all who are troubled as I have been, as a sure cure. I also know that the Magnetic Water is an excellent remedy for kidney complaints.

U. D. MIHILLS.

Statement of H. G. Campbell, grocer on the corner of Scott and Brooke streets. Mr. Campbell's case is a peculiar one. To those who have known him for years, and have seen him going about daily, half bent, with his head and shoulders quite on a level with his hips, his cure is regarded as almost miraculous. Mr. Campbell's case was the first to attract public attention. But Mr. Campbell will speak for himself:

MR. HUNTER—Sir:—My statement is that I have had the rheumatism in its severest forms in all parts of my system for thirteen years—ever since I was thirteen years of age—so severely in my hips and back that I could not stand erect, but was forced to stand and walk about in a half-bent posture: that is my body was fixed at right angles with my legs. I suffered severe pains. The muscles of my body were sore and torpid, and apparently permanently contracted to my hips. During my thirteen years of suffering, I used great quantities of medicines prescribed by physicians and quacks, and found no permanent relief until last April, when I obtained some water from your artesian well, soon after it was discovered that the water possessed magnetic and medicinal properties. I immediately began to use the water, and have continued to do so ever since, and am now free from pain. My joints are limber, I can stand nearly erect, and feel as well as I did when I was a much younger boy. HUGH J. CAMPBELL.

The foregoing are but a few of the hundreds of exceptionally gratifying testimonials received weekly, lack of space precluding the publication of any more. It sufficeth to say, in conclusion, that language fails utterly in describing the beneficial effects of both the external and internal use of this celebrated water from the Hunter Fountain.

RUPTURE.

Dr. J. A. SHERMAN—Is the Original and only Dr. SHERMAN known to the public for the past 35 years or more through his successful method of treating Rupture without the annoyance and injury trusses inflict. His system of cure is by local external application.

No man is safe who has a rupture, no matter how insignificant he may consider it, for every man who has died from it once flattered himself that it was but a trifling ailment; and every man who now suffers from it and the injury of trusses, to such an extent that life had no enjoyments, once regarded it as unworthy special attention. It is not a stand still affli tion; it is progressive, even unto death. Referenc s given to gentlemen in the city, who have been cured. During treatment no hindrance from labor. Patients from abroad c n receive treatment and leave for home same day.

HIS BOOK ON RUPTURE

gives the most reliable proofs from distinguished professional gentlemen, clergymen and merchants his successful practice and popularity therefrom throughout this country and the West Indies.

The afflicted should read it and inform themselves of the certainty of being cured.

It is illustrated with photographic likenesses of extremely bad cases before and after cure, and mailed to those who send 10 cents. Save this, and remember in writing or calling the address is

All Forms of Life and Endowment Policies Issued.

THE CONVERTIBLE POLICY

is issued by no other Company, and is considered by financiers and business men as the most desirable form of Life Insurance ever offered to the public.

The convertible plan avoids all the objections to Insurance as ordinarily offered for the following reasons:

First—All Premiums cease at the age of 65.

Second—If, on reaching that age, you still need Insurance, the policy continues in full force, the annual dividends increasing the amount of Insurance.

Third—If, at the age of 65, you no longer need Insurance, the Company will issue in lieu of the Policy an "Annuity Bond," stipulating that, annually, during the remainder of the life-time of the insured, the Company will pay to the policy-holder a sum equal to Seven per cent. per annum, upon the face of the Policy and its additions.

Send to company's Office for Circular giving full particulars.

THE NEW-YORK LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY has been doing business for thirty-five years, and now offers to those desiring life insurance a combination of advantages which only long experience, a large and well established business and carefully perfected plans and methods can afford. Among these advantages are: (1) The absolute security of its policies. (2) Insurance at low cost. (3) Liberal and equitable dealing.

The large amount of Assets now held by the company, its large Surplus over and above all liabilities, the large number of policies in force, and the constant acceptance of new risks on carefully selected lives in the most healthful portions of North America and Europe, and the great experience of its officers and managers, render it one of the strongest, most prosperous, and most trustworthy companies in the world.

Having always been a purely mutual company, policy-holders receive ther insurance at actual current cost, and its age, strength, prosperity and economical management combine to reduce that cost to the minimum. The company is conducted in the interests of policy-holders alone. In the decision of questions involving their rights the invariable rule is to consider not the technical legality of the claim alone, but its real justice.

The non-forfeiture system of policies originated with this company in 1860, and has since been adopted—though sometimes in questionable forms—by all other companies. This feature saves millions of dollars every year to policy-holders, and for this they are indebted to the New-York Life. The system as now perfected by the New-York Life secures safety to the company (without which all interests are jeopardized), and justice to the insured.

THE SOLDIERS REUNION OF 1880.

The Men and Their Measures Which Have Carried It Foward Towards Success; With Anecdotes, Sketches and Reminiscences by Well-Known Contributors.

The Original Call!

WISCONSIN SOLDIERS!

A Grand Reunion of all surviving Wisconsin soldiers will be held at Milwaukee, Wis., commencing Monday, June 7, 1880, and continuing through the week

The management is in charge of a joint committee of this Association, the Grand Army of the Republic, the Chamber of Commerce, Merchant's Association, and citizens of Milwaukee.

During the period, a seperate reunion of every regiment and company in the war, from this state will also be held.

Regimental and company officers, who have not already done so are requested to issue a published call to the survivors of their respective commands for such a gathering at the time and place above given

Wisconsin soldiers who have not before sent, should forward their names, that the roster may be complete and in print by that time.

Comrades arriving at Milwaukee will report promptly at the headquarters of the Wisconsin Reunion Association, be registered, directed to their respective company or regimental assembly places, aided in matters of subsistence, and generally advised as to the different programmes of the week.

Coming from every direction to meet the thousands here assembling, there will also be present, irrespective of party affiliations, the Nation's greatest Warriors. Statesmen and Orators, which, with a general encampment and prarde of all the orgapized military companies of the state, together with the usual and appropriate exercises of a soldier's reunion, such as "camp fires" "sham battles" etc, cannot fail to make this occasion one of unparalleled interest and enjoyment, alike to the veterans and citizens of the Badger State.

Comrades of Wisconsin! this will be the first general reunion of our soldiers ever held in the state, and to many of us the last.

Let the influence of each, be so exercised, that our ranks thinned and reduced though they are, shall on this occasion muster as "present for duty" their full strength, even as we hope in the great hereafter as we gather around the throne of the God of Battles,—none may be found missing or otherwise " accounted for."

Fond du Lac, Wis.

C. K. PIER,
Pres. W. R. Association.

GRIFF. J THOMAS, Sec'y.

Which was subsequently suffixed by the following:

"RALLY ON THE COLORS!"

Comrades!

Now for a long pull,
A strong pull,
And a pull all together!
Rally for Reunion.
Organize by Towns or Counties.
Attend as Delegations.
Join old commands at Milwaukee.
Publish list of all soldiers in your county.
Correct and add to, until complete.
Send copy here.
The Association wants every Soldier's
Name—Company—Regiment—Occupation and P. O. Address
In printed Roster by June 7.
Your local Papers are great helps.
Interest them.
Have them publish enclosed Announcement,
And "Boom" for the Soldiers until Reunion Day.
Railroads will give reduced rates—
We hope down to One Cent a mile.
Special rates at hotels and boarding houses.
Expect loan of five thousand tents from Government,
And other arrangements for inexpensive subsistence,
So that (as one of the boys said at the last committee meeting,)
"It will be a darn sight cheaper to go than to stay at home."
It will be the occasion of a lifetime.
The "Badger State Centennial," as it were—for instance!

Think it up!
Write it up!
Talk it up!
} Shake it up lively!

Let us see what Wisconsin veterans can do
When the battle cry is "Rally on the Colors!"

C. K. PIER,
President Reunion Association.

Fond du Lac, Wis.

The announcement of a proposed reunion of all Wisconsin soldiers at Milwaukee, having been published by the leading newspapers throughout the country, found in every state, comrades ripe and ready for the occasion. A few—a sample lot—of these responses will not be out of place in the columns of THE REUNION ROSTER.

Col. Dawes wants to Know.

Col. R. R. Dawes, of the Sixth regiment who step by step worked and won, well merited promotion from corporal's chevrons to full spread eagle's, writes from Maritta, Ohio, where he resides and is engaged in business:

"I see you have suggested a re-union of the Iron Brigade. May I trouble you to let me know what steps, if any, have been taken in that direction. I am, as you see, where Wisconsin papers do not often come. There should, if possible, be at least one re-union of the old brigade. I doubt if our own or any other war affords a service record parallel with its history For the old Iron Brigade was literally destroyed on the field of battle. The gun-shot casualties up to, and including Gettysburg, amounted to over 3,000, fully one hundred per cent, after which came the teribie Grant campaign against Lee.

If there is to be a re-union, I wish to be there, and will do all that I can to further its interests and secure its success."

Gen. Bragg Assumes Command.

The wish expressed in the foregoing was fully reciprocated, as shown by the following cirular notice and succeeding orders, duly promulgated:

SOLDIERS AND COMRADES:

At the request of the military and civic authorities, having in charge the success of the Grand Reunion of Soldiers to take place at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, on the 7th of June next and the week ensuing, and with your permission, I will resume my old command during that encampment.

The Way They Called.

How The Boys Heard of Reunion.

Regimental and company commanders issued calls to their old comrades, of which the following are samples:

FIRST REGIMENT WISCONSIN INFANTRY.

To the Members of the Old First.

(Three months and three years.) As well in cordial greeting of the living, as kindly memory of the dead: Surviving comrades of Wisconsin's first and favorite regiment—including both organizations—are hereby called to meet in regimental and company reunion, at Milwaukee, June 7-12, 1880, on the occasion of the general gathering of all Wisconsin soldiers.

Let each member strive to be present, as the event will undoubtedly be one of unparalleled importance and interest.

The three months fellows—including Gen. Lucius Fairchild, Co. K., and Col. C. K. Pier, Co, I—"may gather on the beautiful banks" of the Menominee, while the rest of us will put up with a soldier's hard fare, at the Plankinton, or among the palaces on Grand Avenue in and about Old Camp Scott, as the weather and our pockets permit.

By order of
GEN. JOHN C. STARKWEATHER,
President First Regiment Reunion Society.
C. H. BENTON, Sec'y.

FIFTH WISCONSIN VOLUNTEERS.

The Old Fifth Wisconsin Volunteers will be assigned quarters as a regiment at the grand Reunion in Milwaukee. It is a matter of interest to all its members who feel a pride in the only Wisconsin regiment in the famous Sixth Corps, to come once more together, to revive old associations of the camp and field. Our comrades are scattered all over the State and all over the Northwest. Will they be kind enough to send their names, company and address to the undersigned, who would like to publish a complete list of all members of the regiment. Send the names of all you know in your several localities, directed to

T. S. ALLEN,
Late Col. 5th Wis. Vol Infantry.
Oshkosh, Wis.

The Second Wisconsin.

The following letter to the Sunday Telegraph explains itself:

MCGREGOR, IA., March 17th.

A copy of your paper of the 7th, has reached me containing Gen. Bragg's order calling the Iron Brigade to the Reunion to be held in Milwaukee, June 7th. I write this more particularly to invite the members of the Second Wisconsin Volunteers, or such of them as will be present at the Reunion, to write me by postal card or by letter, addressed to this place, giving company in which they served, and rank at date of discharge. I shall be on hand at this Reunion, and hope to have the pleasure of meeting all of the surviving members of the Brigade. I know we shall enjoy a rally around the old battle flags and again renew friendships in the revival of the memories of the past. Especially let the members of the Second Wisconsin Infantry rally to a man, and once more march in column of fours with the tattered flags to the breeze. I will take pleasure in corresponding with all members of the regiment and impart such information in regard to the Reunion as I may possess. Very respectfully,

GEO. H. OTIS,
Brevet Lieut. Col. Commanding 2d Wis. Vol.

The Sixteenth Regiment.

The following Reunion call was issued to the Sixteenth Regiment:

To the Veterans of the Sixteenth Infantry:

The undersigned would rejoice to meet you at the Soldiers' Reunion in Milwaukee, in June next, and then go into camp with you. If permitted he will take with him the banners under which you so proudly marched to victory, that you may again have an opportunity of renewing your devotion to them, and your friendship for each other. The General under whose inspiring commands you so often "moved on the enemy's works" will be there to greet you. Fraternally yours,

THOS. REYNOLDS,
Late Col. of Sixteenth Wis. Infantry.
Madison, Wis., March 4, 1880.

ATTENTION, THE SEVENTEENTH.

The surviving members of the Seventeenth Wisconsin Infantry, known in Sherman's army as the Irish Brigade, are invited to attend the grand Reunion of Wisconsin veteran soldiers, to be held in Milwaukee, from the 7th to the 12th of June next, to celebrate the events of the war, and its great victories, and to honor anew the memories of our fellow-comrades. Headquarters will be provided, of which due notice will be given. P. H. MCCAULEY.

TWENTY-THIRD WISCONSIN.

Attention, Twenty-Third Wisconsin Infantry:

A Grand Reunion of Soldiers will be held at Milwaukee from the 7th to the 12th of June next, and it has been decided that the Twenty-Third shall have a Regimental Reunion on that occasion.

Let the members of our regiment join their local organizations and go with them to Milwaukee, to participate in the General Reunion, and while there we will camp as a regiment, and renew old and loved associations, and talk over the trying times in which so many of our number gave their lives, or their limbs, or the best of their health and strength to their country. All who intend to be present will please notify me by card before the 20th of May next, so that the necessary accommodations may be provided. Headquarters will be hereafter announced.

As soon as it can be done I intend to have prepared a complete regimental record, which will account for every man who belonged to our organization. And I request that each surviving member of the Twenty-Third who cannot attend the Reunion and report there, will write to me at the earliest day practicable, giving his residence, business and items of his history since discharge as will be of interest to comrades; also if a pensioner, to so state and on what account, and also to state the death of comrades since the war known to him, and the times and places thereof as near as possible. Each of our members residing in Wisconsin who knows the address of a comrade living outside of this State, will please send him a copy of this notice. J. J. GUPPEY, Late Col. 23d Wis. Infantry.

Portage, Wis., March 27th, 1880.

ATTENTION, TWENTY-FIFTH REGIMENT.

The undersigned has been requested to call upon the Twenty-Fifth Wisconsin Volunteers to be present at the great Soldiers' Reunion in Milwaukee, June 7th. Fall in line, boys, and bivouac in Milwaukee on the evening of the 7th of June. J. M. RUSK.

ATTENTION, THE TWENTY-FIRST.

Comrades! You are cordially invited to attend the Grand Reunion of Wisconsin Soldiers to be held in Milwaukee on the 7th of June next. You who were at Chaplin Hills, Stone River, Hoover's Gap, Chicamauga, Mission Ridge, Resaca, Dallas, Kenesaw Mountain, Marietta, Chattahoochee, Peach Tree Creek, Atlanta and the March to the Sea, in the march through the Carolinas, at Bentonville, Raleigh, and the march to Richmond and Washington, rally once more to greet the living and revive the memories of the dead.

General Sherman, in his memoirs, says: "I remember that Wisconsin kept her regiments filled with recruits, whereas other States generally filled their quotas by new regiments, and the result was that we estimated a Wisconsin regiment equal to an ordinary brigade." With such a tribute from perhaps the greatest master among modern military men, Milwaukee may well be proud to welcome the defenders of the old flag.

THE TENTH WISCONSIN.

HEADQUARTERS, TENTH WISCONSIN INFANTRY VOLUNTEERS.
MILWAUKEE, April 14th, 1880.

To the surviving comrades of the old Tenth Wisconsin Infantry Volunteers;

You are hereby ordered to report to these headquarters, corner of Broadway and Huron streets, on the 7th day of June next, for duty during the Reunion.

Come one, come all.

TWELFTH AND SIXTEENTH.

HEADQUARTERS, 1ST BRIGADE, 3D DIV., 17TH ARMY CORPS, CAMP RANDALL.

By order of Major M. D. Leggett, the undersigned assumes command of the Heroes, all who held the hill, that was the key, that enabled the dead MacPherson to win the battle of Atlanta.

The Twelfth Wisconsin Infantry, under the command of Col. James K. Proudfit, and the Sixteenth Wisconsin Infantry under command of Col. Thomas Reynolds, will form the front line, and as at break of day they charged Bold Hill and first saw the terrors of Atlanta, so at June 7th, 1880, they will move on Milwaukee.

Lieut. Frank H. Putney (in the absence of Lieutenant Nelson Chandler) will move the skirmish line forward from Waukesha, on the evening of the 9th and see that the campus is ready for the column.

Capt. Ed. Whitney will come up from Louisiana, with commissaries; Quartermaster Andrew Sexton will bring his mules (as at Kenesaw Mountain) close up to the line. He will be expected to provide stores when Whitney's are gobbled. As soon as rations can be provided (which will be promptly,) the Twelfth and Sixteenth are expected to entertain, in a hospitable way the Illinois men of their brigade. Chaplain Walker will pray for onions, and Surgeons Cary and Rogers will take care of the same. Any man who harms a hair of Gen. Leggett's cow will be shot on the spot! Pat Regan, bring my horse!

Forward, then, comrades; let us spend a week in Milwaukee with our brothers of other Wisconsin regiments and make a green spot on the hill of time we are now toddling down.

Four flags will wave there!

The Effect of the Calls.

The effect of these calls was to arouse the army spirit all over the state, and paragraphs like the following appeared thick and fast in the newspapers throughout not only Wisconsin, but the northwest generally:

The meeting of LaFayette County soldiers, held at the office of the county treasurer on Saturday last, was called to order by General Bintliff, who offered the following resolution, which was adopted: Resolved, That we effect an organization for the purpose of obtaining the address of each soldier of the late war now residing in this county, and to make such arrangements as may be deemed necessary to enable all to attend, in a body, the Reunion of Wisconsin soldiers, to be held in Milwaukee, commencing June 7th.

Richland County will surprise the natives when her delegation of five hundred, or over, marches in solid column through the city of Milwaukee, headed by the Richland Center band. All we are bothered about is that there will be no one left at home to run the printing offices, stores and other places of business.

A local committee, appointed to perfect the soldiers' Reunion roster for Fond du Lac county, has adopted a plan which can not fail of success. Lieut H. B. Eastman and Capt J. H. Hauser have made an arrangement by which the clerks at the polls in each of the election precincts of the county will be supplied with blanks upon which to record the name and address of each veteran who votes in April. It is urgently requested that at least one old soldier at each poll will make it his especial order of the day to see that the names are given in to the clerks. On Saturday the 10th of April, at one o'clock in the afternoon, there will be a meeting at the court house, in this city, of all those interested, for the purpose of organizing the vets of the county into a battalion to move upon the works of the Reunion. No stragglers should be allowed on this march.

The coming Reunion of soldiers will be in the interest of no political party. It will be as far removed from everything of a party character as it is possible for any gathering to be. Such democrats as Bragg, Hancock, Robinson, Hobart, Vilas and a host of others who will take an active part in the demonstration, would not be apt to do so if the Reunion was in the interest of the republican party. Such republicans as Allen, Hiucks, Bintliff, Pier, Rusk and many others, would not be likely to engage in the enterprise if it was to be run in the interest of the democratic party.

Veterans of the Mexican war have written asking why they could not be included in the call.

"All soldiers in the State of Wisconsin and all Wisconsin soldiers wherever they may be," is the way the resolution of invitation reads.

The veterans held a rousing meeting at Janesville, Tuesday evening, and made arrangements for attending the Reunion in this city.

Wisconsin soldiers, write to D. N. Kasson, Secretary, Milwaukee, Wisconsin, for full information relative to the Soldiers' Reunion. Give name, number of regiment and company. Answer by return mail.

A few days ago a prominent gentleman, who is a republican and a friend of Hon. Robert G. Ingersoll, asked him who Illinois would be for in the contest for the republican presidential nomination.

"Grant," said Bob.

"But," says his friend, "I thought you were for Blaine?"

"So I was," said Bob, "four years ago and would be this year, if that would do any good; but this is going to be a soldier's year, and Grant fills the popular eye in this character. I think Grant will be nominated at Chicago, and, if nominated, elected."

We wish a list of all the returned soldiers in every city, village and town in this county, with regiment and company in which they served, and post-office address. We wish to publish a complete list preparatory to the grand Reunion commencing on the 7th of June.

Will some comrade in each town, or two or three together, get up and send us such a list. It will be of great interest to the people and to every old soldier, to know how many of us there are left, and where we are. We wish to arrange for a grand boom from Winnebago county to the Reunion, and to agree on a time for going down as nearly as possible together.

Railroad fare will probably be reduced to one cent a mile, which will enable all to go.

Sends in the returns, directed to "Northwestern," Oshkosh, Wis.

Chairman Fischer has received a large list of names, from the town of Norway, of soldiers who will be present at the Reunion.

A grand gathering of Wisconsin soldiers was held last evening at the Grand Pacific Hotel in Chicago, for the purpose of making arrangements for attending the Reunion. It is understood from advices received from that city, that a large number of people will be present.

Eighty-seven veterans have reported from Beloit for enrollment on the Reunion book.

Portage veterans held an enthusiastic meeting the other evening and resolved to organize, put on style and come to the grand Reunion in full force. It is said that every soldier in that county will attend, and one man up there has quit smoking long enough to save the necessary ducats.

The La Crosse Chronicle prints a list of names, numbering 192 soldiers of the late war, most of whom will attend the Reunion.

A county organization of survivors of the late "Onpleasantness" has been effected at Neillsville, and promises to show up strong at the June meeting.

Vernon County promises to send a large delegation to the Reunion, and Secretary Casson, of that county, in his call, says it is to be the largest gathering of ex-soldiers ever held in this country, exceeding any similar occasion of modern times

The coming Reunion of soldiers promises to constitute the largest gathering of people ever witnessed in the state. The managers, headed by Col. Pier, the president, of Fond du Lac, are leaving no thing undone to render the affair a success in all respects. The railroads will charge three cents a mile for round trip tickets.

The Reunion boom is the biggest thing out, in Wisconsin affairs. Not only the entire returned soldier element but the entire population of the state, is taking a warm and general interest in the movement, and nothing but bad weather can prevent the biggest crowd in Milwaukee, next June, that ever tested the capacity of any city in the United States.

The Reunion in Milwaukee next June will be the largest gathering of soldiers in America since the grand reviews in Washington, May 23 and 24, 1865.

Attention Soldiers! All soldiers of the war of the rebellion residing in Waupaca county, desiring to form a County Association, will please send their names and address to me, and if a sufficient number signifies their intention as favorable, a call for meeting and organization will be made.

Waupaca, Wis., March 1st. 1880.

JOE H. WOODNORTH.

County papers please copy.

Distinguished ex-Union Generals, now living in remote parts of the country are arranging their affairs with the view of attending the Reunion So they write.

The veterans in charge of the Reunion arrangements, report the daily receipt of letters from old soldiers in Nevada, Nebraska, and other portion of the far west, who are loaded to the muzzle with an enthusiasm which fire cannot destroy or water quench.

Veterans who served in New England regiments, who propose attending the Reunion, are respectfully requested to confer with Dr. I. H. Stearns, late surgeon Mass. Twenty-second; and if a suitable number respond, that quarters will be provided, that they may get together. Address Dr. I. H. Stearns, Milwaukee, Wis.

This evening about one hundred soldiers of the late war met at the court house, in the county clerk's office, for the purpose of making arrangements to attend the grand Reunion of soldiers and sailors to be held in Milwaukee on June 7, and it was agreed that the soldiers from the county towns should be invited to join and organize a county organization. A great deal of enthusiasm was manifested, and probably about five hundred soldiers will attend the reunion. The meeting was adjourned to the 29th, when steps will be taken to form a permanent county organization.

Milwaukee and the Reunion.

How the Boom started in the Metropolis.

While the country was being so thoroughly aroused, Milwaukee (naturally a little slow to start, but strong when she does go) became alarmed as she beheld the mighty armies assembling to sweep down upon her, and in order that they might not be unprepared to welcome and properly care for their visitors a public meeting was called, and several soldiers and citizens outside invited in to report. Hon. John Johnson, cashier Wis. Mer. and Fire Ins. Bk., was president, and Mayor Black, D. W. Dwall, Edward Sanderson, J. E. Mann, W. G. Roberts, C. H. Haskins, John Pritzlaff, W. P. Lynde, C. B. Harger, Jas. G. Jenkins, Abner Kirby, J. M. Crombie, E Mariner, C. T. Bradley, G. C. Trumpff, E. R. Persons, D. L. Wells, C. Fernkes, O. P. Burt, W. Merrill, Auf. Uhlein, W. P. McLaren, A. BOOM!

FIRST GUNS OF THE GREAT REUNION FIRED AT TUESDAY'S EVENING'S MASS MEETING.

A VERY LARGE CROWD, A GREAT DEAL OF ENTHUSIASM AND A ROUSING OLD TIME.

ELOQUENT REMARKS BY COL. PIER, GEN. HINCKS, PRIVATE PECK, HANS WARNER, COL JOHNSON, JUDGE MALLORY AND OTHERS.

LOADED TO THE MUZZLE.

The meeting at the academy of music, Tuesday evening, in the interest of the Soldier's Reunion was a splendid success. By the time the speaking was well under way the house was crowded and jammed, not less than 1,500 persons being present. At 7 o'clock Clauder's orchestra took a position in the street in front of the building, and for an hour discoursed music that stirred up a crowd chiefly characterized for its size and for the degree of enthusiasm manifest. Everybody appeared on the "enthuse," and the assembly was a happy conglomeration. At 8 o'clock, President Johnson and about 50 prominent citizens, not only of Milwaukee, but the state at large, were on the stage, and the band having taken a position back of the officers, first rendered a medley of patriotic, war time and peace prevailing melodies. President Johnson stepped forward and said:

"Ladies and Gentlemen:—

The executive committee of the Soldiers' Reunion have asked me to preside over this large and intelligent meeting, an honor which I highly appreciate and for which they have my most cordial thanks.

We have been invited to this hall to-night, to hear a number of distinguished speakers on the subject of the great Reunion which is to be held in this city, during the second week of June.

I fear the merchants, the manufacturers, the professional men and citizens of Milwaukee in general do not sufficiently estimate the importance of the proposed gathering, and that, as yet, we are far from being permeated with that inspiration and that enthusiasm which are worthy of the occasion, and are so necessary to insure its success.

Language cannot express the stirring memories which crowd in upon our minds when we contemplate such a Reunion.

Think of it! To-morrow, nineteen years will have passed since the flag of the United States of America was lowered in derision before the assault of rebels at Fort Sumpter; and to-morrow, fifteen years will have passed since the selfsame flag was again raised in triumph over the battered walls of the old fort.

Before it fell, there was a dark stain upon its folds, for it was the flag beneath which the bones and blood of four millions of living men and women were bought and sold, but when it was again raised in triumph it could be said,

"This proud banner whose resplendent fold
Alike waves wide above the young and old,
Is and shall be, without one star the less,
In triumph borne to unite and bless
These mighty states from farthest sea to sea,
With every man, whate'er his color, free!"

Who were the men who fought this fight, and achieved this glorious and lasting triumph? They were the men who swettered in the lagoons of Mississippi, and froze in the trenches at Stone River; who slaked their thirst in the waters of the Rappahannock, and slept for weeks in the swamps of the Chickahominy; the heroes of Vicksburg and Mission Ridge, of Antietam and Gettysburg; they are the men who are to be our guests next June, and shall we not give them an enthusiastic, a patriotic, aye an overwhelming welcome?

I have spoken of the stirring memories which the Reunion will call up in our minds, and so fleet are the footsteps of time, that to most of us the events of the war seem to have happened but yesterday. Thousands, however, in our midst have no personal remembrance of the war. All the young men and young women, under twenty years of age, know of those dreadful days of sorrow and of sacrifice only what they have been told and what they have read.

Next June when they see nearly half of the ninety thousand men who followed the standards of Wisconsin to the war, marsha led in the streets of our fair city, the achievements and the sacrifices of the conflict will be brought home to their minds in a manner such as there could be in no other way.

The young men, the young women, and even the children of Wisconsin will tell in coming years th it although they do not remember the war, yet they well remember the great Reunion in Milwaukee in 1880, when thirty thousand veterans came together to fight their battles over again before meeting the last great enemy of all.

Ten thousand seven hundred and fifty of the brave men who went forth to the war from our beloved State never returned, and their names we have engraven on memory's most sacred tablets. In welcoming the living we bestow the highest possible tribute to the dead; and be they living or dead their heroic deeds go down embalmed on the pages of history affording throughout all time the noblest incentive to patriotic devotion in the hearts of generations yet unborn.

In Roman history we are told of the brave Horatius, the captain of the gate, who kept at bay the whole Tuscan army, and saved the city. Centuries after, it was said

'Wives still pray to Juno
For boys with hearts as bold,
As his who kept the bridge so well,
In the brave days of old.'

And can we doubt, but that as long as the murmurs of Lake Michigan break upon the ears of a free people the mothers of Wisconsin will fire the patriotism of their boys by tales of the valor and self denial of the men who put down the rebellion in the brave days of old.

Ladies and gentlemen, as we are honored here to-night by the presence of many who are at the same time eloquent speakers and tried soldiers, I will detain you no longer, but I invite for them your most earnest attention."

Mr. Johnson fairly outdid himself in the way of making a speech. He first introduced Col. Pier, of Fond du Lac, who said in the course of his remarks, that:

A little more than a year ago the surviving Wisconsin soldiers of the late rebellion, conceived the idea of having a Reunion in one of the centrally located cities of the state. The subject was talked up, a few postal cards were sent out, and eventually the newspapers took up the matter and gave it tangible shape. It was decided to hold the Reunion in Milwaukee, and June was decided upon as the month in which it would be held. Bushels of letters were being received daily, and had been for months past, and it was really suprising to know how the old Wisconsin soldiers had been scattered from one end of the world to the other, letters coming from every conceivable corner of the globe. The attendance at the Reunion could only be estimated by the capacity of the railroads and other transporting lines to bring them to the city. It was simply impossible to estimate the interest that was being manifested in this, the greatest Reunion of the times. Nothing less than an earthquake or a hundred earthquakes could keep them away. The most important question was: How are they to be fed and entertained when they get here? They expect to pay their way but where shall they, their wives and children be sheltered? The patriotic citizens will surely make some arrangement for them, for it would be better for us here at home to go into the streets and let the tired and dusty visitors abide in our homes, than to have them come up here and be disappointed. The visitors will find Milwaukee beer so good that it is feared that many of them will indulge unwittingly and the next morning will have to appear before the Blind Goddess—Judge Mallory, and beseech forg veness. Many of you will doubtless appear for them and plead that they are such almighty good fellows that their sins might be forgiven, if he will just let them off this time. The speaker made several very happy local hits and told an anecdote that was, to use a common expression, "simply immense."

The speech fairly electrified, by its eloquence the audience, and at its close the applause was tremendous.

Gen. J. A. Kellogg, of Wausau, one of the "Pinery Boys," and during the war one of the commanders of the famous Iron Brigade, was next introduced and spoke as follows:

Mr President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

It is a pleasure to me to address so large and so intelligent a number of the citizens of Milwaukee. On looking over this sea of faces I do not see a single unkindly face and I assure you I have not the slightest animosity toward one of you and yet I pity you. Do you realize the fact that you are about to be charged upon by an army fifty thousand strong; charged upon from all directions at once by this large army, armed to the teeth with giant appetites. A raid will be made upon your Comissary stores that it will require your utmost vigilance to defend. I assure you this will be the case and I am afraid you do not appreciate the situation. Why, you ought to commence now to instruct your chickens to roost high and teach your young pigs the art of self defense, for such a gathering of soldiers has never been seen in this state as will be with you on that occasion, and it is doubtful whether such a sight will ever be again seen in this state. From the letters I am receiving from all parts of the United States, from Maine to California, I am justified in saying that the attendance will be unprecedented. The object of the Reunion I understand primarily to be simply a gathering of the boys in blue for social enjoyment, that we may meet and compare notes, look once more into each others faces and again clasp hands. I long to see kind faces I now recollect as powder grimmed and distorted with pain or fixed with the frown of determination to do or die in their country's cause. I want to see kindly eyes which I recollect as flashing and glaring like the eyes of a wild beast as the battle raged around us. In fact we want a chance to fight our battles over again as soldiers love to do, by memory's magic power, recall the lights and shades of a soldier's barren life. To those who have never been in the service it is hard, if not impossible, to appreciate the tenderness of the tie that binds soldiers together. Dangers mutually shared in the white heat of battle held them together and a still stronger tie binds together the hearts of those who suffered together the tortures of rebel prison. I see here tonight one with whom I formerly associated in Macon prison pen. We ate our part of corn meal together with the greatest pleasure we could experience. There is but one occasion when I remember of getting the better of him and that was by a meal of fresh meat acquired as follows: A cat by some means got into the prison yard—how or why I do not know for there was but few attractions for a cat—but it was there and caught a rat. The idea struck me that if Chinese could eat rats I could, so I raided the cat and took the rat away and immediately commenced skinning it. A hungry fellow at once took the hint and went for the cat, he ate one. I the other, while Collins I have no doubt envied both of us, for in rebel prison, starved as we were, all that was selfish came to the surface and I say there is a tender tie binding all soldiers and especially prisoners second only to that binding us to wife and children, and sometimes I fear not second even to that. It was no holiday task to subdue a rebellion of the magnitude of that inaugurated by the Southern chiefs in 1861. No carpet knights were they who met and conquered the veteran troops of Lee, Longstreet and Johnson. It was a fight where Americans met Americans and it was only when it became a matter of endurance, of men, money and supplies that the North manifested its superiority over the South. The armies of the North met foemen worthy of their steel. It was a death grapple in which with equal numbers, equally supplied, it is hard to determine where or how the war would have ended.

Better men or better soldiers the world never saw than those who confronted each other on the battle fields of the South. It was a struggle which, when ended, left one of the combatants defeated and the other victorious but nearly exhausted by the struggle. In such a war as this an opportunity was given to display the metal of which our people was made, and in the fiery furnace of battle they proved pure gold. As an American I am proud to know that however wrong the cause for which they fought the people of the South were no poltroons and when the bitterness shall have passed away by the flight of time, while the scar may remain, the wound will be healed. The time will come when the people of the North will point with honest pride to the sterling traits of character and the true soldierly qualities of the boys in gray and I pray that the time may be hastened when the animosities engendered by the war may permanently pass away and when the blue and the gray may meet in a Reunion; though perhaps few of the survivors may meet and clasp hands as ex-soldiers of one republic cemented all the more closely by the memories of the past. The brilliancy of the genius of such men as Lee, Longstreet, and Jackson made even treason respectable. I am proud of a victory gained over such soldiers, I trust that the Reunion may serve to bind even the American people more closely together in the bonds of friendship, and I hope no man will dare to say that it was inaugurated for a partisan purpose. On closing let me say I have never distrusted the ability or willingness of the people of Milwaukee to make the Reunion a success—such a success as shall leave Milwaukee associated in the minds of every visitor with the pleasantest recollection of their lives. From my own section you may expect a good delegation of the red shirted pinery boys some of whom will bring their tents with them. I believe that if a sufficient store of provisons is prepared the Aitin and the Drinkin will in a great measure take care of themselves. Milwaukee, I know, will demonstrate its ability to take care of its invited guests, and that the Reunion will be a success.

was introduced and made the usual remarks about not being present for the purpose of making a speech. He came as a private soldier, but supposed the privates would have to be taken care of in this matter as well as all of the rest. The magnitude of the great Reunion was well shown up, and he warned the citizens that soldiers would be here en masse. From one county he knew of 600 who would be present, and it was likely that at least 50,000 would be guests of the city during the week.

State Treasurer Guenther was called upon and said:

"Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Having received notice from the Reunion committee to be present on this occasion, and being informed by my military friends that a refusal would be an act of insubordination and subject me to a court martial, I am here ready to meet my fate, but hope to be dealt by with leniency.

Commendable as the spirit is, that prompted this demonstration, I am still of the opinion that so far as its object is to increase the attendance at the coming Reunion, you might as well have dispensed with it. Its grand success is already an assured fact as everybody can tell you who has kept his eyes and ears open for the last six months. I know that the soldiers will all rally around the old flag in June next. They have said so, and you know they always keep their word. You will have soldiers enough here to conquer the world, should the necessity arise.

And now, gentlemen, representing and speaking for the grand army of non-combatants, I herewith give you due notice, that it will not be within human power to keep us away. We are bound to be in this city during this grand gathering, whether you have room for us or not, and whether you wish us or not. You may cut off all railroad communications, and we will foot it; you may tie up all steamboats, and we will come in canoes or in balloons; you may entrench yourselves and we will storm your fortifications; you may issue a proclamation to hang us—and we will risk that. We would rather hang here during these days than to sit on the sombre saw logs at Oshkosh or the lonely steps of the State House at Madison and read the dispatches of the glorious time you are enjoying here.

Gentlemen, we can stand, if necessary, the distant war and thunder of battle, we can face, without flinching, the enemy; captured and disarmed, we can endure the hardships of civic life in time of war—we could see your soldiers crowned with the green laurels of victory without getting even a single leaf of that beautiful wreath ourselves. We could stand all this. But when you expect us to stay away from this peaceable engagement next June, you will have made the reckoning without your host. The soldier spirit is aroused in our hearts, and like Hannibal of ancient fame, we will cross the Alps of obstacles you may put in our way. And mind you, we'll not come alone. We will bring our wives, our children and those not blessed with those dear ones, their sweethearts.

And why, you may ask us, do you come? For them it will answer. Not merely for idle curiosity, not only because the railroad fare will be so cheap, not only because your beautiful Cream City offers so many attractions, not only because we are sure of a royal good time, not only for all this, but to help to pay off the debt of gratitude every loyal heart throughout this broad domain of freedom owes to the soldiers.

We want to greet the valiant men, we want to hail the brave defenders of our nation's honor, we want to cheer the surviving gallant patriots, we want to remember with grateful reverence the humblest of our immortal dead, who, with their own warm life blood sealed the declaration for time and eternity that the Union of the States is indissoluble, and forever.

We want to see, we want to show our children, the men, the heroes, the battle-scarred veterans, who in the dark hours of our nation's peril, in the great struggle for liberty and Union, forgetful of everything but their devotion to their native or adopted land, inspired by the loftiest patriotism, placed their all—their lives—upon the hallowed shrine of our common country.

We want to show them, not the soldiery of despotism, not soldiers by birth or profession, not soldiers for paltry gain, not soldiers who do the bidding of monarchs and kings for vain glory or brutal conquest, but the grand army of volunteer citizen soldiers of the Republic, led by the majestic, the divine, the American Goddess of Liberty, in the noble cause of right, of justice, and equality to all.

We want to take these brave men by the hand. We want once more to thank them for their heroic deeds, for their unfaltering love for our free institutions. We want to rejoice that through their efforts, through their valor, through their courageous perseverance, we are permitted to-day to so fully enjoy all the sweet boons of peace, prosperity and a united, free and powerful country, of which we, all of us, are proud to be sovereign citizens.

Gentlemen, we will all come, and my advice is: Prepare for the inevitable."

In noticing the speech the Milwaukee News said:

Mr. Guenther spoke in a vein of the richest and most irresistible humor, and his short speech was frequently interrupted by applause of the wildest kind. He ended by paying a tribute of the most lovable kind to the brave soldiers who upheld the union and saved the nation.

Loud calls were made by the audience for General Hincks, and upon his appearance the applause was so deafening and continuous that it was several minutes before he could be heard. He said that he had come to see how Milwaukeeans proposed to treat the soldiers. During the past few days he had experienced what it was to see a soldier stricken down. As to his management of the Home, every intelligent person in Milwaukee was conversant. He then gave a plain, sensible statement of what should be done by the citizens to help the Reunion along. There was a prospect of Milwaukee being eaten out of house and home. It was necessary for every family to take steps at once to help entertain some of the visiting soldiers, their cousins and their aunts. He dispelled the idea of the Reunion being a political boom—indeed, if anyone wanted to turn it into politics, why let them do it; who cared—and if the men who carried the banners of this state from the lakes to the gulf didn't have a right to talk politics, if they wanted to, who did?

Gen. Bryant, adjutant general of the state, made a short but patriotic and telling speech. He said, among other good things, that the soldiers were anticipating the events of the Reunion with the greatest pleasure, and the event would indeed be one of the greatest in the annals of the northwest. He felt sure Milwaukee would hang out its latch string and dispense its hospitality as only the Cream city could. Every class of veterans would be present, the boys would lay down the ermine, would come from the work-shops, from the cities, towns and villages, from the fields and woods.

Col. Geo. B. Goodwin was called for. He said that in answer to all remarks about the chickens roosting high, he was delegated to pronounce them false. He understood that an order had been issued for the chickens not to go to roost at all. About the soldiers getting into Judge Mallory's court for drinking lager, that was also an egregious error, as it had long ago been decided in that popular tribunal that lager beer was not an intoxicating beverage. And the law was not dealt out by that official under the shadow of a blind goddess, but was dispensed with the bandage removed from the young lady's eyes. Col. Goodwin then spoke of the record made by Wisconsin soldiers, as the high st and best, and made a great hit in reiterating the almost forgotten fact that the then 13 year old state sent 80,000 soldiers to battle, who were noble volunteers. He concluded by offering a resolution inviting all soldiers to be present at the Reunion, and accept the hospitalities of the city. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Judge Mallory was called for, and on appearing said it was too late to make a speech. He thought Milwaukee had been honored in being selected as the place of the Reunion, and every citizen felt the greatest interest in it. None need fear that they could not be well cared for. There was food in store for a million soldiers. There was millions of bushels of wheat and millions of pounds of pork, owners would be glad to dispose of. Lager would come "2 for 5," and if any of the soldiers were so unfortunate as to appear before him, he would be glad to give 'em 3 for 5

At the conclusion of Judge Mallory's speech, loud calls were made for "Peck," and the strawberry blonde of an editor left his seat in the audience and clambered onto the stage. He simply said:

RAPIDS OF THE TYLER FORK OF BAD RIVER.

ROBERTS' SUMMER RESORT, MENASHA.

"Ladies and gentlemen of Milwaukee, that is, not all of you but just enough of you. Many of those who are not present have sent their regrets. My friends there is an impression out that I crushed the late rebellion. I didn't do it I have heretofore on various occasions admitted that I had, but as I spent most of my time, while soldiering, down in Louisiana, where they raise such awful liars, you will at once see that I am not responsible for it, and yet I know lots of men who crushed the rebellion. There are at least 20,000 in Wisconsin who squelched it. But the Reunion is to be a big thing. I have already received 35,001 letters from soldiers whom I owe, and they are all coming. Everything will be done to amuse, entertain and please them. I will lend them every cent I owe; all other citizens should do the same thing. Besides the beer and other good things, the Y. M. C. A. and The Sun, these two great moral institutions across the way, will be on tap every day from 7 A. M. to 10 P. M. There are facilities in the breweries and ice houses to sleep a million of 'em. There is no need of them coming here with a mouth full of straw to sleep on, for if there are any tents in these United States that aint filled with yellow fever, we are going to have them. Will get them by fair means if possible, and if not, by foul. Speaking of fowls reminds me. There is no danger of a scarcity of chickens. Gentlemen, the woods are full of them. Gen. Hineks and others have sold their game chickens in anticipation of this event, but they were bought in the same neighborhood and consequently can be relied on. There will be tents on hand to shelter the boys from the falling dews of heaven, or any other deuce. No outsiders can drink beer, the breweries and saloons will all be closed. But it is possible enough can be scared up to prevent a famine. New military companies are being formed on all sides to see that no guilty man escapes.—Thank you."

By the time this meeting was adjourned Milwaukee was fully alive to the exigencies of the case—the boom had started. A finance committee was at once organized, and $25,000 raised to meet contingent expenses of the occasion.

THE BADGERS IN BATTLE.

From Falling Waters to Appomattox.

How They Acted—A Proud Record.

(BY COL. ED. E. BUVANT.)

The Return.

When the war was over and peace, longed-for, prayed for, thrice blessed peace, returned, the soldiers of the Union looked forward to their discharge with profoundest joy. They were eager to resume those pursuits of civil life which they had reluctantly but promptly abandoned at the call of their country. They were impatient to leave the scene of their hardships and their triumphs, and return to "God's country," the better clime and more congenial atmosphere of home. And no happier mortals ever trod the earth than those gallant armies of the Union when their homeward march began. They were to lay aside the rough harness of war; they might engage once more in the avocations of peace, the blessed privileges of which they had learned to prize. The avenues of success in a quiet and prosperous land, opened to their ambition, and they felt the enthusiasm of those to whom the gateway of manhood had just appeared. Full of hope they were to begin life anew.

They felt, too, the loftiest, noblest pride that manliness can feel. Their valor had saved the nation. The destinies of a great people, the hopes of mankind for free government, had been committed to their charge, and they had proven faithful to the high trust. Their fortitude and devotion, their bravery and fidelity, had rescued their country from impending ruin. They were conquerors for the right. They were covered with honor and crowned with success; and life was clad with new light and dignity to them. And, above all, they were coming home; and amid toil and hardship, and in camp and march, in battle and in hospital, perchance in prison pens, God knows, they had learned how much of heaven is implied in the dear word "home!"

And in 1865, the armies of the Union passed off the stage of action to exist no more save in history's most thrilling annals, and in the memories of the host who composed that band of patriot heroes.

To their added honor be it said that no class of men ever devoted themselves with more alacrity and energy than did the returned soldiers, to the honorable avocations of peace. Comparatively but few of them were spoiled by the demoralizing influences of war; and in the walks of life the soldiers of the Union have, as civilians, taken the front rank for public spirit, for large hearted enterprise and for good citizenship.

Nearly half a generation of time has passed since those mighty armies dissolved back into civil life The "Boys in Blue," then so full of life and the fire of youth, now find themselves approaching middle age. Grown more thoughtful as the years roll on, they love to turn from the business cares of life back to the eventful days in which they bore so active and glorious a part. They love to meet the comrades true and tried, of other days, and to recall those scenes, so vividly painted on their memories, and to enjoy the companionship of those choice spirits, whose recollections, like theirs, are stored with the rich historic experiences of the brave days of the war.

Hence it is, that annual reunions are becoming more general, and we look forward to them with deeper interest as the years wear away. On this occasion of your reunion it seems to me most fitting to choose as the theme for my address,

The Soldiers of Wisconsin.

Their service and their worth demand a better tribute than my gifts can bring. Their brave deeds can have but mere allusion, where time will not permit a full recital.

In no spirit of narrow state pride, nor invidious denomination, do I speak of them alone, for the brave men who maintained the honor of this state in the late war would resent any detraction from the merits of those valiant companions-in-arms who were enrolled in other states. Side by side with the brave men of every other loyal state, they bore their part in that war. Wisconsin's soldiers won for themselves, in every part of the great theatre of war the generous praise of other troops. They need not detract or belittle the services of others in order to give conspicuity to their own. Besides, the splendid material which made up Wisconsin's quota to the armies of the Union was in but small proportion native to the soil. Less than ten per cent. of her soldiers were born in her borders.

At the breaking out of the war, Wisconsin's population was composed mainly of immigrants from New York, New England, the Middle states, and from Ireland, Germany and Norway. It was composed mainly of young men and youths in their very prime; a sturdy, stalwart, self-reliant element such as push out to develop a new country.—Their superiority was noticeable.—Wherever a Wisconsin regiment appeared, the fine physique, the self reliant carriage of its men at once challenged attention; and division and brigade commanders were eager and proud to get Wisconsin regiments into their commands.

Wisconsin furnished, according to the very carefully collected returns prepared during the war, 91,397 men to the armies of the Union. In one respect her military history is peculiar. Her troops were sent to almost every part of the great theatre of war. It was a wise policy of the general government that suggested the brigading of the troops without regard to states. It put a check upon all state jealousies, and that narrow and petty state pride, which, of all men, the soldiers who fought for the cause of national union, have learned to despise. It cemented in one great brotherhood the loyal armies. And Wisconsin's troops, I say, were not only studiously diffused among the various brigades, divisions and corps, but were put to service in nearly every prominent part of the seat of war. And wherever they were sent, they bore a conspicuous part in the events of all the principal campaigns. It can be truly said that a full record of Wisconsin troops and the part they bore and the events in which they participated, would not fall far short of a complete history of the war, so wide reaching was their war experience, and so fully diffused were they throughout the several armies and their several parts. Wisconsin stood side by side with the regiments of every loyal state, and faced in frequent battle the troops of every rebel state.

And history bears me out in the proud boast, if such it seems, that wherever they were sent, and with whatever troops distributed, they soon gained a name in army circles, as being among the very best of soldiers. Not only were they noted for courage and steadiness in the field, but for order and discipline, for intelligence and manly bearing, for cleanliness and orderly life in camp, for their careful military instruction, and for their quick appreciation of the duties and dignity of the character of the citizen soldier. They accepted the restraints of discipline as a necessity of efficient service. They cheerfully obeyed men who were, in many cases, in every thing but the circumstance of rank, their inferiors, because they knew that of all evils in an army, insubordination is the worst; and that armed anarchy meant but shame, disgrace, defeat and ruin of armies and of the cause.

Another fact contributed largely to the efficiency of our fighting regiments, who served during the whole war. The state authorities, less ambitious to swell the number of regiments than to furnish good soldiers where most needed, adopted the policy of sending recruits to the old regiments. This was especially gratifying to army commanders. Says Gen. Sherman in his memoirs: "I remember that Wisconsin kept her regiments filled with recruits, whereas other states generally filled their quotas by new regiments; and the result was that we estimated a Wisconsin regiment equal to an ordinary brigade," as the recruits, mixed in with old soldiers and experienced officers, soon became veterans.

Time forbids more than a passing glance at the panorama of those many and mighty campaigns, in which it is our pride that we shared But on this occasion, which brings to mind the stirring events of those memorable days, I know my comrades will pardon me if I linger a few moments to refer to the great events in which Wisconsin soldiers covered themselves with imperishable renown.

The First Advance.

In the first advance into Northern Virginia, the first regiment was prominent, and at Falling Waters, July 22d, 1861, first met the enemy. The first bloodshed in the memorable and afterwards blood-drenched valley of the Shenandoah, flowed from the veins of Wisconsin boys. In the "On to Richmond" movement which culminated in the disastrous repulse at Bull Run, our state was represented by the second regiment in the brigade of then Col. W. T. Sherman, now general of the army. That they lost more than a seventh of the command in killed and wounded, and were among the last to leave that ill fated field, where troops all panic stricken were flying on either side of them, shows that even then, green and untried as they were, they gave promise of the mettle which in riper discipline made their fame world-wide. Sherman in his reports speaks of their steadiness.

Peninsular Campaign, 1862.

In this campaign, Wisconsin was represented by the gallant fifth regiment and by Co G, Berdan's sharpshooters. The Fifth at Williamsburg made the charge which turned in our favor the wavering scale of battle. For this they received the thanks of Gen McClellan. "My lads," said he, as he rode up to the regiment a day or two after, "I came to thank you for your gallant conduct the other day. You gained honor for your country, your state, and the army to which you belong. Through you we won the day." And telegraphing to the secretary of war the hasty report of the charge, he said it was "brilliant in the extreme."

The sharpshooters of Co. G, Berdan's regiment picketed, scouted and skirmished from York to the defences of Richmond; and what old soldier here does not know how much of hard, alert duty and danger are implied in that service. In many of the battles of that bloody campaign, their rifles at the front rang out the prelude to the volleyed thunder of the general engagement.

The Battle of Winchester

In the campaign up the Shenandoah valley in 1862, the old Third Wisconsin bore a prominent part. When Gen. Banks, with his command stripped down to 4,000 fighting men, was pounced upon by the combined divisions of Ewell and Stonewall Jackson, the Third Wisconsin was in the little brigade which, in open field, manfully held in check the overpowering host for five hours.

The incidents of that battle have always a mournful interest to me. My most loved messmate and comrade, Capt. Moses O Brien, one of the bravest Irishmen who ever drew a sword in freedom's cause, fell at the head of the company. After having, earlier in the battle, been wounded severely, he refused to leave the field, and soon fell with a second and mortal wound. And, as the fight surged away from where he fell, with his dying breath, he begged of a stranger to draw the finger ring from his death-palsied hand, and bring it, as a token of his undying friendship, to me. Comrades, how many like him can you call to mind? Lion-hearted in action and in command; firm on duty as the iron and the oak; in companionship, gentle and loving as the child—now on the field of honor resting from their warfare!

Gainesville.

A few days after, the second, sixth and seventh regiments fought at Gainesville one of the sharpest, bloodiest minor battles of the war. The gallant behavior of the brigade elicited from Gen. Pope the encomium that it "consisted of some of the best troops in the service." Next, we hear of this gallant brigade at South Mountain, charging up the gap, pushing its way up the rocky crest, and dislodging an enemy having every advantage of position. Right gallantly it stormed the mountain gateway, paying dearly for its victory in Wisconsin's choicest blood; and gaining the immortal name of "The Iron Brigade of the west," a designation it bore unenvied and with honor.

Antietam

Then came Antietam, which Greeley calls "the bloodiest day that America ever saw." In that sanguinary battle, Wisconsin's honor was upborne by the third regiment standing bravely in line, in an exposed position, begging for permission to charge, firing steadily and closing up the thinning ranks, until the fallen cartridge papers, for months afterwards, showed by a strange winrow its perfect line of battle—taking into battle 345 men, of whom 198 were killed or wounded—almost two-thirds. There was the fifth regiment, staunchly supporting a battery in the heart of the fight. There was the "Iron Brigade," winning by a fearful list of dead and wounded, the high praise of the commander of the army: "I have seen them under fire acting in a manner that reflected the greatest possible credit and honor upon themselves and their state. They are equal to the best troops in any army in the world."

Shiloh

The sixteenth and eighteenth regiments fought at Shiloh. Though but raw soldiers then, and receiving the command to load and fire for the first time, and that, too, after they had been surprised by an attack, "yet they held their position," says a war correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette "with an obstinacy that adds new laurels to the character of "American soldiers." Gov. Harvey wrote home just before his untimely death: "Many regiments of that fight may well covet the impression which the eighteenth Wisconsin left of personal bravery, heroic daring and determined endurance."

The Fourteenth Wisconsin came upon the field at midnight, took its place in line in mud, rain, and darkness, and waited for the morning; fought like veterans the next day; four times charged a battery; thrice repulsed, took it and kept it leaving a stack of 60 dead rebels where it fell. Thus in their first fight, admiring witnesses of their soldierly valor gave them the merited name of the "Wisconsin Regulars."

Chaplin Hills, or Perryville.

When the tide of war rolled northward in the later summer of 1862, and Kirby Smith with a large army poured into Kentucky threatening Cincinnati, Gen. Buell left the Tennessee river to pursue. The two armies met in combat at Chaplin Hills. Here were Wisconsin's first regiment, the re-organized twenty-first, tenth, fifteenth, and twenty-fourth regiments and the third, fifth and eighth batteries. It is recorded of the first, that when one division of our forces had been driven back in disorder Gen. Rousseau, fearing the panic would become general, rode in front of the First Wisconsin shouting to the boys to "keep steady and we would whip them yet." The Wisconsin boys cried out with one voice: "Lead us to the front." Gen. Rousseau says: "They drove back the enemy several times with great loss, and until their ammunition gave out bravely maintained their position." They captured the colors of the rebel regiment.

The Tenth Wisconsin was under fire for seven hours that day. Rousseau says of their brigade, that, "Repeatedly assailed by overwhelming numbers, after exhausting its ammunition, it still held its position." He declared that these "brave men were entitled to the gratitude of the country."

The fifteenth regiment gained honorable mention here, capturing a large store of ammunition and many prisoners.

The fifth battery here gained renown. Three times they repulsed a rebel charge. Gen. McCook thanked them on the field saying: "They saved the division from a disgraceful defeat."

Corinth.

The siege of Corinth was participated in by the eighth, fourteenth, sixteenth seventeenth and eighteenth regiments of infantry, and the fifth, sixth, eleventh and twelfth batteries, and many of these commands shared in the pursuit after the evacuation. At the second battle of Corinth, these regiments came in for a share of a very hard fight.

The fourteenth here won golden compliments. Hear the report of the brigade commander: "On Col. Hancock and his regiment, the fourteenth Wisconsin, there was no discount. This regiment was the one to rely upon in any emergency; always cool, steady and vigorous. Though suffering more loss than any of the regiments in the command, they maintained their lines and delivered their fire with all the precision and coolness which could have been maintained on drill." In this battle the Seventeenth Wisconsin made one of those sweeping, tearing charges which Irish soldiers the world over regard as their "best holt." "Boys," said the brigade commander, "boys of the seventeenth, you made the most glorious charge of the campaign."

The eighteenth was praised for "most effectual service." The eighth received high encomiums. The sixth battery did her duty and, says Gen. Hamilton, "did noble work." The twelfth battery was honored by Gen. Sullivan with the praise: "Boys, I am proud of you. You have done nobly. The dead in front of your battery show the work you have done."

Cedar Mountain.

In Pope's campaign in Virginia, the bloody battle of Cedar Mountain was opened by the Third Wisconsin Its fullest force fell on their part of the line. Greeley says, after explaining the situation, and the badly managed scheme of the attack on such a position, that, "had victory been possible they would have won it." "The best blood of the Union was here poured out like water, but in vain."

Stone River.

The close of the year 1862 was signalized by the memorable fight at Stone River, Tenn. On this hard fought field Wisconsin reported with the first, tenth, fifteenth, twenty-first, and twenty-fourth regiments, and the third, fifth and eighth batteries, all in battle array. On the 30th December the fifteenth regiment and the third and eighth batteries were in the hottest of the fight. The fifteenth Wisconsin captured a gun as its trophy of the day. In his report of his share of the fight, Gen. Phil. Sheridan speaks of the "splendid conduct, bravery and efficiency of the twenty-fourth Wisconsin." Col. Scribner, their brigade commander, says: "The tenth Wisconsin would have suffered extermination rather than yield its ground without orders." Gen Rousseau reports that when, during the battle, Wheeler's cavalry attacked his supply trains, "the burden of the fight fell on the twenty-first Wisconsin who behaved like veterans. The commander of the brigade in which the eighth battery served speaks of the "determined bravery and chivalrous heroism of the officers and men." Gen Davis says the conduct of the fifth battery was "gallant and distinguished." Another commander says its "guns were splendidly handled.

Fierce, that battle raged on the 30th and 31st of December. Greeley tells the story of its conclusion. He says: "Night fell on our army successful at every point, notwithstanding every attempt which had been made to drive it, but with little reason for exultation. It had lost a fourth of its men and guns * * * But Rosencrans took stock of ammunition * * * he lay down with his army to await such a New Year's day as it pleased God to send them. * * * Rosencrans said: "This battle must be won. At 9 A. M. they, the rebels, had supposed our army in their hands; at sunset Bragg, the rebel commander, had enough to do to save his own.

Prairie Grove.

At Prairie Grove, Ark., the twentieth

Wisconsin distinguished itself. Says Greeley; "The twentieth Wisconsin and the nineteenth Iowa were ordered to charge a rebel battery in their front. They did it most gallantly, hurling back its supports, but were unable to hold it. Their charge was at once returned with interest by the rebels, intent on the capture of our three batteries, and pushing within a hundred yards of our guns, they were likewise repulsed with great slaughter." Gen. Blunt reports the gallant charge of the twentieth Wisconsin, and says that "they did their duty nobly." Men of Iowa, Illinois, Kansas, Missouri and Wisconsin mingled their blood on the same field. He says: "For deeds of valor on the field of Prairie Grove, their native states may well be proud of them." Their brigade commander said: "They behaved nobly and stood fire like veterans." Gen Herron writes: "Their charge was a glorious sight." He says: "My two divisions (including the twentieth Wisconsin,) are invincible." "Better men never went upon the field. "But," he continues: "It is with a sad heart that I look upon the long rows of graves where lie my gallant soldiers, who have died, victims of this accursed rebellion. May the authors of it have a hot place in hell." These bitter words were wrung from the heart of one who looked upon the hundreds of graves of the boys in blue; and, if they come not up to the full measure of Christian charity, the recording angel will admit the grievous provocation and great sorrow that called them forth.

The second and third Wisconsin cavalry were present at this battle, and their efficiency and aid given on and near the field were highly commended by the commanding general; and Gen. Herron reports that they proved themselves "worthy of the name of American soldiers."

The third cavalry, under Major Calkins, elicited the admiration of both armies for its skillful manenvers, and, its sharp assaults on the rebels left wing which occurred in view of the entire field of action.

Fredericksburg and Chancellorville.

Turning our glance eastward, we find the Iron brigade, the fifth regiment and Berdan's sharpshooters in the battle of Fredericksburg. In the opening operations of 1863, came the battle of Chancellorville. Here were engaged the Wisconsin third. When Stonewall Jackson had crushed the eleventh corps, the third was in the division that was thrown in as a barrier to their victorious advance. Right gallantly that duty was done, and the victors were checked. Behind the third were gathered the forty pieces of artillery, which, through the night, belched their missiles into the woods over the heads of the lines. In the night attack made to check the rebel onset, this regiment took part; and on the morning at daybreak, the battle was resumed. While regiments on their flanks were retiring, the third, under an equally withering fire, was advancing, crowding the enemy before it, and supposed it was winning a victory.

The Fifth at Mary's Heights.

In this campaign, the fifth Wisconsin headed the famous charge which carried a part of the almost impregnable Mary's Heights at Fredericksburg. The position over which they charged was such, and the valor of the men who assailed it so heroic, that a correspondent of the London Times, southern sympathiser, writes from Lee's headquarters: "Never at Fontenoy, Aluera, nor at Waterloo, was more undaunted courage displayed * * * than during the six frantic dashes which they (Hancock's corps) directed against the almost impregnable position of their foe;" and Greeley says: "Braver men never smiled on death, than those who climbed Mary's Hill on that fatal day." The one gleam of success in that gallant but disastrous fight, was the capture by the fifth Wisconsin, of a rebel battery. All else was failure where "we had reason for sorrow but none for shame."

The Fall of Vicksburg.

The capture of Vicksburg, in 1863, was the crowning glory of the war in the Mississippi Valley. Wisconsin can proudly claim her full share in the laurels of that achievement. Twelve of her best regiments of infantry, one of cavalry, and three of her batteries were among the legion of heroes who closed around that stronghold. There were her eighth eleventh, twelfth, fourteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth, twentieth, twenty-third, twenty-fifth, twenty-seventh, twenty-ninth and thirty-third infantry; her second cavalry; her first, sixth and twelfth batteries.

In the preliminary operations, the capture of Arkansas Post was one of the brilliant series of valorous deeds. Here the twenty-third Wisconsin bore a noble part, Greeley records in his "American Conflict" how it charged the rebel right and dislodged the enemy.—This regiment was, for its gallantry here, highly complimented in general orders, and as a tribute to its gallant conduct, its brigade commander Gen. Burbridge, was appointed to plant the American flag upon the captured fort. In the battle of Port Gibson, which resulted in a victory which Grant, in his congratulatory order, declared "one of the most important of the war," the eleventh Wisconsin bore a part which was honorably mentioned in general orders. The twenty-third Wisconsin were there, too, capturing many prisoners

The twenty-ninth Wisconsin was in the hottest of the fight; and, in this, its first battle, its brigade commander testified that its brave men "fought like veterans."

In that sweeping advance to gain the rear of Vicksburg, the battle of Jackson was fought. The Eighth and Eighteenth Wisconsin were in the charge that carried the town. The eighth was one of the first regiments to enter, and was at once appointed provost guard, a compliment to efficiency and discipline that regiments were proud to receive. Then followed Champion Hills. Here the twenty-third regiment sustained a prominent part, rendering conspicuous and effective service on its part of the field. The twenty-ninth regiment was here in Hovey's division. Says Greeley: "The credit of this victory devolves on Hovey and his gallant division, which was for hours closely engaged with superior numbers strongly posted and well covered by dense forests, and who fought gallantly and repeatedly crowded back our line by the sheer weight of that which opposed it." An eye witness, the war correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial, writes: "Shortly after the commencement of the general engagement, the rebels brought a battery of four to bear upon the first brigade of Hovey's division, and were inflicting severe punishment with it. Gen. McGinnis ordered it charged. The eleventh Indiana and twenty-ninth Wisconsin being in front, the hazardous task was assigned them. They marched cautiously up a high slope to within 75 yards of the guns, and then made a dash at the pieces. The rebel gunners performed their duty manfully, standing by their guns till they were driven away with bayonets or clubbed with muskets. The eleventh and twenty-ninth were not to be driven back, however, nor denied the object for which they started."

The twenty-ninth Wisconsin in this famous charge captured a battery of brass pieces, a stand of colors and 306 prisoners. And Greeley exultingly records how Dillon's sixth Wisconsin battery strengthened Hovey's artillery on the right, "and opened on the advancing foe an enfilading fire that arrested and turned them back under a tempest of cheers from our men."

Next day our victorious army advanced on the Big Black, to find the enemy strongly posted there. Here the Thirteenth corps won the day. Here the First Wisconsin battery poured its effective shot into the rebel position, bravely disregarding the rebel shell which exploded its own caissons. Here the story of the intrepid charge of the Eleventh Wisconsin, and other regiments, is best told by the correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial: "The order," he writes, "was given to the brigade command on the right to advance and charge the enemy's works. The order was received with shouts and cheers. The Twenty-first, Twenty-second and Twenty-third Iowa and Eleventh Wisconsin in Lawler's brigade, were the first to announce themselves in readiness. The order, Forward, was given, and steadily and valiantly the brave boys moved up to the assault. The enemy crouched down behind the breastworks. A portion of them stationed in a curtain on the right of the fort, whence they were able to get a cross fire upon the column, reserved their volley until we were within easy musket range, when they swept the advancing line with their terrible fire. The brave boys lost in that fearful volley 150 men, yet they faltered not nor turned their steps backward. They waded the bayou delivering their fire as they reached the other bank, and rushed on the enemy with fixed bayonets. So quickly was this accomplished that the enemy had not time to reload and was forced to surrender." Then came the investment of Vicksburg and the repeated assaults of May 19th and 22d. The eleven regiments of Wisconsin infantry, and three batteries above mentioned closed around the doomed city. The Eighth Wisconsin, under Sherman, on the right, in the assault of May 22d, reached the outer slope of the works, and staid there till ordered to retire. The Eleventh Wisconsin assaulted in the center and suffered heavily. The Fourteenth Wisconsin covered itself with glory at the cost of nearly half its men, advancing its line far beyond the regiments on either hand. So gallant was their conduct here that Gen. Rousseau, when his division entered the city, after the surrender, gave the Fourteenth Wisconsin the post of honor, saying in his order: "Every officer and man in the Fourteenth is a hero." The Twenty-seventh Wisconsin took an honorable part in the assault of the 14th and 23d of May. The Twelfth and Eighteenth regiments did excellent service in the siege.

The Twenty-third Wisconsin, too, worn down to a squad, but with the courage and determination of heroes, pushed up to the base of the rebel forts. The flag of truce sent out by Pemberton proposing to surrender was received in its front by one of its officers. That their assaults were not successful, is not strange. Gen. Sherman, after seeing Sevastapol, says the position at Vicksburg was the more difficult of the two.

On the day of the surrender of Vicksburg, the battle of Helena, Arkansas, was fought. Here the Twenty-eighth Wisconsin participated, pouring its deadly fire into the assailants, and repulsing the flower of the rebel troops of Arkansas. A Wisconsin Brigadier Gen. F. Salomon, planned and constructed the defences, through the judicious location of which the victory was won.

Port Hudson.

Following Vicksburg, Port Hudson fell after a sturdy resistance.

The Fourth Wisconsin charged up into the ditch surrounding the fortification sustaining fearful loss. Greeley says of the assault in which they took part: "Never was fighting more heroic. * * * If valor could have triumphed over such odds, they would have carried the works.'

Gettysburg.

That memorable July 4th, 1863, was a proud day for loyal hearts, for it carried all over the land the full details of the battle of Gettysburg, where the army of the Potomac rolled back the tide of rebel invasion from loyal soil. That battle, Swinton classes as one of the great battles of history, for here 45,000 men and more, engaged in combat, were killed or wounded. The Second, Third, Sixth, Seventh and Twenty-sixth Wisconsin regiments fought here. A prouder record than they made on that memorable field, no State can boast. In the first day's fight, "the Iron Brigade," says Gen. Doubleday, "charged with great gallantry, drove the enemy before them into a ravine, and there captured a large number of prisoners, including officers."

The Sixth regiment, temporarily serving in Cutler's brigade, participated in a charge which resulted in the capture of two rebel regiments. Braver fighting than theirs is rare in the annals of war. As a testimonial of their valor, I quote what was said of the Sixth Wisconsin, on the occasion of the presentation of the battle flag of the One Hundred and Forty-seventh New York to the City of Oswego, by the commander of that regiment. He says: "At this critical moment when, (on the first day at Gettysburg), the salvation of our regiment depended on immediate action, a little band of men was seen emerging from the woods at the left. They were what remained of the Sixth Wisconsin Volunteers, a regiment which had been two years in the service, and to whom the leaden rain and iron hail of battle had become as familiar as the showers of Heaven. Every man of that band was a host in himself. Steadily, swiftly, and furiously, they charged upon the enemy's flank. Northern courage was too much for Southern chivalry. The rebel columns wavered, broke and fled. Two entire rebel regiments were taken prisoners, all honor to the gallant Sixth Wisconsin! They saved what remained of the One Hundred and Forty-seventh on that day."

The Third Wisconsin on the second and third day's fight did their duty as became their fame, driving Ewell from Culp's Hill, they clung to their works, though the rebel shell tore through the woods which covered their position, and limbs and splinters rattled about and fell upon them; they repulsed all charges in front and gathered up thousands of rebel muskets which had been dropped before them. The mere accident of favorable position saved them from a fire that swept off full half of their brigade. They took part in the battle of the second day on our left and helped to check the advance on Gen. Sickles' corps.

The Twenty-sixth regiment here suffered a terrible baptism of fire—only four officers escaping unhurt. Berdan's sharpshooters, Co. G, bore their part bravely here, and were in the key of battle when the rebels tried to break our center in the final charge. When the rain of Heaven drenched that bloody field on the night of July 3d, it bathed the wounds of more than 500 of Wisconsin's sons. In the cemetery on that battle field, hundreds of Wisconsin's boys are sleeping the sleep of the soldier in their "windowless palaces of rest."

Chickamauga.

But we must linger by no field of glory, nor in our limited time can we even mention all.

At Chickamauga, the First, Tenth, Fifteenth, Twenty-first and Twenty-fourth Wisconsin infantry, and the third, fifth and eighth batteries fought and suffered heavily. Several of these regiments were under Gen. Thomas on the left, in that dogged and sturdy resistance of the rebel assaults which gave to Thomas the immortal name of the "Rock of Chickamauga." The rebels claimed this as a victory, but the prize for which they contended was Chattanooga. They squandered 1,900 men in the attempt, but thanks to Thomas and the brave boys who stayed with him at Chickamauga, that prize was never wrenched from our grasp.

Chattanooga.

And when Thomas, beleaguered in Chattanooga, telegraphed to Grant: "We will hold it till we starve," those same Wisconsin regiments and batteries were there and very near starved, they were, and the boys so hungry that they ate the oats the horses slobbered out of their nose-bags. And when Sherman marched up his Fifteenth corps, over the roughest roads ever known, to the relief of the besieged "Army of the Cumberland," at Chattanooga, the Eighteenth Wisconsin was in it. This regiment marched and fought in that corps of which Sherman said: "They have marched through mud and over rocks, sometimes barefooted, without a murmur. Without a moment's rest, after a march of 400 miles, without sleep for three successive nights, we crossed the Tennessee, fought our part of the battle of Chattanooga, and pursued the enemy out of Tennessee. * * I cannot speak of the Fifteenth army corps without a seeming vanity. * * * I assert that there is no better body of soldiers in America than it.

Mission Ridge.

In the assault which, carefully planned and executed under the eye of Gen. Grant, hurled Bragg back from Mission Ridge, driving his army from a position, which the rebel general himself says "ought to have been held by a line of skirmishers against any assaulting column." The First, Tenth, Fifteenth, Eighth, Twenty-first and Twenty-fourth and Twenty-sixth regiments from Wisconsin shared in that magnificent charge. Gen. Grant was writing of them with the rest, when he said: "They encountered a fearful volley of grape and canister from nearly thirty pieces of artillery, and musketry from well-filled rifle pits. Not a waver, however, was seen in all that long line of brave men. Their progress was steadily onward until the summit was in their possession." This victory relieved Chattanooga, resulting in the death, wounding or capture of 15,000 rebels and the taking of 35 guns.

Carrion Crow Bayou.

Turn where you will, Wisconsin boys were always at the front, always getting hard service, but always praised and beloved by their companions in arms. Away down in November, 1863, a column was sent out to Opelousas, merely as a feint to draw attention from a more important movement. On its return, near Carrion Crow Bayou, the rebels pounced upon it in the woods, taking it quite by surprise.

The Twenty-third Wisconsin was there, holding in camp the election of State officers, when it was assailed, the only marked instance I ever heard of, of armed interference with an election, and one of which no confederate brigadier has ever been heard to complain. "This regiment," said Greeley in his American Conflict, "was speedily reduced from 226 to 98 men, its colonel wounded and captured." "Our right" he continues, "was assailed in great force and with intense fury, was broken, and was saved from utter destruction by the devoted bravery of the Twenty-third Wisconsin, and the efficient service of Nim's battery."

Such, comrades, were the men of Wisconsin. Their praise was well sounded by the Second Massachusetts, who fought side by side through the war with the Third Wisconsin. In their farewell letter at parting at the close of the war, they said: "We always felt safe when you were beside us." It is related in a New York paper that Gen. Sherman, after the war, when beset by a newspaper reporter, and questioned in regard to the efficiency of the troops from the several States, replied that all, all did nobly, refusing to make any discrimination. But, after a pause, as his eye lighted up with the memory of his old struggles, said he: "But you ought to see the Wisconsin boys go in."

Turn we now for a moment, to the well planned, but sadly mismanaged,

Red River Expedition.

The Eighth Wisconsin was so patriotic that it joined this expedition when its men were entitled to their veteran furlough, but Gen. Sherman's desire was their law; and they bravely fought on the various fields of that expedition. The Fourteenth Wisconsin was there. At Fort De Russy, Pleasant Hill, Cloutierville, Markville and Yellow Bayou, it maintained its early renown. The Twenty-third Wisconsin, staunch and true as ever, was the last to leave the field at Sabine Cross Roads. When "crushed back in spite of desperate resistance," they covered the retreat with that steady valor for which they were ever famed. A part of the Twenty-ninth Wisconsin was engaged, and they can read with pride their record of that losing fight. The Thirty-third Wisconsin, too, fought from the transports repulsing the assailants along shore.—In a word, in all the gallant fighting of that advance and retreat, our troops were engaged and commended. But the crowning glory of that luckless expedition, the one star of success in its gloom of failure, was the building of the dam whereby the shoal waters of the river were raised and our fleet, worth millions, saved. That honor was reflected on Wisconsin by Col. Joseph Bailey, of the fourth regiment. He had learned his wisdom on our lumbering streams. His practical common sense was better than the science of the schools, and he convinced Banks, Franklin and Porter that he could pass the fleet. And when he felt the need of skillful men to aid in his gigantic work, he called for Wisconsin boys, and the Twenty-ninth Wisconsin toiled for him day and night with a will, and he "especially commended their faithfulness, energy and endurance;" and when the water rose and the great gun-boats floated safely down the deepened channel, Admiral Porter says "30,000 voices rose in one deafening cheer; and universal joy seemed to pervade the face of every man!" All this in honor of the humble and patriotic lumbermen and mechanics of the Wisconsin pinery streams.

The Atlanta Campaign.

When the spring campaign of 1864 opened and Grant and Sherman, then the two great chieftians, had carefully planned their summer's work they laid out plenty of business for their armies, and Wisconsin's boys had enough to do. Sherman gathered for his Atlanta campaign fourteen regiments of Wisconsin infantry. The first, third, tenth, twelfth, fifteenth, sixteenth, nineteenth, twenty-first, twenty-second, twenty-fourth, twenty fifth, thirty-first, thirty-second and our first cavalry and fifth and tenth batteries. He gathered all within his reach, for he started out as he said in his letter to Gen. Grant, to "knock Joe Johnston." The campaign from Chattanooga to Atlanta was a continued fight, in which strong skirmish lines steadily pushed their way. In these, our boys of these regiments were constantly under fire. In the leading battles, Wisconsin regiments invariably reported to the front. At Resaca, eight of them were hotly engaged; at Dallas, seven; at Kenesaw Mountain, nine. A volume could be written giving the wild, thrilling events of Wisconsin men in that advance. At Peach Tree Creek, seven Wisconsin regiments shared in the fight. Here the twenty-sixth regiment was specially commended as having "received the brunt of the battle on its brigade front, and repulsed it, and followed it by a spirited counter charge." Its brigade commander speaks of it in his report as "One of the finest organizations in the service." Old Jo. Hooker said of the Twenty-second Wisconsin, here, that "no regiment ever did better." The Tenth Wisconsin in this fight, also, by one of those skillful dispositions which only the cool regimental commander knows enough to execute in a battle, checked the enemy from piercing our line.

In this advance on Atlanta, the twelfth and sixteenth regiments were in McPherson's command, "the whip lash corps," which made those memorable flank movements that drove the rebels from their strongholds, and made their fortifications so much waste labor. And down in front of Atlanta, when the rebels dashed upon our left, the Twelfth and Sixteenth Wisconsin held their breastworks on Leggitt's or Bald Hill, which, shortly before they had carried by assault. Gen. Pat. Cleburne, "the rebel Stonewall Jackson of the West," tried to crush in our left, and attacked the flank and rear. The fight was most desperate. Sherman says in his "Memoirs" that our "men were skillful and brave, and fought for a time with their backs toward Atlanta," as the enemy had gone around to their rear and assailed them with fury. Soon after this rear attack, the rebels sallied out from Atlanta and these brave Wisconsin boys on Leggitt's Hill, were compelled to hop over their breastworks and face the fight the other way. They held one side of the breastworks and the rebels came up and held the other, till in the darkness the rebels crawled away. Logan spoke of their behavior thus: "The troops could not have displayed greater courage, nor greater determination not to give ground. Had they shown less, they would have been driven from the position:" and Howard adds, "I never saw better conduct in battle."

When that army, the victors of Atlanta, of whom Grant wrote, "that it had accomplished the most gigantic undertaking of the war," of whom Lincoln said, when he thanked them, that the "Battles, marches, sieges, and other military operations of the campaign, must render it famous in the annals of war," when this army was reorganized for the historic

March to the Sea.

Eleven Wisconsin regiments started out on that march, with a cheery look and a swinging pace, that made light of the thousand miles between them and Richmond, and singing "Old John Brown, his soul is marching on." The Fifth and Twelfth batteries, too, went clattering along over the Corduroy roads. And in their march we read how the old Third Wisconsin was provost guard at Milledgeville; how the boys held a session of the Georgia legislature in the State house, repealed the ordinance of secession, and passed other very sensible laws, while its regimental flag floated from the flag-staff of Georgia's capitol.

We read how the twelfth, the sixteenth, seventeenth and thirty-first, tore up mile upon mile of railroad track twisting up the rails like doughnuts, as they marched along, and how among all "Sherman's bummers," none could beat the detail from Wisconsin commands; how the Twenty-sixth Wisconsin got the name of putting down about as much Corduroy road in a day as any regiment cared to march over in two days.

In all the fights of that march, the siege of Savannah, and the march through the Carolinas, in which the infantry took part, it is noticeable that the Wisconsin regiments bore a part, and suffered loss, but not defeat.

Nashville.

In the battles of Franklin and Nashville, Wisconsin's good name was safe in the hands of the Twenty-fourth regiment. Their good conduct at the critical moment did much to save the day at Franklin. They were in Opdyke's brigade. Greeley tells the story of their valor, thus:

"The rebel charge was so impetuous, as well as heavy, that it was scarcely checked by the advance works. * * but swept over them like a torrent, hurling back our men in tumultuous rout. In an instant * * * the hill was lost, eight of our gunst aken, the rebel flag planted on our works. Caissons as well as men, streamed wildly to the bridge, supposing the day utterly lost. "First brigade forward to the works," rang out the steady voice of Opdyke, he riding rapidly forward, as the rabble and rout swept by, and, as the bayonets of his men came down to a charge, flashing the rays of the setting sun, swiftly steadily, grandly that brigade rushed upon the foe; a brief but bloody struggle ensued, and at the close no rebel remained upon or in our works but the dead and 300 prisoners." Our line was then re-established, and was not again broken, though assault, after assault battered against it. Thomas gave the credit of saving the day to Gen. Opdyke and he in turn attributed it largely to the Twenty-fourth Wisconsin.

At Nashville the Eighth, Fourteenth, and Twenty-fourth, and Forty-fourth took part in that vigorous attack which finished all that was left of Hood's army.

The Army of the Potomac.

In the last year's work in Virginia, that bloody campaign from the Rappahannock to Richmond, the state of Wisconsin had eight regiments, the second, fifth, sixth, seventh, nineteenth, thirty-sixth, thirty-seventh, and thirty-eighth. The blood of her sons drenched the fields of the Wilderness, The "Old Iron Brigade" crushed through two lines of the enemy in the first day's fight. At Spottsylvania they went to the aid of Hancock, and successfully resisted five desperate assaults of Lee. Constantly marching and fighting for four days and nights, it is recorded that these old veterans of a score of battles, sent by turns their fouled muskets to the rear to be washed, and stayed at the front, and slept under fire. Lee could not dislodge them nor Hancock from the position they had gained. Here, too, the fifth regiment stormed a strong position and carried a battery after the front line of the charging column had given away. At the North Anna the old brigade by its intrepid behavior, turned the tide of repulse to their division and drove the assaulting brigade from the field. They received the compliments and thanks of their corps commander for their gallant behavior here. Thence they skirmished well nigh all the way to Petersburg. In front of Petersburg they repulsed assaults; and at the celebrated fight at Hatcher's Run, the old Seventh Wisconsin captured double its force of rebels.

In the same campaign, the bloody campaign of 1864, Wisconsin had put three new regiments into the army of the Potomac, the thirty-sixth, thirty-seventh, and thirty-eighth. Without training, with but little drill, green and raw, these regiments were to work in that advance and solid fighting which made the march and battle experience there the really hardest, perhaps, of any borne in a summer campaign during the war. This trying experience they bore remarkably well, and in the fall their soldierly conduct ranked them with the veterans of the war. Their division commander wrote to Gov. Lewis, telling of the valor of the Thirty-sixth Wisconsin, and how, at Hatcher's Run, they cut through a rebel line, crushed it, and captured, with arms, colors, and officers, a force three times greater than their own. Said he, "I now depend on them with my veterans." The same thirty-sixth, the following spring, took part in the final movement, and was present at Lee's surrender.

The Thirty-seventh Wisconsin was hurled into the fight at Petersburg, and put to veterans' work at the outset. In the first fight six companies engaged suffered a loss of 150 in killed and wounded. It was their misfortune to share in that terrible charge into the crater of Burnside's exploded mine, with a loss of 155 of a charging party of 250. The thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth were in charge on Fort Mahone before Petersburg, and did so with a gallantry that commanded the respect of older troops, and ranked them thereafter as veterans equal to any.

Mobile.

As Wisconsin soldiers took part in the first fights, so they were foremost in the last, both east and west. Around Mobile, on the same day that Lee surrendered, the Eleventh and Twenty-third Wisconsin were engaged in the famous assault which carried Fort Blakely. The valor of the assaulting party of the Eleventh was the glory of that army. The Twentieth was at the capture of Spanish Fort, and was the first to enter it on the same day.

The Wisconsin cavalry saw a varied experience of hard service, always seasoned with danger. The First cavalry regiment spent its first year of service in Missouri, scouting among rebel strongholds, dashing into, and dispersing guerrilla bands, and skirmishing. Their marches through bottomless swamps and regions barren of food and forage, their adventures by squads and squadrons, would read like romance, if written. In 1863 they reported for duty in Tennessee, where Wheeler's cavalry the best the rebels had in the west, put our cavalry to its mettle. The First Wisconsin cavalry soon gained reputation as being "by large odds the best in the division, for skirmishing." With a reputation for dash, and a dashing commander, they had varied luck. They fought and skirmished at Chickamauga, campaigned all the next winter, joined Sherman in the Atlanta campaign the next spring; were at Buzzard's Roost and Resaca; in hot fight at Dallas, Ackworth and Big Shanty. Pushing on to the Chattahoochee, they skirmished with the rebels across the stream; their and the rebel artillery slung shells at each other awhile, and then the foes fell to chatting, swapping coffee for tobacco; and finally, to cap the climax, Yankee and Johnnie went in swimming together without the red tape of a formal armistice. As our army closed around Atlanta, the First cavalry had hard work and constant activity in the numerous raids which Sherman sent out to tap railroads and cover his true movements. In McCook's raid, south of Atlanta, it shared and fought hard. Atlanta captured, they set out in pursuit of Hood's army, followed and hung about it, back to Nashville, then plunged back into the heart of the south in Wilson's expedition, that fought its way from city to city. At West Point they dismounted, and captured a fort. Sweeping on to Macon, they learned of Lee's surrender and of the flight of Jeff Davis. It was this regiment who pursued the flying President of the confederacy, and were the cause of his capture, though deprived by another command of the manual capture of Davis, yet thorough investigation accorded to them a full share in the honor and reward of the capture. Few, if any, mounted regiments in the service had wilder or more active service, covering so large an area as these dashing riders of Wisconsin. Maj. Gen. Stanley wrote of them: "The First Wisconsin cavalry, a most gallant regiment, with a colonel, La Grange, as dashing a trooper as ever Murat commanded. By the way, before the war, an impression existed that only southern men could ride well enough for dragoons, but, during my experience with cavalry, it became a fixed fact with us that the farther north the regiment was from, the more sure they were of being effectual and reliable cavalry."

The Second cavalry saw hard enough service in the low lands of the Mississippi, and participated in the siege of Vicksburg. They were in Grierson's raid; and their marches and skirmishes in Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas were constant.

The Third cavalry served its first year in Kansas, scouting, pursuing and fighting pestiferous bands of jayhawkers, bushwhackers and guerillas. Its companies often divided and scattered, and less is known of their movements. The regiment fought at Cane Hill, at Prairie Grove, and Honey Creek. In guarding trains it encountered much of excitement and danger, and fought Indians and Texans in the Cherokee nation. Their service was not sanguinary as some encountered, but they had a fair sprinkling of fighting, and it is the record that they invariably fought well, and no defeat suffered by them has ever been reported. They often fought the fiendish Quantrell. Their reputation in army circles is best expressed by the chief of cavalry department of Arkansas, as being "as high as it is possible for troops to stand." In relation to both the Second and the Third cavalry, at the battle of Prairie Grove, fought on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1862, Gen. Blunt's report of the battle says: "On coming up with Col. Wickersham I ordered him to proceed in the direction of Fayetteville with all of his cavalry, and endeavor to open communication with Gen. Herron. I also sent forward Maj. Calkins with the Third Wisconsin cavalry for the same purpose." * * * * *

After detailing the movements and opening of the battle, he says: "Observing that the enemy had now thrown a large force upon my center and right, * * * the first battery, and the Second Wisconsin cavalry, under Major Calkins, were ordered to proceed on my extreme right, to watch my flank movement of the enemy, * * and to guard the road leading to Rhae's Mills, and prevent communication being cut off with (Solomon's) first brigade."

Again he says: "Learning that a heavy force was massing on my right, with a view of turning my flank, I withdrew Tenny's battery and proceeded with it to an open field on the right, at the same time directing the infantry to withdraw from the woods. * * * Tenny wheeled his guns into position when his destructive fire of grape and canister sent the rebels back under cover of the woods. At the same time a fire from the two mountain howitzers attached to the Third Wisconsin cavalry was directed upon them, on my right, with good effect."

The fourth regiment, after making a brilliant record as infantry, was, in compliment to its efficiency, mounted as cavalry, became as dashing a regiment as any, and made a splendid record as cavalry in Louisiana and Texas. Its capture of prisoners several times exceeded the numbers of its command.

But from very weariness, I must close. The limits of this address will not permit even a mention of the actions and military operations in which Wisconsin troops took part. Such is the task of the historian. My object has been to glean up from various sources, testimonials to illustrate the fact that Wisconsin troops, everywhere, were regarded as among the best, and appreciated by commanders and comrades. The thousands of miles our infantry marched, the skirmishes, campaigns, expeditions, battles, sieges and movements in which they participated, deserve a fuller and completer record than has yet been made. Our infantry traversed every rebel State, save Florida, and saw service in Indian campaigns in Minnesota, Dakota, Indian Territory; and the twentieth regiment even went out and regulated the Mexicans on the Rio Grande.

When special service, calling for cool, judicious men, was wanted, it is noticeable how often Wisconsin regiments were detailed. When the rebel members of the Maryland legislature were plotting to take that State out of the union, and it was deemed, for the public safety, best to gobble them, the Third Wisconsin was sent to do it; and they slid the seeession statesmen into the guard-house, and kept them there all day begging for whisky, in a way that the "My Marylanders" despised.

When the New York draft riots of 1863 threatened to, and did for a time, overthrow all law and order in that city, the president ordered some select regiments from the Potomac; and one morning the New Yorkers awoke and found the Third and Fifth Wisconsin bivouacked in the heart of the city, sun burned and war-stained, and ready to make short work of any mob, at the word of command. The orderly character of the men, and their excellent discipline, caused Wisconsin soldiers very frequently to be detailed as provost guards when our armies occupied large towns.

They had, too, their full share of that service which, Gen. Sherman says, "is the hardest in war, to lie in support of some position or battery under fire, without the privilege of returning it; or to guard some train left in the rear, within hearing, but out of danger."

The Fourth Wisconsin Captures a Railway Train.

(GEN. HARRISON C. HOBART).

The Fourth Wisconsin regiment struck their tents at camp Utley, Racine, on the 15th day of July, 1861, and steamed off to the war, to join Patterson's column, by the way of Harrisburg, Pa. The regiment reached Buffalo early on the morning of the 17th, and immediately moved forward by rail towards Harrisburg, arriving at Corning, N. Y., late in the afternoon. From that place to Elmira, it was necessary to pass over the New York & Dunkirk road, but the officers declined to take us that night, for the reason that we had gone round by the way of Buffalo, instead of taking their road at Dunkirk. Our cars, containing about twelve hundred men, were standing upon their track, and the crowd becoming excited, gathered around the depot, discussing the situation. While Col. Paine and others were with the railroad officials in the office of the company, laboring to obtain transportation, I met Major Boardman, of the regiment, and in conversation with him the idea was suggested to seize the first engine of the company that came over the road, and compel it to take us to Elmira. The major, who was the soul of bravery, immediately called Col. Paine out, and we laid the matter before him. He at first hesitated about taking the responsibility, but finally approved of the suggestion, and directed me, then captain of Co. K, to take a sufficient number of men, and seize the first train that came from Dunkirk. I requested Capt. Loy, of Co. H, to join me with a division of his company, and taking a division of Co. K, I placed them each side of the track where the engine would probably stop. In a very short time a passenger train came down the road, and halted between our lines. I immediately stepped aboard the engine, followed by Lieut. Brown, of Co. F, and Lieut. Newell, of Co. K; and our men instantly covered the wood-box. I explained briefly to the engineer, that we had seized the train, and that he could remain in charge of the engine, if he would run it under my direction; but if not, to step off instantly. Observing the strength of our force, he at once complied, and Lieut. Newell, who was a practical engineer, was directed to sit by and watch him. The conductor directly appeared upon the scene and desired to know "what all this meant?" It was explained to him, and taking in the situation, he at once consented to attach his train to ours, and take us over the road to Elmira. In the meantime, under the superintendence of Col. Paine, guards were stationed to prevent the cars from being uncoupled, which was once attempted by the tricky railroad employes, but they were emphatically warned against repeating the experiment. This seizure having become known to the people of the town, they turned out in force to witness the drama—their sympathies were with the soldiers. After taking wood and water, the cars were attached together, and a little after dark the long train moved out from the depot, and steamed off amid the shouts of the people, and cries of "bully for Wisconsin! Bully for Wisconsin?"

Dan the Cook.

(ADDIE L. BALLOU.)

I see by a late issue of your paper notice of the recent Reunion of the old thirty-second, which, had I understood in time, should not have passed by without at least one responsive recognition from the sunset border of the world.

In the report of its proceedings one name appears, often looked for in the soldiers' list, which brings vividly to mind many scenes of the old hospital days, and one in particular at the moment in which he became the central figure of interest in a little skirmish, the finale of which gave me the brief glory of once having—in the colonel's own words—out-generalled the commanding officer.

"Dannie" Morrison, besides being a "good boy" on general principles, was also proficient in the culinary art, a requisite much to be appreciated, in a sanitary sense, to a hospital department in the condition ours found itself after the march from the Holly Springs circuit, in its first installment at the navy yard barracks at Memphis.

We had had successive failures in preparing convalescent diet, until a happy fortune sent us "Dan," who "filled the bill" to satisfaction, and of course it was more after the order of women than of military—to expect his services secured forever.

It is an undisputed fact that the heads of departments, like the best regulated families, are not without their slight differences—not to say rivalries, and the departments were not, at the navy yard encampment, more amicably loving to each other than was strictly necesary—and so, one day, Dan was ordered to report and henceforth superintend the "mess" at headquarters.

This was a loss not easily repaired, and threw our hospital department into a "mess" quite unprepared for. It was useless to urge upon the physicians the necessity of a remonstrance that had already proven of no avail, and they shook their heads at the suggestion of the "matron" that she would "bring Dan back."

Doubtless Col. Smedley—the ever dignified—had an intimation of the errand as I approached, for he was on the defensive at once, tho' my demand was modestly and briefly worded. "Col., I want Dan!"

After a sharp and decisive review of reasons why he must deny the request, he urged as finale, that he had already refused the surgeons the same request and it would be unmilitary to surrender now.

"But, colonel, I insist that it is of the utmost importance that you do surrender, for we cannot at present do without Dan."

"But what will the surgeons think if, having denied him, I should conform to your request?"

"They will think in your after thought you are a good man, who, as a worthy commander, is willing to sacrifice personal pique, or his own comfort, to those of the sick and dying, and to the interest and health of the brave men under his care and command."

Dan cooked our next hospital rations.

San Francisco, Nov. 11, 1879.

["Dan the Cook" is now Hon. D. A. Morrison, Mayor of Rochester, Minnesota, an active business man of that beautiful state].

General John Gibbon.

(COL. J. A. WATROUS.)

It may not be generally known that the General's first brigade was largely composed of Wisconsin soldiers. It was also General Rufus King's first brigade General Lysander Cutler, another honored Milwaukee man, had his first experience as a brigade commander in charge of the same body of men.

In the spring of 1862, Gibbon, who was then Capt. of battery B, fourth regular artillery, was made a brigadier general, and very soon afterward took command of the Second, Sixth and Seventh Wisconsin, and the Nineteenth Indiana. He was a most thorough disciplinarian, and the manner in which he put the brigade through drill while it was encamped opposite Fredericksburg, will never be forgotten by those who participated. There were early morning drills, before breakfast, forenoon drills, afternoon drills, evening and night drills, besides guard mountings and dress parades. Probably no brigade commander was more cordially hated by his men. He was all soldier, both in looks and deeds, and his adjutant-general, Capt. Frank Haskell, who went out as adjutant of the Sixth Wisconsin, and was killed while colonel of the thirty six, was like in soldier qualities. When Gibbon's brigade marched there was straggling. His first fight as brigade commander, and the first fight, the brigade, except the Second Wisconsin, was engaged in, was the memorable battle of Gainesville, just before the second Bull Run. His brigade of four regiments fought and checked Elwell's full divison of picked troops. But the sacrifice was terrible. Eight hundred of his brave men were wanting at roll call next morning, and nearly all of them were dead on the field, or wounded: very few were taken prisoners. The brave little general was at all times in the thickest of the fight, cheering his men by word and example. How completely that little battle removed all dislike for the strict disciplinarian, and how great became the admiration and love for him, only those who have witnessed similar changes can appreciate. The morning after the battle, when the regimental adjutants came in with their reports showing the frightful loss in killed and wounded, Gibbon dropped his head and wept most bitterly. His sorrow was as sincere as that of the father who has been bereft of his children. For weeks after Gainesville whenever the losses were referred to, his eyes would fill with tears and he would ask that that subject be dropped. He never lost his love for the old brigade. It was at the battle of South Mountain, Sept. 14th, 1862, while Gibbon was in command, that the Western regiments earned and received the name of "Iron Brigade." The last time he commanded the brigade in battle, was at Antietam, where his own brother, who commanded a confederate battery, fought him. When Gibbon left his old brigade to assume command of a division in the Third corps, he went with the love and hearty good wishes of every officer and soldier in the four regiments. In due time he was made a major-general, and when General Sickles was wounded at Gettysburg, Gibbon assumed command of the Third army corps, but was soon afterwards seriously wounded. His record throughout the war was such as any soldier may be proud of. Since the war he has been on the frontier most of the time Two years ago he fought and severely punished the same band of Indians that Gen. Miles afterwards captured. He was wounded in this fight. At present Gen. Gibbon is stationed at St. Paul, in command of the department of Dakota. His response to the call for the names of honorably discharged soldiers, was in these words: "I was not a Wisconsin soldier, and have not been honorably discharged, but at the judgment day I want to be with Wisconsin soldiers."

Griff. J. Thomas

(COL. J. A. WATROUS.)

Went into the army when a boy of fifteen, making a good record and permanently injuring his health. He is commander of the Grand Army of the Republic for the Department of Wisconsin, and one of the most active it has had. He is making a special effort to give the order a wider range in his department, and with fair prospects of success. About two years ago there was a vacancy in the Berlin postoffice. As is once in a while the case when a vacancy occurs in a nutritious office, several gentlemen made known their willingness to accept the Berlin postoffice, and among them was modest Griff Thomas. The other applicants did not consider Thomas an obstacle in their way. One May afternoon while various anxious applicants were waiting in the telegraph office for dispatches announcing their appointment, the operator was called. It was still, very still. The words that lightning-persuaded little instrument ticked off were full of weight. Eyes and ears were wide open. The operator was provokingly deliberate. Enclosing the precious words in an envelope, he asked, "is Griff Thomas in the office?" He wasn't: he was spading his garden. The messenger was directed to take the dispatch to Mr. Thomas. Be it known that Griff's faith that he would be appointed had never been well developed. Indeed, it may be said that he was a doubting Thomas all through the contest. He opened and read the dispatch and then read it again. Then he looked about him and seeing no audience to witness the performance, drew his sleeve across his cheek, and read again, as follows:

WASHINGTON, May 18, 1877.—The president has appointed you postmaster of Berlin.

A neighbor who saw Thomas receive the message and wipe away something from under his eye, wanted to know if he had bad news.

"Oh, no: its good news, to me."

"What did you weep for?"

"Me weep? I was only wiping away a rain drop."

"Why, man, it hasn't rained for a week."

"I know it; that was a drop that lodged there at the time of the last shower."

In one respect Mr. Thomas is a lightweight, and only one. He weighs 113 pounds. A worthier getleman could not have been given the appointment.

Our Little Matron.

Addie L Ballou.

Responding to the Reunion call, from away across the continent, Addie L. Ballou, who, during the war, was matron of one of the principal army hospitals at Memphis, and who, since 1865, has ranked among the best and brightest artists and writers on the Pacific Coast, gives modest notice of her whereabouts, and her continued interest in the "army boys," among wh m, the sick and wounded, she spent nearly four years.

Mention of her name brought Wisconsin men to their feet all over the country. Among these Capt. S. L. Brasted, of the 32nd, whose sentiments addressed to the Sunday Telegraph, a d harmonizing with the others, find expression as follows:

I noticed an extract from Miss Addie L. Ballou's letter. Why, the recollections which that paragraph brought back, are invaluable. I can never forget that woman's patience and kindness to all our boys, and to me, while sick and fretful with high fever at Memphis. She was as constant and tender as my mother could have been. My best wishes for her life's success and happiness.

S. L. Brasted."

Miss Ballou having painted, in oil, a fine full sized picture of the war eagle "Old Abe," and forwarded the same as a present to the Wisconsin Soldiers Reunio n Association, writes in response to urgent invitations to contribute sketches of hospital experience for the soldier chapters, as folllows:

No. 759 Market St.,
San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 6.

Pondering what among the thousand old reminiscences of hospital life in army days might be most worthy to appear as my tribute of respectful remembrance, and, with an incident shaping itself into form, my pen drops at a glance over the columns of the ever welcome Sunday Telegraph, bewildered at so touching a tribute of my own meek efforts to serve a country in her peril—over the signature of Sumner L. Brasted.

What a train of recollections are flooding over the sands of the years bringing tears to my eyes, though I don't know why, for I didn't cry then.

"Why, boys, it was a privilege few women can boast, to have learned at your sick beds the heroism of men, and the cost of a nation's honor. Don't any more of you speak of "kindness," so feebly rendered on my part, while memory serves me as the recipient of so many.

Who was always remembered in choice bits of attention, all the way from the "confiscated" panel door that served as floor in my tent for my feet to rest on, the feathery pillow for my head, floral offerings without number, delicacies and good words, and every need anticipated? Why, the cup of goat's milk and cracked corn so often reserved for me at company A's headquarters, is still as sweet in memory as then, and then, when the night watch assumed his post in the hospital, and the camp was quiet, came the music of voices down the company streets, was not my tent often the centre of a serenading party, and all that?

That is a reminder of a never-to-be-forgotten incident of those days that comes back like the echo from the key note, long after the thunders of the psalm are hushed. Some of you will remember company A had been left at the "old navy yard," on detach service, when the regiment, (the other companies of the Thirty-second,) were ordered to camp at North Memphis. After remaining some weeks away, company A also joined the camp, pitching their tents in line adjoining the long row of hospital tents, and at the other extremity of which were the tents of surgeons, hospital, four stores, mess tent "pations," etc., etc.,

Co. H was favored with the posession of a fine string band, consisting of three pieces, two violins and a guitar, tho' whether provided for in army transportations, or how obtained, was a somewhat vexed question never inquired into, so long as they were keeping time, at least by one individual.

The day they pitched their tents among us was a characteristic Tennessee spring day, and rounded off into the tenderest of twilights, sinking reluctantly into deeper shadows and night.

At the hour for taps, the tuning of Sergeant Brasted's guitar and the attendant violins, were plaintively pleading to the moon and luring me to listen from my parted tent door for a few moments before retiring. Sleep is seldom tardy to the weary, and so usually came at once to me, with the opportunity. No sooner were my lids closed than the transit into dreamland began. My brain was just spanning that drowsy causeway in semi-unconsciousness, when an enchanted dream or a more enchanted reality, broke with subdued intensity upon my bewildered senses, and for a moment, like Paul, "Whether in the body or out, I could not tell," as just beyond my head, with only the partition of tent cloth and a small space of night air, the lowest notes of my favorite "fandango," were blended and vibrating from the strings of the instruments. It was so sudden, so unexpected, and almost noiselessly done, it was difficult to determine whether it was a delicious dream or a very clever reality until I recognized a familiar voice endeavoring to "bush" a still more successful silence.

Hastily robing, with a dispatch that would have done credit to a summons to assist in a piece of surgery (sans, shoes and hose,) a mammoth pitcher of lemonade was quickly hurried into existence, and so stealthily transferred to the serenading group as to take them by suprise, while they were still wandering through the wilderness of their first tune. A half hour's music and pleasantry followed. And again all was still within the camp save the passing tread of the guards.

Sometime when all of the "boys" have told their more interesting stories, I may consent to tell of my own most serious encounters with the formidable foe, their unconditional surrender, capture of arms and ammunition, how I came to be placed under guard on certain occasions, and several other funny things. Meanwhile, comrades of the Badger State, dear old Wisconsin, under promise to be heard from perhaps more acceptably at your next annual reunion, I am, loyally, as ever in remembrance of the soldier.

Addie L Ballou.

On the 8th of June the oil portrait of Old Abe will be presented to the association.

On that occasion something may be said and done, not laid down in Jefferson's manual of parliamentary rules. The present is a most handsome one, reflecting the highest credit, not only to the generosity, but as well to the skill and artistic merits of the donor.

Rally Again, Boys!

Inscribed to the Wisconsin Soldiers' Reunion at Milwaukee, June 7th, 1880,

We'll rally again 'neath the standard we bore
On battle-fields crimson and gory;
And we'll greet the brave men who in Freedom's fierce war
Have covered that banner with glory!

Then rally again! Then rally again!
Every soldier, and sailor, and bummer;
And the songs of the fight we'll sing once again,
As we clasp brave hands in the summer.

We'll rally again from the hill-side and glen,
But not to the conflict's fierce rattle;
Yet they'll find us as true as we were to them then,
When we stood by their side in battle.

Then rally again, then rally again, &c.

We'll rally again 'neath the "Flag of the Free,"
With its folds waving peacefully o'er us,
While the land that we saved, united and free,
Shall join in the grand swelling chorus.

Then rally again, then rally again, &c

A cheer for the brave who that banner upbore'
Who live to rejoice with us ever;
And a dirge for the brave who will meet us no more
On this side of the dark-flowing river.

Then rally again, then rally again, &c.

The Record of Company "B."

(MRS. SARAH D. HOEART.)

At the open door of the cottage,
With a book upon her knee,
A fair-haired child sat reading
The record of company "B,"

"Father, the names are many,
And the lists are long," she said;
"But tell me; who are the living
And, who were the wounded and dead?"

Then he took the ancient record
And laid it on his knee,
And he told in the purple twilight
The story of company "B."

"They came from the heart of the prairie,
These men so brave and true,
Who left their homes and dear ones
To march in the army-blue.

"One hundred stalwart yeomen,
Plowing in springtime sweet,
Gathering the sheaves in autumn,
Reaping the ripened wheat.

"They marched in storm and sunshine,
They fought in the battle-rain;
Ah, me! 'twas different labor
From gathering golden grain!

"In the wild Virginia mountains
Some rendered up their lives,
With prayers for the stricken country,
With prayers for mothers and wives.

"On the plains of sunny Georgia
Others were laid to rest,—
With Traitor soil around them
And its clods upon their breast.

"Some died on the dreary marches,
Hungry, weary, and worn,
And some in Southern prisons,
From friends and comrades torn.

"And when the crippled remnant
Came back, and peace was given,
Of the hundred who enlisted
The veterans were but seven.

"By many a blue-waved river,
And where old ocean's surge
Wakes through the solemn ages
An anthem and a dirge,—

"Unmoved by bugle's summons
Or drum's deep reveille,
While angels guard above them
Sleep the men of company "B."

"Ah, me!" she sighed; "The record
Is sad and filled with pain,
"Praise God! the war is over,
And the land's at rest again!

"But I'm proud that when the country
Was torn from sea to sea,
My father fought to save her

Maj. Phil Plummer's Death.

Gen. John Gibbon, U. S. A., formerly of the Iron Brigade, wrote the Reunion Association:

"Whilst you are hunting up Wisconsin Soldiers, will you please associate the circumstances attending the death of Major Philip Wilkinson Plummer, Sixth Wisconsin. He is supposed to have been killed in the Wilderness, May 4, 1864, and his friends have heard nothing of him since—not even positively that he is killed. I write at the instance of his sister who is here."

The foregoing having been published, received among others the following from Gen. Bragg:

"Poor Phil; he was a brave soldier, and a warm hearted gentleman. He went down with Capt. Rollin B. Converse, Co. B, 6th Wisconsin, which, by the way, taking it for all, was the best company of troops I ever saw, and Rollin was well worthy of his command, and Lieut. James Converse, Co. G., which was Phil's old command.

It all came about May 4th, something like this: When the enemy was discovered by our wagon train, which happened to be moving up through the woods from the Lacey house in advance, ala Red River campaign, the Sixth Wisconsin was given a roving commission to turn into the thicket on the right, and move on in support of a line of troops, said to be down in there somewhere.

The 6th was pretty reliable about obeying orders when there was a smell of gunpowder around, and away it went having no objective point, except the sound or irregular musketry in front, indicating where the hunt would be found. Presently wounded men met us; the woods became partially on fire in front; we staggered along half suffocated and stumbling now and then over dead bodies; some with some with grey, some with blue uniforms; but we fired never a shot, and held our cartridges for the hot work we were seeking, when, suddenly, as we passed out from a ball of smoke and fire in the timber, Little Halloway, of Co. K, who was a good marker, and who met his death by a railroad accident at the close of the war, after he had cooly faced death for four years without a scratch, called out, "See there, Colonel," when away at our right, passing up a hollow or part of ravine, at a double quick, was a line of Johnnies, moving by the flank and passing to our rear. The right wing of the regiment was refused at once to meet the movement, and at that instant a heavy volley of musketry was poured into the left wing by a rebel line that was making a corresponding movement, with the flank line on the right, but could not resist the temptation to fire as they passed.

The three officers named, fell here; the two Converses, I think, suffered amputation of a leg, each, and died at a rebel hospital improvished there in the woods and called "Locust Grove" or "Locust Hill" hospital. Plummer fell dead on the field and was spared the torture of the knife and saw.

I think this statement almost if not quite official. I did not see him fall; but I saw him just before and gave him orders. The volley came; I saw the command immediately after, but he was missing, and in the repertoire of my memory I have the statement of a wounded man, whose name escaped me, who fell at the same time and was taken up to the Locust Hill hospital.—if that was its name—which corroborates my story.

How the sixth got out of that scrape would make quite a little story.

But they got out.

Fond du Lac, July 14, 1879. E. S. BRAGG.

An officer of Co. C followed with this letter.

MILWAUKEE, July 21st.

EDITORS SUNDAY TELEGRAPH:—I have just read Gen. Bragg's letter describing the death of my old comrade, Major Phil. Plummer, and notice that he compliments company B, of the 6th, in a manner that is bound to awaken the least bit of envy from his own company, E, and the rest of the regiment. Not that I wish to detract, or can prove that his praise was not worthily bestowed, for I am not willing to be second to any one in my admiration of the brave, gallant company B, with their ever-to-be-remembered Captain Converse, but let me ask our little fighting General, how about company C? and remind him that Major Plummer, Lieut. Orrin D Chapman (killed at Gettysburg,) Adjutant Cuyler Babcock, (killed before Petersburg,) Major Ed. Whaley, (post master at Prairie du Chien, minus a leg,) Hawley Spragne, Lieut. Bull, Davidson, Hickok, Jack Bowman, (Devil Jack,) and many others who helped to make the record of the old sixth, were members of the Prairie du Chien company C. When in the service, Gen'l Bragg had no favorites, and it was this, added to his remarkable skill and fighting qualities that won for him the highest reputation as a colonel over the many who commanded regiments in the "Army of the Potomac." At the time the 6th re-enlisted for three years, hundreds of eastern soldiers refused to re-enlist in their own organizations, but were willing and did apply for permission to join the sixth under Bragg. You will excuse the length of this. There are but a few of us left, and I believe you will sustain me in the assertion that it is very rare to hear from any of the once famous sixth. GRAYSON.

And the chapter closed in this characteristic paragraph.

COLONEL: There is an old story about a Dutch justice (by the way all good jokes are laid to the Germans or Irish,) who exclaimed, when the defendant's lawyer closed his case, "Vell, you have got the case." The plaintiff's lawyer made his plea, and the old man scratched his head and said, "Mein Gott in himmel! you have got the case, too."

Just so with the boys of the old brigade! They all have won and are entitled to the case, when I sit as arbiter between them. So much for comments on what I said about Company B.

Colonel Tom Allen, who never shrank from danger or duty, but whose laurels are some of them worn by others, seems to be getting dyspeptic, and worries his honest soul about some comrade's talking to me about Bull Run when I was not there. Oh Lord Tom! Did you ever see anybody that was there, except you of course, who knew much about it, only that it was a wondrous skedaddle?

Please, Colonel Tom don't make me responsible for what anybody writes to the newspapers unless you see it signed.

Where is Shooks?

(H. B. EASTMAN, 3D CAV.)

"Shooks!" cried the Orderly Sergeant at the roll call of Co. I, Third Wisconsin cavalry. "Yer!" was the prompt answer from a tall Arkansan who stood in the ranks.

All the boys of Co. I, would like to know what has become of William Shooks? He enlisted in Co. I in the fall of 1863, when that company was on provost duty at Fort Smith, Arkansas. We had never seen or heard of Shooks or his father until the latter produced the former at our camp one day, and declared that the boy wanted to enlist.

The old man said they lived "up on Mulherry"—a creek some twelve miles from Fort Smith—and that there "war a right smart of bushwhackers 'round thar" and he "reckoned Bill better be 'mong the Fed's, sorter like."

The boy didn't say much, and the old man didn't seem to be actuated by any particularly patriotic feeling in the premises. He wanted the boy well taken care of, and evidently thought him safer, and surer of rations among us than in a bush-whacking gang. So William Shooks was duly enlisted and invested with the army blue.

He was a curiosity to us; but a clique of the youngest and toughest boys, who styled themselves, "Tent Six," took kindly to him, and would not allow any fun to be made of him. He was eighteen years old, tall for his age, with straight, brown hair, and honest, light blue eyes. He was rather taciturn, had a quaint way of expressing himself and was very observing.

Some of us, at first, considered his demeanor a little suspicious, and it was hinted that Shooks would desert at the first opportunity and carry news to the rebs. But experience soon demonstrated that, whether or not Shooks had studied and understood the momentous questions at issue between the contending armies, he had cast his lot with us in good faith, and would be true to his oath.

He was a good shot, an elegant horseman and a fearless soldier. We all liked and respected him. The last we saw of Shooks was at Madison, when we were mustered out, in the fall of 1865. The boys were bidding each other good bye and preparing to start for their respective homes. All had a kind farewell for Shooks. Many of the boys wanted him to go home with them, knowing that his Arkansas home might be made unpleasant, if not unhealthy for him by his ex-rebel neighbors. But he refused all invitations, and in answer to the question, where he intended to go, said: "Gwine ter hell, I reckon." We want to know whether he went. In response to this, it would do us good to hear him once more answer "Yer!"

What we started to write, when we drifted into the martial history of Shooks, was an account of a little episode in which he took a prominent part, at Dardanelle, Arkansas. A small detachment of our regiment were sent as guard on a steamboat carrying supplies from Little Rock to Dardanelle, on Arkansas river, in the fall of 1864.

While at Dardanelle, the place was attacked by Col. Brooks, whose command consisted of mounted men and a battery. The garrison being weak, our boys were ordered to the front to help resist the attack, and were distributed in a thin line, in a zigzag trench with logs in front for breastworks. The rebs were much more numerous and kept up a pretty sharp fire, both from rifles and artillery. Our troops repelled several assaults, and finally held the field, the Johnnies retreating. During the action, Shooks banged away on his own hook, whenever he had a good shot, but said never a word. After awhile the boys noticed that Shooks was uncommonly interested in the vicinity of the rebel battery, some 800 yards distant. There were several prominent figures riding around near that battery, and among them a man on a white horse. Shooks, regardless of bullets and shells, peered well over his log and watched the white horse and its rider. Finally, the eager, determined look went out of his eyes, and an expression of disgust swept over his face, as he exclaimed: "Dog-oned ef thet ain't dad!" Then, standing up so as to be fully exposed, and throwing up his hands with an impatient gesture, while he turned excitedly to the boys on each side of him, he yelled, loud enough to be heard above the din: "Say! don't nary one uv you uns shoot thet white hoss? Thet's my hoss! Wonder what'n hell dad brought thet hoss down yer fur—might a know'd he'd git shot. Don't none of you uns hit thet white hoss, now! what a dog-goned fool dad is, anyhow, to bring thet hoss down yer!"

You may be sure that none of the boys fired at "thet white hoss."

An Army Yarn.

(GEN. J. A. KELLOGG).

Almost everybody knows Col. Jerry (or more familiarly Jack) Watrous. I remember him as Lieut. Watrous. When I was cap——no, when I paid an involuntary visit to the rebs, on the 5th of May, 1861, he was ordnance sergeant of the division. When I returned in November, he was first lieutenant and adjutant of the regiment, and let me say right here, once for all, a more faithful officer never drew a sabre in his country's defense than Jerry Watrous. On the 25th of March he was acting as adjutant general of the Iron brigade temporarily commanded by himself, which became actively engaged in the battle known as Gravelly Run. Our forces, under command of Gen. Warren, became engaged with the enemy early in the morning. Our brigade happened to occupy a position of great importance, as subsequent events showed. Our line of battle consisted of the two divisions of Ayers and Griffin, with Crawford's division as a support. Just after the engagement opened, the first line was flanked by the enemy and compelled to retire. Our brigade, immediately upon the fact being realized, was in situation to deploy to meet the flanking line, which was promptly done, our orders being to then open fire, and to hold them as long as possible. For some little time it was impossible to comply with this order on account of the presence of scattered bodies of our own troops in our front, who were falling back in such disorder as always attends an attack on the flank.

As soon as possible, however, we opened fire, and checked the advance of the exultant foe; but soon our little brigade was also flanked, their line of battle overlapping ours at either end, and the Ninety-first New York, which was on our right, by some mischance became cut off. The rebels were in our rear and across both flanks, and the time had come when we must fall back. A portion of the ninety-first was got into position under the command of the gallant Col. Tarbell, and the rebs were all around us. Lieut. Watrous sat on his horse near me, viewing the scene. I said to him, "Mr. Watrous, we must get out of this. Do you think you can reach Tarbell?" Jerry surveyed the field, and saw that to do so he would be exposed to a fire from every quarter, especially as there was an open field which he would have to cross. All the danger of the situation was apparent. I shall never forget the reply, which was, "I can do it if any live man can." "Go, then," I replied, "and order Col. Tarbell to retire his regiment across the creek." Jerry started. I watched him with such anxiety as only those in like circumstances can appreciate—rebs in front of him, rebs in rear of him, and yet he rode on. A party threw themselves across his front; he wheeled to the right and dashed on. Again they crossed his front, and he wheeled to the left. How many times he was shot at, God only knows. I could see the gallant Tarbell and the remnants of his regiment holding their position. I knew he would stay until ordered to return, and I knew Jerry would carry that order if he could. But my God, what chances there were against him! Something attracted my attention for a moment, and when I again looked for Jerry, I saw him throw up his arms; his horse fell at the same time; the rebs were all around him by the score. Alas, I thought, poor Jerry is gone. But no. Tarbell had seen the movement, and heard Jerry's shout. His regiment about faced, and with the balance of the line, the glorious old sixth and seventh, we cut our way through. But here the campaign ended for Jerry. After the battle was over we searched the field for Jerry's body, all believing him dead, and it was several weeks before the gratifying news reached us of his safety, although a prisoner, and, I think, wounded, yet alive. His deserved promotion followed news of his safety, and he was present for many a gallant fight on other fields, requiring moral courage; for peace has her victories as well as war, aye, and her battle fields, too.

How "Misery" Came, and Left us.

LIEUT. H. B. EASTMAN, 3RD CAV.

It was in the fall of 1862, and in the camp of company I, Third regiment Wisconsin cavalry, at Fort Scott, Kansas. People had begun to believe the war was in earnest, and must be fought out. So recruits were in order.

From an interior town in Wisconsin came to our company a squad of recruits among whom was one nick-named "Misery." His name was given him, by one of his fellow recruits, on the route to the regiments, and its appropriateness was recognized by the boys the moment "Misery" set foot in the camp, and thenceforward he was addressed by no other cognomen.

He was about eighteen years old, tall and ungainly. He had a shambling gait and the "image and superscription" of "slouch" was indelibly stamped upon him

His eyes were sleepy looking, but he managed to use them effectively in finding the best of everything to eat. His mouth was drawn down at one corner as if in perpetual grievance, and turned up at the other in a continual leer. His hair was faded mule color and studiously worn ala "bang" in a manner to excite the envy of stylish girls of the present day. And he was the dirtiest critter who ever struck that camp. After a lapse of seventeen years, and a considerable experience with grimy men, I can, without any hestation or secret evasion, assert that no hand so dirty as "Misery's" was ever raised, before or since, to protect the old flag. And his face was as dirty as his hands. No hints, expostulations of entreaties, though couched in the gentle language of a United States trooper, could induce "Misery" to wash his hands and face, until it was unanimously resolved he should not eat until he washed. He loved his rations more than he hated water, and so the boys forced him to the wash basin occasionally. He drawled his words, and closed each sentence with a whine. On the way to the regiment he seemed to be thirsting for rebel blood, and was loud in his declarations of a desire to kill. His only fear was, that the war would be over before his squad reached the field and he could take a scalp. It was noticed, however, the nearer he approached the regiment the less blood-thirsty he became. And when ushered into the presence of carbines, revolvers and sabres, with surroundings which indicated use for such weapons, he became as gentle a warrior as ever crawled under a wagon. So soon as it was announced in camp that a recruit had arrived who wanted to chew up the entire southern confederacy, the boys decided to have some fun.

There was no enemy, except irregular bands of "bushwhackers," within a few miles of the Fort, and scouting parties of Co. "I" were often exchanging compliments with these gentry. But the camp at Fort Scott was as safe a place, so far as casualties of war might be concerned, as even "a three month man" could wish for. "Misery" did not comprehend the exact state of affairs, but concluded that he was "at the front," "with all the name implies." The boys were not slow to impress upon him the gravity of the situation. In his presence the conversation invariably turned upon the nearness, the audacity and bloodthirstiness of the rebels. Terrible stories were told of the number of men nightly killed on guard. These night conflicts were particularly expatiated upon. In the day time, the boys said they could get along well enough, for they could look right in the mouth of the rebel cannon and see what they'd got to dodge; but this wholesale slaughter in the gloom, this losing ten or a dozen men every night—all shot full of bullets from an unseen foe—was calculated to make a man sick of service. It was painful one morning to see "Misery" put down his cup of coffee, when the boys came to breakfast and announced, "six more men killed last night," "heard about the Johnnies cutting off that recruit's head just before daylight?" "poor Bill got his wooden overcoat mighty sudden," "Well, none of us will ever see Wisconsin again," "wasn't it terrible the way Corporal Smith got his eyes slashed out with buckshot last evening?" "Gosh, boys, the whole picket line was just paved with the brains and in'ards of volunteers last night."—It was fairly pitiful to see poor "Misery's" jaw drop when little corporal Bemis took Johnny Spencer one side, but within "Misery's" hearing, and with faltering voice said: "Johnny, m me and "Misery's" got to go on guard to-night, and—and—you know its not likely either of us will ever see the morning light. And I want you to—to—see that I have the old flag wrapped around me in good shape and my—my—my—spurs buried with me. And when t.e boys bring in "Misery's" body in the morning, please see that it is washed once real good, and bury us side by side, poor dirty cuss, for he was never killed before and he'll be lonesome."

When a sergeant came around soon after and detailed "Misery' for guard duty that night, the cold sweat started on him. But the boy had friends in his hour of need—veterans whose experience might yet be the means of saving his life. These kindly volunteered advice as to the necessary preparations for his perilous duty. Under their direction and with their assistance, he tremblingly reported for duty about 9 o'clock in the evening, arrayed as follows: A steel vest, weighing about seven pounds, buckled around his chest and another of equal weight strapped so as to protect his rear; the largest and heaviest sabre in camp fastened to his right side; three cartridge boxes, all full; two revolvers which wouldn't revolve; a carbine, loaded with blank cartridges, and a pair of sharp spurs. "Misery" was informed that the rebels had made a considerable advance and were now in the immediate vicinity of the camp, so that the pickets would be stationed but a few rods out, and he might be sure of speedy support when attacked. As he was not used to managing a horse, it was considered best to have him stand picket dismounted. The camp was situated on the bank of the Marmaton river, a stream about four rods in width and from one to three feet in depth. "Misery" was conducted to one end of the camp near the corn pile, instructed to blaze away at any one approaching and under no circumstances to desert his post, as the safety of the whole army depended on him.

After he had been alone a few minutes, four or five men could have been seen approaching through the gloom. Taking advantage of trees and bushes, they reached "Misery's" vicinity without his discovering them. When within twenty feet of him, they suddenly presented themselves and demanded his surrender. With a howl of terror he threw down his carbine and sped through the camp. He made straight for his tent, a big Sibley affair, holding twenty men, and every man in it was delightedly listening to the clatter of that running armory. His speed was accelerated by shots in his rear, and he burst into the tent and rolled into the middle of it, a rattling piece of disorganized ordnance stores. "My stars!" he said, "boys, they drove me in!" The whole camp was now aroused, and everybody turned out to support the picket line. "Misery" was dragged out, soundly b rated for retreating before he had been wounded six or seven times, and pushed by his brave comrades back to his post, where they all declared they would die with him. Of course the attack was renewed, and with great vigor. Shots flashed through the darkness. Men tumbled around on the ground, wounded and in terrible agony. With three men to hold "Misery" and one to hold his carbine, they managed to make him discharge it at a mule. Then some one yelled, "we must retreat across the river!" all started, pell-mell for the stream. Down the bank they scooted with "Misery" well in advance, and he had waded nearly across the river when the terrified voice of "old Mac," the bugler was heard exclaiming: "Great Heavens! just see those rebels on the other side!" Then another rush was made back up the bank and "Misery" was left in the middle of the stream He floundered back as best he could, falling down once in the deepest part and nearly drowning from the weight of his armor. As he was frantically clawing his way up the slippery bank, he was captured by a squad of rebels, who proposed to slay him at once, claiming that he was the fiend who had lately killed so many of their comrades. With streaming eyes, the poor wretch howled, "O, no, good Mr. Secesh. I never hurt none of your men. I'm a new recruit and never shot nobody." It was then decided to release him; the rebels retreated and "Misery" staggered, sadly demoralized, into his quarters, and announced to the boys that "these ere steel vests is awful heavy when they git wet."

The next day it was deemed necessary for the good of the service that "Misery" be court-martialed for deserting his post. The court-martial was composed of the cooks of the several messes, and after mature deliberation it was adjudged that "Misery" be excused from being shot, but that he be branded. That operation was successfully performed. "Misery" was blindfolded and led to the company's forge. While he was regaled with the furious pumping of the bellows and such exclamations as "ain't that a nice white heat?" "Golly, won't that make him jump?" A providential piece of ice, which had thinly formed the previous night, was being held on a belt plate. When the proper temperature had been obtained the plate was smartly applied "as by the statute in such case, made and provided." "Misery" jumped and limped to his quarters.

The next day he applied to George Dunnett, who was a private, but who wore the best clothes of any man in the company, and whom "Misery" mistook for a Major General, for a pass. George wrote, "Guards and Pickets, pass this d——d fool right along."

And "Misery" took that pass, "passed right along," out of camp, out of sight, and we never saw nor heard of him again. But he can never pass out of our memory.

Ed. McCook's Luck.

(MAJ. LU DRURY.)

Having overcome that "funny feeling of modesty" to the extent of giving you an account of a scout that I once took in the Sequatchie Valley in Tennessee, it occurred to me to try what effect the narration of the adventure would have on a soldier who had seen service in the Valley before boring the balance of the boys with it,—so when an old friend, formerly of the First Wisconsin Cavalry, dropped in on me a few days ago. I placed him in a chair, filled a pipe for him, and was gently leading up to the point, when I mentioned "Sequatchie Valley," he broke in on me with "Lu, did I ever tell you about our charge in the Sequatchie?" It was no use for me to state that I had heard it a dozen times, besides seeing it illustrated in Harper's Weekly; the veteran trooper, slung himself into his old moth-eaten saddle, drew his rusty sabre, and went thundering up the valley, over riding my little yarn, and slashing the flying rebs as remorselessly as he did in October, 1863, and this is the way he did it:

"You see the boys struck a 'stalled' sutler's wagon early in the morning, and the colonel commanding the division, McCook—used to call him Horse-Ed, to distinguish him from his cousin Ed, who had an infantry command—halted right there, and with him stopped the newspaper correspondents, including the artist for Harper's: but the First Wisconsin, under Col. Hugh Lagrange, kept on up the valley, as we had sure news of the near proximity of the rebel cavalry under Gen. Martin. We struck the rear of their column about three miles from the sutler's wagon, and they faced about and formed to resist our advance. Just then an orderly rode up and handed Col. Lagrange a written order from Col. McCook to halt the column. I think the colonel must have been a little confused when he read it, as he mildly remarked—that is, he remarked so you could have heard him a mile—"Now charge the—— —— ——, and give 'em h—l!" or words to that effect.

"You just ought to have been there, Lu, to see old Torry go, a rippin' and a rarin', a sweatin' and a swearin' up that valley and over such of the rebs as he could overhaul. He didn't use his sabre at all. He went into 'em like an ignum vitæ ball among a lot of ten-pins, and with about the same result. In the field to the right of the pike charged a company under Capt. Levi Howland, who was under about the same pressure of perspiration and profanity as was Major Torry, but cutting and slashing with his sabre every reb that he came to. There was one chap, adjutant on Gen. Martin's staff, a dandy sort of a duck—lots of braid on his coat, mustache waxed 'a la Francois'—that Levi gave the cut St. George to, as he rode past him. It was a cruel blow and struck the reb across the face between the mustache and nose. The mustache dropped down like the band of a fatigue captain. Some of the boys consoled the poor fellow by telling him him his mustache wasn't hurt a bit.

One of the guiden bearers rode at the head of the column and couldn't handle his sabre and the guiden at the same time, so when he overtook a reb he would jab him in the back with the lance head in the top of the guiden staff. There were more rebs captured than there were men in the charging column, and that charge made Ed McCook a Brigadier General and subsequently governor of a territory.

The Future of the Association.

(LIEUT. D. C. PAVEY.)

Comrades, one and all, do you realize the magnitude of the unwritten history of the war, in its grand and imposing proportions, and that the day is already dawning when the survivors of Wisconsin's heroic citizen soldiers, may be counted by the score instead of by the thousand? This dual assertion and inquiry, if it may be so termed, constitute the preface of one of the most soul inspiring articles ever written by mortal, beside which the heroic strains of a Virgil or of a Cicero would ring with diminished tone. The future biographers of Wisconsin's gallant soldier boys, who sustained aloft, proudly, the starry emblem of the Republic from 1861 till the close of the civil war, will enter upon a field ripe for the sickle, and it behooves you comrades, one and all, to aid, so far as lies in your power, the compilation of the history which you largely helped to make. Each of you can, if you will, rescue from the remorseless waves of the great sea of oblivion, details with which you were respectively connected, which woven into book form by the skilled hands of the historian, would constitute one of the most entertaining and instructive works ever published in this country.

To thus set the ball in motion for the accurate transmission to posterity of the record of your patriotism, your patient self-denial and your terrible sacrifices beneath a southern sky, is the mainspring, it may be said of the Wisconsin Reunion Association. And in what manner can this object best be achieved; upon what general line ought the fight to be maintained? That of personal effort is the answer, and to-day that is both practical and practicable. Nearly every citizen of Wisconsin who shouldered a musket and went "to the front" during the dark days of the civil strife and who returned home in safety when the shriek of shell and the plunge of solid shot, the rattle of musketry and the roar of artillery, the shrill notes of the bugle and muffled drum had been silenced, let us hope, forever, has a history which can be summarized and which would be read with unbounded interest by his children, and children" children, through the ages yet in the shadowy future. It may seem a matter of but little consequence to you now but the time will surely come to each one of you, who responds cheerfully to this simple request, when the proudest exclamation from your lips will be: "I was a Union soldier." The state looks after the officers and the private soldiers also, who were killed in action or who died of disease or wounds during the war, the names appearing in the Adjutant General's report. Should any friend however, of a deceased officer or soldier desire to build more comprehensively upon the mere sub-structure afforded by the state, the Association would gladly receive the same, and give it a place in its archives. Independent of these, however, there are twenty or thirty thousand survivors of the "rank and file," whose valor was displayed on many a well fought field, and whose existence in an Andersonville or a Libby was a continual torture. In simple Anglo-Saxon, therefore, what is wanted is this: Let every soldier prepare, (or ask some friend to prepare for him), a condensed sketch of this army life. To the general public these will not be of equal interest, but if the sketch of Tom Brown's campaigning should be a trifle monotonous to the general reader—absolutely devoid, it may be, of thrilling incident, hence not at all comparable with that of John Smith, to Tom Brown's descendant's it will be evidence, if nothing more, of the fact that their ancestor "fought, bled, died and almost suffered," as the boys used to say, in the great cause of human freedom.

It is hoped and believed that the state, will ultimately take this matter in hand, or at all events lend valuable assistance to the Association in this collecting for permanent use the biographical sketches of surviving Wisconsin soldiers, but for the present, we must "go it alone," invoking the hearty and effective co-operation of the boys themselves, who in this connection will recall the favorite army maxim: "If a fellow don't look out for himself nobody else will."

Comrades, may we rely upon you to do your share of this work. It is a work in which we are mutually interested, and to postpone "till a more convenient season" is hazardous in the extreme. To be of value the work must be as complete as possible and "the files must be closed." No straggling, no shirking, should be the motto, but we shall expect a grand final rally under the flag we love so well. Comrades! To the front and center, every mother's son of you!

A Brave Captain Off His Feet.

Early and late the publisher of this the first book of the kind ever gotten up, has labored diligently to rescue from oblivion individual instances of heroism and daring which else had perished with the hero. With pleasure therefore, the following is given to our soldier friends to show that sometimes even a captain tried and true, may be taken "off his feet."

In June 1861 J. H. Marston, a sterling young Appletonian, united his fortunes with those of the gallant sixth Wisconsin as second lieutenant of E company., his commission dating from May 10th Gen. E. S. Bragg, of Fond du Lac, was captain. Subsequently Lieut. Marston was commissioned first lieutenant, with rank from Sept. 18, 1861, and afterward was honored with a captain's commission, to date from Sept. 18, 1862. He was with his regiment during Gen. Pope's retreat from the Rapidan to Upton's Hill in August, 1862, and took part in the following named engagements:

South Mountain, Sept. 14, 1862; Antietam, Sept. 17, 1862; Fitzhugh's Crossing, April 29, 1863; Chancellorsville, May 3 and 4, 1863; Gettysburg, July 1, 2 and 3, 1863. Was wounded at South Mountain by a shot in his left ear and at Antietam by a shot in left leg. In this battle a cannon shot (referred to in Love's "Wisconsin in the War" as killing and wounding thirteen men of the sixth Wisconsin, on the morning of the 17th) entered the ground under Capt. Marston's feet the result being that he "went up" with the explosion but landed all right. At Gettysburg his ankle was badly sprained in consequence of being tossed into the air for the second time by a cannon ball which plowed up the ground directly under his feet. July 1, 1863, he was taken prisoner but escaped the same day from his captors, finding a secure hiding place between the lines of battle until July 4, when he came into our lines, was honorably discharged March 25, 1864, on surgeon's certificate of disability, and to-day is of the flourishing manufacturing firm, at Appleton, of Marston & Deveridge, his involutary ascensions in Virginia perhaps preparing him for aerial navigation hereafter. Captain Marston's military record is not only a most excellent one in every way but possesses a flavor of novelty which will be appreciated by every one of our soldier readers.

Old Pomposity.

Comrade Darwin C. Pavey of L Company 15th, N. Y. Vols. (Engineer Corps) tells a good story about a fellow soldier in the same company which for downright "rediculosity" as Charles Sumner would say, can't be beaten, This Soldier, whom we shall call Frank, was a fellow student with comrade Pavey in a well known eastern academy and was forever distinguishing (?) himself by the use of words of three and four syllables and as is usually the case with young men of his caliber, invariably get "the cart before the horse," as the phrase is, in his vain endeavor to convince the boys that his head was more level than heads would average. Frank enlisted some three months before comrade Pavey did, and when the latter joined his regiment at City Point, Va., the first person whom he encountered in the "Company Street" was his old school fellow Frank. Of course as he says he was right glad to see Frank. and considerately inquired after his health "since he'd been in the army." Upon this Frank straightened up proudly and in his most extinguishing tones replied: "I'm fond of the service excessively but I've been seriously ill for a great length of period,"

Before the final muster out of the 15th occured at Fort Barrey, Va., June 13th 1865, the story of the man who had been "seriously ill for a great length of period" went the grand rounds of the brigade with the most agonizing Ohs and Ahs imaginable.

Our Future.

I

Equally in duty to Wisconsin's dead, and generations yet to come, the living soldiers of the late war have a work before them of a magnitude demanding prompt and untiring action.

This duty requires that the name and record of every man who went from Wisconsin to the war be truthfully made up and preserved, regardless of the rank he held, length of service or duties performed, or whether he died in the war, or since, or is still living. Without fear or favor, without romance, selfishness, or prompted by other sentiment than to make a straight, unpartisan, faithful record, the enterprise should be taken up and perfected. It is a large undertaking. It cannot be accomplished by any one man, or in any one year. The Wisconsin Reunion Association can do it if they try. No one else can do it as well, if indeed any other can attempt it with reasonable hope of success. Even though legislative appropriations be secured, it alone is not sufficient. This association must lend its efforts to the task or it will not succeed. United, harmonious and active, we may accomplish everything.

Think of this, comrades.

II

On the 30th of May a year ago, your executive committee issued to Wisconsin soldiers and their friends a circular on this subject, asking their co operation in making a record which should when complete, contain among other things.

1st—All the reports received from surviving soldiers and sailors, giving name, regiment, company, boat, present occupation, and residence, together with historical facts, reminiscences, anecdotes and incidents personal and general, and which will make the most complete record of Wisconsin men in the war yet published.

2nd—Answers to all inquiries made in regard to Wisconsin veterans and their friends.

3rd—A complete list of all Wisconsin soldiers who were killed in battle, or who died of wounds or disease in the service, with residence at time of enrollment, and present place of burial. As Decoration Day becomes more and more observed this list will become invaluable.

4th—A description of all the engagements and battles and the part taken therein by Wisconsin men.

5th—A correct narration and statement of all Wisconsin men taken prisoners during the war, with full particulars of capture, rescue, imprisonment, escape or exchange.

6th—The Roster of the living, alphabetically arranged by regiment and company, P. O. address, &c.

The letters closed as follows:

To do this successfully the association asks and depends upon the co-operation of every soldier and sailor.

The association does not want your money, but does want your record, your history, your personal experiences, knowledge and information on the subject above mentioned.

Please give these in your own way (don't be afraid you can't write—we risk all that) at as early date as you can. Even a little at a time, a little more some other time, and so on until we get it all. Your comrades are interested in your doing this. Posterity is interested. It is proper that those who made history should take a hand in writing it.

Stir up the comrades who have not already done so, to send in their names, or send them yourself to the Association.

A little united action, when each does his part, yields most wonderful results. Try it.

The proposition was a new thing, its object uncertain, and your committee found their first task was to stir up an interest in the work, and establish a confidence that it was not a selfish scheme, for enhancing personal or political interests.

In no spirit of self-aggrandizement, but in compliment to the intelligence of the soldiers themselves, and the gratitude and patriotism of their friends all over the world who were not soldiers, it may here be recorded that so fast as the scope and objects of the association became known—with one single exception—none but kind words and acts of encouragement greeted the movement.

III.

The first object—to stir up the latent interest, and receive the names of the living, may be said to have reached a good beginning. The richest fields are beyond. Many comrades have sent in their valuable army experiences. Many more have not. When all shall have so done, when the record of every Wisconsin man shall have been made and published, and a harmonious unity of action organized, the association will have entered upon the widest fields of its usefulness.

IV.

The interest stirred up, the organization effected, the life imparted into this new movement is only partially reflected in these pages Subsequent volumes will show more of it. The association now has on hand a valuable accumulation of material, more than sufficient for another volume the size of this, and the "trouble" has only commenced. If each one will only do his share, most wonderful results will follow. Don't let up. Keep up the motion. No one is sorry, for having done what they have, nor will they be, after doing ten times as much.

As a sample of company lists on hand to be published in a subsequent volume, we refer to the "Oshkosh Volunteers" by Col. John Hancock

They are models. In the next Roster we hope to follow this system, except perhaps give more details of each comrade's service.

OSHKOSH VOLUNTEERS.

BY COL. JOHN HANCOCK.

April 12th, 1861, was made memorable in our annals as being the day Gen Beauregard trained his guns on Fort Sumpter; the sad and sickening news flashed through the North, paling cheeks and appalling the stoutest hearts, for then all hopes of averting the pending conflict were blasted. The Northern people did not believe that the feeling through the South was intense and bitter enough to sustain that people in resorting to such extreme measures. Previous to that the sentiment of the North had been to avert the storm by compromise, but at the receipt of that news, all thoughts of compromise vanished. Three days afterward Lincoln issued his call for 75,000 volunteers, and two days after the call was issued a public meeting was held at Oshkosh. At that meeting speeches were made, and then adjourned to meet at the same place the following Saturday evening. At the adjourned meeting the company then known as the Osbkosh volunteers was enlisted, which was afterwards known as company E, Second Wisconsin Regiment Volunteer Infantry. The next morning (Sunday), the company met and elected the following officers: Gabe Bouck, Captain, Jno. Hancock, First Lieutenant, H. B. Jackson, Second Lieutenant. The next morning the company met and elected non-commissioned officers, telegraphed Governor Randall for orders, and commenced drilling. May 4th the company took cars for Madison, where they arrived in safety, and were assigned quarters at Camp Randall. The following is a condensed history of each member while with the company:

GENERAL NOTES.

The Commander-in-Chief, and the Commanders of the several Divisions have been elected by joint Soldiers and Citizens Reunion Committee, which meets in Milwaukee on the last Tuesday of each month.

Commanding Officers will select and announce the members of their respective staffs.

Commanders of Divisions are requested to put themselves at once in communication with the several organizations assigned to their command, and to adopt such measures and take such action as they may deem proper to secure a full and well organized representation of their respective divisions at the Reunion; and, if they deem it desirable, to divide their divisions into brigades and appoint brigade commanders.

All General, Field and Staff Officers are requested, as far as practicable, to appear, mounted and wearing side arms.

Regiments, batteries and companies will be commanded at the Reunion by the senior officer present, unless a different organization shall be effected for the occasion.

It is not expected that the men will appear in uniform, unless they desire to, but it is hoped that as many as conveniently can will wear dark clothes and slouched hats or fatigue caps.

Each regiment will carry the colors borne by it in the service, which will be found at the General Headquarters in Milwaukee. Let the sturm tattered flags, riven by shot and shell on a hundred fields of battle, once more be unfolded to the breeze before they are forever laid away to moulder into dust.

Veterans are requested to provide themselves with blankets, tin cup, tin plate, knife, fork and spoon, prepared to go into Camp, as the committee will secure proper camp equipage, and consummate arrangements to provide good and wholesome rations at reasonable rates, not to exceed fifty cents per day; but regimental commanders are requested, if they so desire, to make suitable arrangement for the quartering and subsistence of their respective commands.

The veterans will not be required to perform guard duty in Camp, nor to make any stated parade except the Grand Parade on Wednesday; but commanders of regiments, etc., are requested to make proper details from their commands, to care for and protect public and personal property in their respective Camps, and to pitch and strike their tents.

Railroad fares will be at the rate of one and a half cents per mile, for soldiers and all others. Railroad tickets will be good for ten days, and if any want to remain longer an extension will be granted upon application to the executive committee.

Headquarters for the Commander-in-Chief, the Commanders of the several Divisons, and for the different committees, will be established during the Reunion at the County Court House, where staff officers and committee men will at all times be on duty to give information to visiting soldiers and sailors.

Members of regiments, companies and batteries are requested to confer with each other for purposes of organization, and as soon as possible to transmit the name of the officer who will command their respective organization during the Reunion to D N Kasson, Secretary of the General Committee, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

All honorably discharged Soldiers who served in any Wisconsin organization at any time during the war of the rebellion and all honorably discharged Union Soldiers and Sailors who now are, or at any time have been residents of the State of Wisconsin, are requested to attend the Grand Reunion.

EXPERIENCED, STAUNCH, ALWAYS RELIABLE!

THE OLD

PENNSYLVANIA FIRE INS. CO.

OF PHILADELPHIA, PA.

With a Successful Business Experience of

FIFTY-FIVE YEARS,

Continues to Offer Strictly FIRST-CLASS INSURANCE on Favorable Terms.

THE average LIFE of Insurance Companies in the United States, has not exceeded 10 years! Hence the preference which Property-owners should give to a THOROUGHLY TESTED and TIME-HONORED Company like the

"OLD PENNSYLVANIA FIRE."

☞This Company during its existence of 55 years, has paid LOSSES amounting to an average of $100,000 per annum, or $5,500,000 for whole time!

☞Its Reputation for FAIR and HONORABLE dealing has never been SURPASSED by any similar institution!

☞It has always been equal to the emergency in every period of DANGER or DISASTER—in all of the "Ups and Downs" of Business in the last 50 odd years!

☞During the last 10 years—from January 1, 1870, to January 1, 1880—a period of great disaster, to Insurance interests generally, the ASSETS and NET-SURPLUS of the Company were INCREASED nearly 100 per cent.—and this too, notwithstanding the payment of over $500,000 LOSSES by the great Boston fire of 1872! Such facts afford the best possible proof of CONSERVATIVE, SUCCESSFUL MANAGEMENT, as well as of the STRONG FAITH of the Public in the STABILITY of the Company!

☞MORAL.—If you want Reliable Insurance, ask for a Policy in the

"OLD PENNSYLVANIA FIRE."

Agencies in all the Principal Cities and Towns in the United States.

THE ATTENTION OF PROPERTY OWNERS IS RESPECTFULLY DIRECTED TO THE OLD

INSURANCE CO. OF NORTH AMERICA,

OF THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA.

"It is Wisdom and Economy to Insure in the Best Companies," and there is None Better than this Veteran of 86 Years Honorable Service, Firmly Established, Safe! Reliable!

Over 350 Fire Insurance Companies in the United States, Failed or Retired from Business in 10 Years,

FROM JANUARY 1, 1870, TO JANUARY 1, 1880!

83 Were Ruined by the Great CHICAGO and BOSTON Fires of 1871-2.

The last Decade was a Period of Unexampled disaster to Insurance Companies--Millions of Dollars of Capital and Assets being swept away.

The History of the "OLD" INSURANCE CO. of NORTH AMERICA during the eventful 10 years just closed—January 1, 1870, to January 1, 1880—is in marked contrast with that of the 350 unfortunate Companies above alluded to. The Salient Points in the History of the "NORTH AMERICA," are:

1.—Increase of Capital Stock from.....$ 500,000.00 to.....$2,000,000.00
2.—Increase of Assets from.....$2,783,580.96 to.....$6,591,740.18
3.—Increase of Net Surplus from.....$1,060,587.95 to.....$2,414,461.51
4.—Increase of Surplus as Regards Policy-holders from.....$1,560,587.05 to.....$4,414,461.51

5.—The prompt payment of the CHICAGO and BOSTON losses of 1871-2, amounting to over $1,600,000, without impairing the Capital of the Company, or calling upon the Stockholders for a Dollar!

6.—The payment of losses in the 10 years, amounting to over $21,400,000—making Total Losses paid since organization, over $17,500,000.

7.—The remarkable fact that at no time during the past 10 years—either before or after the great Chicago and Boston Fires—was a single share of the Company's Stock offered for sale at less than 100 per cent. premium, and is now worth over $3.00 for every $1.00 of par value!

☞The foregoing "Facts and Figures" fittingly illustrate the confidence of the Public in the STABILITY and SUCCESS of the "OLD NORTH AMERICA."

Agencies in all the Principal Cities and Towns in the United States.

THE

EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,

NO. 120 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

GEO. I. BREWSTER,
GENERAL AGENT.

406 MILWAUKEE STREET,

H. W. HAMILTON,
CASHIER.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.

OF INTEREST

TO

LIFE INSURANCE AGENTS.

Men of experience in this business, who can show a successful record, will do well to correspond with Mr. E. W. Scott, Superintendent of Agencies of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, No. 120 Broadway, New York.

It is confidently believed that there is no company in the country for which an agent can work with more profit to himself.

1st. Because it makes liberal contracts, and always lives up to them.

2d. Because it is a firmly established and permanent institution. Its assets securely invested and its immense cash surplus guarantee to every agent who has renewal commissions running the security and permanence of his contract.

3d. Because its managers are constantly on the alert, and give their workers in the field ample material and every facility for the successful prosecution of their business.

4th. Because the agent can offer an incontestable policy, thus furnishing absolute indemnity to the insurer.

5th. Because he can offer a simple and concise policy, containing no unreasonable conditions.

6th. Because he can guarantee that every equitable claim will be settled promptly and in full. [The Society paid in 1879 nearly five million dollars in death claims, dividends, etc., and closed the year without a single contested claim on its books.]

7th. Because of the Society's Tontine Savings Fund policies, many of which are being settled in 1880, on a basis showing larger profits than any other company can exhibit on policies extending over the same period.

8th. Because the Equitable is a progressive company. Its new issues for 1879 amounted to $26,500,000, being an increase in one year of more than five million dollars.

9th. Because it is the most popular company in existence, and one with which the public are ready to insure.

EQUITABLE

Life Assurance Society.

Contract clearly and concisely expressed, No technical conditions

The year closed without a single disputed death claim on the records All just claims paid promptly and in full.

Cash Returns on Tontine Policies.

The two following cases will serve as illustrations of settlements now being made by the society:—

Policy No. 43,563. Issued May 25, 1869. On the life of F. L., of Farmington, Conn

Amount of policy	$10,000 00
Annual Premium	508 00
Total premiums paid during eleven years	5,594 00
The policy holder, having decided to terminate the contract at the end of its Tontine period, draws in cash	6,155 00

Having had $10,000 of assurance for eleven years.

Policy No. 50,526. Issued Jan 8, 1870, on the life of A. G. C., of New York.

Amount of policy	$10,000.00
Annual premium	513 10
The total premiums during the entire period, ten years	5,431 00

On the eighth day of January, 1880, the policy holder had the privilege of terminating the contract and withdrawing $4,960 cash, or taking a paid-up policy for $7,870. He decided, however, to continue the assurance, and his premium for 1881, less the annual dididend, will be under $150.

AGENTS' PUBLISHING HOUSE,

Philadelphia, Penn.

FROM WASHINGTON.

Washington, D. C., April 15th, 1880.

L. LUM SMITH, ESQ.

DEAR SIR:—I have received a copy of the AGENTS' HERALD and Official Supplement, and have no hesitation in commending your enterprise to the careful and continual attention, not only of every Postmaster and the clerks of every Post Office, but of the public generally. The newspaper press can do and is doing much towards putting the ill informed and unsuspecting on their guard against lottery and other kindred frauds, but your plan if fully carried out will do more than all the newspapers together in exposing this species of rascality. It is to be hoped that all Postmasters especially, will give their earnest aid to the enterprise.

Very Respectfully,

HORATIO KING, Ex-Postmaster General.

The AGENTS' HERALD of Philadelphia has had a new head put on it that is a beauty, it is expressive, artistic and just what was needed, the paper is certainly taking on new strength and is coming to the front strong. Laughable series of illustrated episodes, humorously picturing the lives and adventures of agents now occupy the whole of the last page of each issue of which over 100,000 copies are published. The new paper is highly endorsed by the press, and prominent officials in the employ of the U. S. Government. It contains a list of Frauds, carefully corrected by prominent officials in the Post Office Department at Washington, D. C.

There is not a business man or woman in this community who can do without the HERALD, if they wish to keep out of the clutches of city advertising frauds.

For all of this success the energetic proprietor is entitled to the congratulations of all friends of the popular journal. He appears to be the one man created for the business.

Idleness is the curse of the Age and we would urge all ladies and gentlemen out of employment to send for a copy of the AGENTS' HERALD, it is the size of Harper's Weekly and annually puts thousands of deserving people in the way of making a good living.

The editor of the AGENTS' HERALD is also proprietor of the new and beautiful imitation Stained Glass decoration.

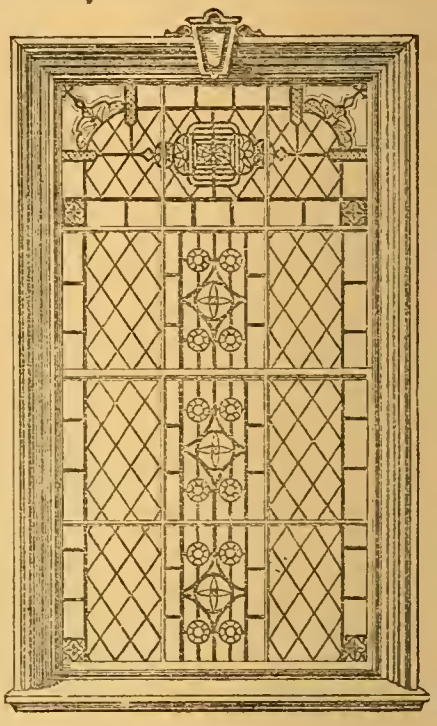
Adorn Your Window with the new Patent

STAINED GLASS Imitation

New, elegant, cheap and durable. Is easily applied, temporarily or permanently, to glass in windows of churches libraries, vestibule doors, transoms, bath rooms, stairways, &c., with the full effect and brilliancy of variously colored stained glass. Curtains and Shades dispensed with. A new, neat, and facinating occupation for ladies and gentlemen in tastefully beautifying their homes, offices, &c. Samples of two styles, each 12x18, mailed with instructions on receipt of 50 cents. Circulars, large illustrated price lists, in colors, etc., free.



PHILA., PA. My windows maintain their beauty and brilliancy, and are as pretty as when decorated over a year ago. M. W. CASE, M. D.

PITTSBURG, PA. We have windows decorated with Imitation Stained Glass at Exposition Building; they look as well as real stained glass, and are much admired. J. P. DIEHL & SON.

FORT SCOTT, KANS. Material for the windows received to-day. I pasted it on the glass, and must confess that I am delighted and more than satisfied with the result. BENJ. HARTLEY, Rector St. Andrews Church.

JERSEY CITY, N. J. I followed instructions and succeeded in making a very handsome window. Send on men and material sufficient to decorate all the windows in the church and Sunday-school room. R. HARCOURT, Pastor Trinity M. E. Church

PADUCAH, KY. Finished the windows at Richmond House yesterday—owners are much pleased Captain David, of Uniontown, says he will guarantee me ten thousand feet at thirty cents per foot, to go home with him and paste the material on the glass. J. RICE WILSON, Canvassing Agent

OCEAN GROVE, N. J., RECORD. L. Lum Smith Esq., of Phila., well sustained his reputation as one of the most enterprising men of the day, in finishing up the job he undertook on the Temple in a highly satisfactory manner on time. When determined by Rev. E. H. Stokes, President of the Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, to adopt this wonderful Imitation Stained Glass for the windows he had but a few days to execute the work and be ready for dedication. Twenty windows were quickly covered, and nothing could exceed the delight with which all the people hailed the effect. The cost was but a trifle, comparatively, but the improvement is splendid. Nobody could tell the difference, either from the exterior or inside, between the finest stained glass and this excellent substitute.

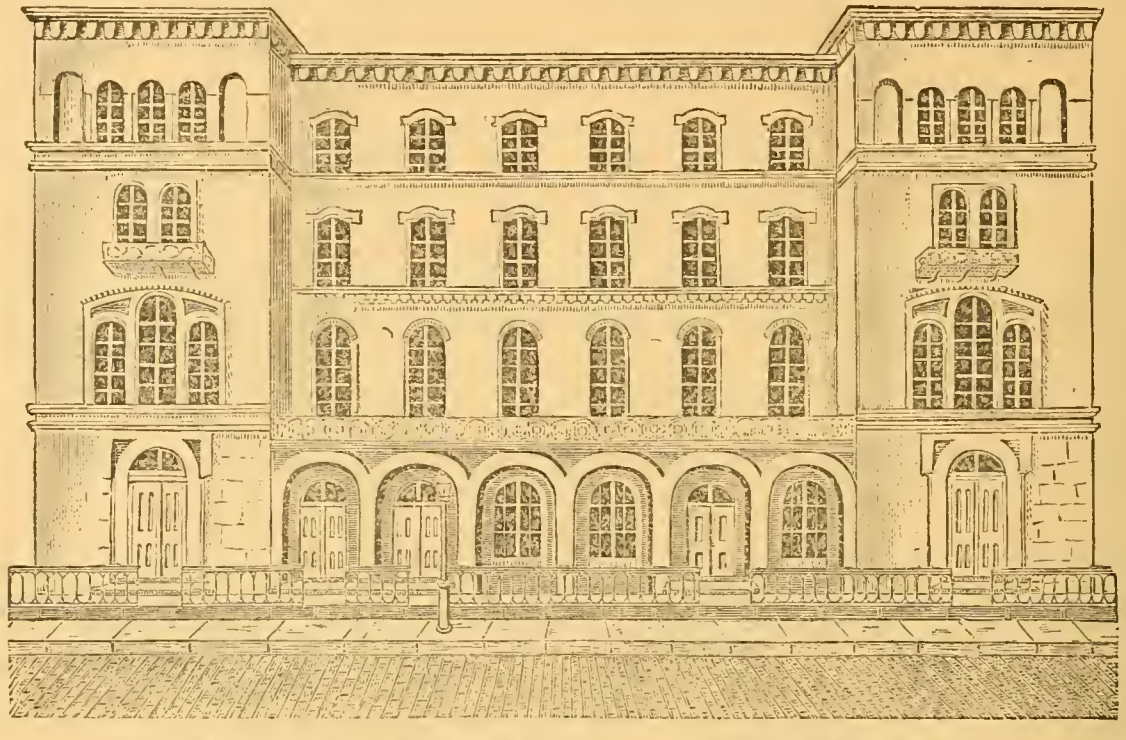
HEALTH IS ESSENTIAL TO HAPPINESS.



THE NEW YORK
MEDICAL AND SURGICAL INSTITUTE
147 FIFTEENTH STREET, N. Y. CITY.

Is a strictly private institution designed expressly for the treatment and cure of all CHRONIC and ACUTE DISEASES by the most approved methods known to modern science.

There are employed at this Institute FOUR PHYSICIANS, each of whom is a specialist and fully understands the diseases which he treats in all their several complications; hence patients coming under their care may rely on having the very best treatment that can be had in this city, and the benefit of the experience of all the physicians in extremely bad cases without extra charge.

We have, therefore, settled down upon the firm ground of experience, where Every Step is Sure; and for over a quarter of a century we have been engaged in the treatment of

Catarrh, Consumption, Asthma, Dyspepsia, Diseases of the Liver, Heart, Kidneys, Bladder, Nervous System, Etc., and Chronic Diseases Generally,

And all forms of disease whether requiring medical, surgical or mechanical treatment, some of the most obstinate and complicated cases, such as many other physicians have despaired of helping, have been fullly and permanently cured at this Institute. We have made a searching investigation into the origin and cause of the various types of NERVOUS DISEASES that afflict mankind, and which arise from an exhausted state of the great nerve centres; and the special and individual influences the various nerve forces exert over every portion of the animal economy. Under this head we find Paralysis, Epilepsy, Brain Troubles, Nervous Debility, Loss of the Procreative Powers, with Organic Weakness, Dyspepsia and other functional disturbances, and we have determined that many obscure nervous diseases, and especially that nervous prostration and exhaustion which, in many cases, originates from imprudent habits in early life, can be speedily and permanently cured by remedies that remove the morbid influence and have specific control over the entire nervous system.

Stricture, Rupture, Bright's Disease of the Kidneys, Prolapsus Uteri, Spinal Disorders and Deformities, all have our attention and are speedily relieved.

We especially invite any who are suffering from any serious disease to send us a statement and we will advise them on the subject free of charge as treatment in most cases can be attended to by correspondence. Address

CHICAGO, ROCK ISLAND & PACIFIC R. R.

IS THE GREAT CONNECTING LINK BETWEEN THE EAST & THE WEST!

Its main line runs from Chicago to Council Bluffs, passing through Joliet, Ottawa, La Salle, Geneseo, Moline, Rock Island, Davenport, West Liberty, Iowa City, Marengo, Brooklyn, Grinnell, Des Moines (the capital of Iowa), Stuart, Atlantic, and Avoca; with branches from Barrett Junction to Peoria; Wilton Junction to Muscatine, Washington, Fairfield, Eldon, Bellknap, Centreville, Princeton, Trenton Gallatin, Cameron, Leavenworth, Atchison and Kansas City; Washington to Sigourney, Oskaloosa, and Knoxville; Keokuk to Farmington, Bonaparte, Bentonsport, Independent, Eldon, Ottumwa, Eddyville, Oskaloosa, Pella, Monroe, and Des Moines; Newton to Monroe; Des Moines to Indianola and Winterset; Atlantic to Lewis and Audubon; and Avoca to Harlan. This is positively the only Railroad, which owns, and operates a through line from Chicago into the State of Kansas.

Through Express Passenger Trains, with Pullman Palace Cars attached, are run each way daily between CHICAGO and PEORIA, KANSAS CITY, COUNCIL BLUFFS, LEAVENWORTH and ATCHISON. Through cars are also run between Milwaukee and Kansas City, via the "Milwaukee and Rock Island Short Line."

The "Great Rock Island" is magnificently equipped. Its road bed is simply perfect, and its track is laid with steel rails.

What will please you most will be the pleasure of enjoying your meals, while passing over the beautiful prairies of Illinois and Iowa, in one of our magnificent Dining Cars that accompany all Through Express Trains. You get an entire meal, as good as is served in any first-class hotel, for seventy-five cents.

Appreciating the fact that a majority of the people prefer separate apartments for different purposes (and the immense passenger business of this line warranting it), we are pleased to announce that this Company runs Pullman Palace Sleeping Cars for sleeping purposes, and Palace Dining Cars for eating purposes only. One other great feature of our Palace Cars is a SMOKING SALOON where you can enjoy your "Havana" at all hours of the day.

Magnificent Iron Bridges span the Mississippi and Missouri rivers at all points crossed by this line, and transfers are avoided at Council Bluffs, Kansas City, Leavenworth, and Atchison, connections being made in Union Depots.

THE SOLDIERS REUNION ROSTER---CONCLUSION.

THE BUSINESS PART.

It seemed to your executive committee there was a very general demand for publication of a roster of your names.

To issue an edition of 5,000 volumes the size and contents of this, required an expenditure of money exceeding that number of dollars—the book paper alone costing in cash half that amount, while the preparing, printing, postage letters, cards, circulars, telegrams, express, freights, insurance, clerks, copyists, assistants, etc., cost more than as much again. We could not consent the book should cost you to exceed one dollar.

Many of you were in business, business that you advertised, and it was deemed best to break the expense of the book to you, by inviting business men favorable to the project to insert their announcements. This you will notice has been done, you have twice as large and twice as good a book and more of them, than you could have had without their aid, and at half the cost. Don't forget this. The men who have so aided you, are classed among the best business men of the country. If they find it pays to do this, they will lift again and again, and the road to future issues is open and comparatively clear to those of you who may succeed the present committee. This finance question is the important one in all projects. Fix this solid, and we can shake, hurrah, tip back in our chair, elevate our feet, and yarn it with clear conscience, and patriotic gusto.

Your present committee steps down and out on the eighth of June. Some of you will be elected to succeed us, and not only for their benefit especially, but for advantage of us all. we wish to make the following suggestions and impress upon you their importance:

When any of us want to buy anything, look within this roster and see if it is adve . If so, patronize those who have in this way patronized us. It is not claimed that all the good, solid and patriotic business men or firms have advertised with us—the others when they find it pays will come in next time—nor is it at empted to make this an arbitrary classification; but it is a good rule, as a matter of sentiment, to remember those who remember us. In this, a matter of business, the business men will give us unlimited patronage hereafter if we prove to them pays to do so. If we, as soldiers, will hitch our interests to the business interests of the State, the success of our Association is guaranteed. Let us do this, not as begging for favors, but yielding value for value, and the published records of our Association will be standard, and spa. therein sought for far and near.

THE LAST WORD.

This is the last page of the book, hastily written after the others were in type and placed here for convenience. There are two different rosters, running in same regimental order. The first commences on page 7, ending on page 223. The other commencing on page 275. The index will be found conveniently arranged.

A name not found in its place in one or the other had not been received up to May 20th, 1889. Names and addresses received hereafter will be sent to the Milwaukee Sunday Telegraph for publication in its weekly Soldier Chapters, so that by noteing in this roster any corrections or new addresses there given, the book can be maintained continuously complete and available.

No one can be more grieved at errors and omissions which will doubtless be found herein than the compiler.

Two serious unforeseen events rendered it impossible to put in some of the interesting sketches prepared and intended for the roster. MR. DARWIN C. PAVY, who has had the general supervision of the compilation, since adjournment of the legislature, was suddenly called away from his labors, the middle of May, and a disastrous fire in one of the manufacturing establishments in which the writer was largely interested occurring at the same time, threw more than double duty on the publishers, a duty they most heroicly performed, regardless of hours or days, running continuously without intermission day and night and Sundays, to complete the work, and only omitting some sketches which would otherwise have been inserted.

On the whole, as one becomes acquainted with the volume, especially if he considers the brief space of time allowed to compile, he may draw consolation from Maud Muller's lament, "it might have been"—worse.

THE BANNER COMPANY.—The NIAGARA Fire Insurance Company is entitled to the credit of having made the largest relative gain in surplus of any of the New York fire companies last year. Its Annual statement shows that over and above all liabilities, the Company has a surplus in amount equal to its cash capital. In other words, the Niagara has not only $500,000 of capital, but another clear $500,000 besides, after providing for all policy liabilities. This Indicates A GAIN IN SURPLUS of some $40,000 during 1879, in spite of all the fires and the prevalent demoralization in the business and conclusively proves that conservatism and skill are at the helm. The Niagara was the first New York Fire Company to enter the agency field, and at its present rate of progress gives promise of being one of the last that should leave that field. For of such companies we have none too many.
